A son was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lingie, tenants on the Spieker farm, west of Old Fort. Mrs. Lingie is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Grove, of Centre Hall.

A double porch is being built to the front of the private residence section of the Centre Hall hotel, which will be a great convenience and comfort to the occupants. C. E. Flink and family.

Mrs. Sude Mortlock, of Lincoln, Nebraska, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Mary Stahl, near Centre Hall. Mrs. Mortlock will be remembered as Miss Skille Crawford, formerly of Potters Mills.

During a part of last week Mrs. P. A. Lester entertained her daughter, Mrs. Charles Meninger, and grandson, Clifford Meninger, of Altoona. The family moved from Lewistown to Altoona but a short time ago. Mr. Meninger is employed by the Independent Oil Company.

William Arney and Mrs. Arney, of Lewisburg, where the former is a Pennysylvanian in the station, are contemplating spending their vacation in Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Arney is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Arney, of Centre Hall, and took his first lessons in railroading under Agent W. Frank Bradford in the station here.

To avoid hitting a car that had suddenly stopped ahead of him, Edward Durst ran his Willys Knight sedan into a ditch where it upset. The accident happened on the Bald Eagle road on Friday, as he was on his way to a funeral. In the car with him were his mother, Mrs. Alice Durst, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Elmer Royer, none of whom were injured, nor was the car damaged except that one of the fenders was badly bent.

The Reformed Sunday school in Centre Hall, on Sunday morning, will be conducted by four of its young people who have been at Camp Kenesa-take, the tri-county Sunday school camp. The young people are Fay Bradford and Alma Lutz, who have had two years training and Lenora Foust and Bruce Knarr, who are yearlings. They are all members of the Sunday school they will have charge of, and while no program has been announced, the young people will put into practice the methods and means taught them so far as they can be made to apply here.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant A. Speer, of Coraopolis, accompanied by a number of friends, camped at Stow-Rock lodge, in Seven Mountains, during the past two weeks. All are from the Pittsburgh district. Mr. and Mrs. Speer and several others of the party attended the Lutheran Sunday school. Mr. Speer devotes a part of his time to tuning pipe organs, Stow-Rock lodge is located on the Krize property, on the first road leading west after passing through Potters Mills, and is the most elaborate lodge in the Seven Mountain region.

A call from George C. Sechler, of Los Angeles, California, on Monday morning, was highly appreciated by the Reporter. Mr. Sechler brought with him an introduction from W. W. Boob, manager of the Auto Equipment Company, of Los Angeles, a former resident here, who is reported by Mr. Sechler to have been prospering and in good spirits when he left the Western coast in May. On a visit to Mr. Boob's relatives in Aaronsburg and Millheim, he was informed that he had recently been a sufferer from a slight paralytic stroke and that other complications had arisen, all of which the Reporter regrets to chronicle. Mr. Sechler, back in 1868, was an apprentice in the Jacob Harpster blacksmith shop. From there he went west, finally locating in Los Angeles where he is now connected with the city engineering department. On his return home he will take with him his sister, Mrs. Margaret Riley, of State College, widow of the late Associate Judge Thomas Riley, long a resident of Boalsburg.

Paul Shreckengast, of Dallas Texas, is at the home of his father, H. E. Shreckengast, in Centre Hall, where he will remain until the end of the week. He is employed by the Patterson Produce Company, a concern doing an extensive business in shipping poultry to the larger cities of the North. Mr. Shreckengast is now on his way to New York City, and from there will go to Chicago, to arrange preliminaries for the shipment of turkeys for Thanksgiving and Christmas to those cities. The fact that his company shipped six hundred car loads of poultry to New York City last year and twice as many the year before indicates the enormity of the poultry business in the South. Turkeys were a poor crop last year, but this year the birds are doing fine. The principal loss turkey growers experience throughout Texas is having them swallowed by the earth. During dry weather the earth opens to a depth of several feet and into these crevices the young birds fall and as a rule it is their end. This year there has been sufficient moisture to prevent the cracking of the top soil and as a consequence the turkey crop will be large. It is seldom that dews fall in that region and that is as helpful to turkey growing as the cracking of the soil is detrimental. Mr. Shreckengast relates that Ma Ferguson made a good governor, and brought the treasury of the State out of bankruptcy; established country schools and built miles of good road. He told many interesting incidents of Texas politics and described the antics of nature during a hail storm experienced by Dallas. A single hail stone weighed one and three-fourth pounds.

Robert Keller and sister, Miss Catharine Keller, and the latter's friend, Charles Charters, all of the Pittsburgh district, drove to Centre Hall last week, and until Sunday were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Mitterling. The Kellers are children of the late Peter F. Keller, and formerly lived in Centre Hall.

The Ladies of the Golden Eagle will hold a festival on the public school grounds, Saturday evening, August 2nd. The organization is an active one and will have everything lined up to afford a pleasant evening to all who attend the gathering. Cake walks will be a feature. Music will be furnished by a brass band.

Mrs. R. S. Boal, of Juniata, was at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Meiss, at Colyer, returning home Wednesday, and that evening she and Mr. Boal started on their vacation which will be spent in Philadelphia and other points. Mr. Boal is a boilermaker in the Juniata railroad shops and well earns the annual vacation granted him.

K. C. Raup, employed by the Bell Telephone company since 1889, was put on the retired list and pensioned. He was manager of the Williamsport district when retired. Mr. Raup was one of the Bell representatives in the various conferences held with the Bell people when the Patrons Rural Telephone Company was organized, and aided in shaping actions of the two companies that finally permitted the very liberal contract of the Bell company to be accepted.

Wm. J. Finkle and Mrs. Finkle, of Buffalo, N. Y., were visitors in Centre Hall during last week. One of the places at which they stopped to see relatives was Centre Hall, with Mrs. Finkle's sister, Mrs. J. H. McCool. They were winding up an auto tour of 1500 miles which included the Sequel, Washington, D. C., points in Maryland and Virginia. Mr. Finkle is a miller. He served his apprenticeship in the mill at Spring Mills, under the Allison and later under lease operated the Fredericks mill at Furners Mills, then owned by the Fishers. He has been employed for some years in the Washburn-Crosby flouring mill at Buffalo, the largest of a number of mills conducted by this big firm. One may get some idea of the immensity of their operations when it is said that the Buffalo mill alone converts into flour from 90,000 to 100,000 bushels of wheat a day. The capacity of the mill is 20,000 barrels of flour, and this output is maintained daily.
