The American Youth and Teacher Award was established by the Board of Directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia as a tribute to the youth and teachers of the nation. DEATHS

KERN.—After an illness of several weeks from heart trouble, Oscar Lewis Kern died at the home of his son, three miles south of Aaronsburg, aged 76 years, 8 months and 14 days. Interment was made Tuesday at Rebersburg. There survive the deceased his wife, who has been an invalid for some years, and a son, Clyde Kern. The deceased during his active life was a farmer and lived in Brush Valley.

The Seven Mountain Highway. Aside from the delays due to wet weather experienced the first half of September, the pouring of concrete and excavating for the concrete ribbon pavement over Seven Mountains is progressing nicely. Concrete has now been poured to a point close to the curve. Prior to pouring the concrete around the curve, terra-cotta drain pipes will be laid and this is now being done.

The "Devil's Elbow" has been very much eased, and has been drawn out to 1500 feet, thirty feet wide, super-elevated one inch to the foot. To accomplish this a vast deal of work was required. First a deep cut and then a fill. From this point on the bridge over the little stream coming down Cox's Valley, much material has been moved.

The contractors are confident the road will be finished before December.

Musical Comedies at the Richelieu.

Beginning Monday and continuing through the entire week, both in the afternoons and evenings, musical comedy companies will appear on the Richelieu stage before each of the regular pictures. The musical comedy feature introduced by the Richelieu management during last week was so enthusiastically received and so well patronized that the afternoon performances have been adopted. There will be three complete changes of program, beginning Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Every picture to be shown is guaranteed high class, maintaining the Richelieu standard of excellence. $15,000,000 for Presbyterian Pensions. The campaign in the Huntingdon Presbytery for the new pension plan of the Presbyterian Church will be carried on from October 15th to 30th. The service pension plan will moderate pensions for Presbyterian ministers, missionaries and their dependents. Although it will be self-supporting in 15 years, the pensions being paid from a fund made up of small annual payments by the individual ministers and their churches, $15,000,000 is necessary to provide for those retiring during this period.

During the past two weeks corn very materially ripened and many fields are now ready to be put into shock. The scant hay crop will induce many farmers to make the best possible use of the corn stalks for provender.

A peculiar spectacle was presented Tuesday evening between six and seven o'clock to those who viewed Penns Valley from Nittany Mountain. Several blotches of fog lay over several sections, covering an area of but a few farms. The fog had the appearance of great white blankets, with straight edges, lying close to the ground, scarcely reaching as high as the house tops. One blotch lay west and north of Tusseyville, and the other on the north side of the valley a bit farther west.

POTTERS MILLS.

Mrs. David Lingle, while helping her husband to operate a wood saw attached to a gasoline engine, had the misfortune to get her arm too close to the saw and had three ugly gashes saved in her arm. It required fourteen stitches to close them.

28TH DIVISION OFFICERS DEDICATE TABLET AT BOALSBURG

More Than 100 Members of Club Attended Ceremonies in Honor of Col. James Shannon, Killed in Argonne—Fisher is Guest.

More than 100 members of the Twenty-eighth Division Officers Club gathered at Boal Camp, Boalsburg, on Saturday and Sunday for their annual fall reunion and for the dedication of a tablet to the memory of one of their number killed in action in France. John S. Fisher, of Indiana, Republican nominee for Governor and a former member of the Pennsylvania National Guard, was a guest of honor at the reunion dinner Saturday at the camp mess hall. Jules Henry, secretary of the French Embassy at Washington, was also a guest. The clubhouse and a dozen tents housed the members and the gathering was one of the largest in the history of the club. Major General William H. Hay, U. S. A., retired, is chairman of the Club Committee that arranged for the erection of a tablet to the memory of Colonel James Shannon, killed in action while in command of the 112th Regiment of the 28th Division, in the Argonne on October 3, 1918. It is the fourth monument of its kind to be erected on the Boalsburg camp site.

The principal addresses at the dedication ceremony on Sunday were given by Major General Charles E. Muir, former commander of the 28th in France; General Hanson Ely, now head of the War College, and General Charles B. Smathers, 112th Regiment. General Wm. G. Price, president of the Officers Club and N. G. P. commander, presided at the dedication ceremonies and General Hay also spoke.

A meandering stream flows through the beautiful little grove where the 28th officers have started a series of monuments bearing tablets to the memory of their comrades. It is located just outside of Boalsburg, toward State College, near the foot of "Bald Top" in the Tussey Mountain range. Native limestone has been used to erect monuments, and a high stone wall will surround the present shafts in a semi-circle and eventually will bear tablets commemorating each of the 115 division officers who made the supreme sacrifice while attached to the famous 28th.

The most recent and imposing of the monuments now in place is that dedicated last Memorial Day to Brigadier General Edward H. Sigfers, the only general officer of the division killed in action, who fell at the foot of a roadside cross in the village of Montblainville in the Argonne on September 20, 1918. The cross itself, sent as a gift of the residents of the French village, is mounted on top of the pillar of stone that carries the tablet. Other monuments are to the memory of Lieut. Col. Wallace W. Fetzer, 190th Infantry, who fell at Fresno, July 28, 1918, and Major Thomas D. Anderson, 110th Infantry, killed near Saaleux, Sept. 5, 1918.

Among those who attended the annual reunion were Auditor General Edward Martin, General Edward C. Shannon, commander of the Fifty-second Cavalry, and staff; Colonel Henry Coulter and Colonel Theodore Davis Boal, all directors of the club. Adjutant General Frank D. Beary and Lieutenant Governor David J. Davis, the latter as the official representative of Governor Pinchot; General Robert M. Brookfield, commander of the 56th Infantry Brigade, and General Churchill B. Mehard, of the 53rd Artillery, and staff were also present for the reunion and dedication. Major Leo Luttinger, of the State Arsenal, arrived with assistants on Thursday and set up the camp and made all local arrangements for the reunion.

Among others present were: Col. Sidney A. Hagerling, signal officer, of Philadelphia, and staff; Col. James E. Finley, 111th Infantry, and staff; Col. Jackson W. Study, 103rd Engineers, and staff; Col. Eric F. Wood, 101st Field Artillery, and staff; Col. Fred T. Pussey, Judge Advocate, Philadelphia; Col. Wm. S. McLean, 109th Field Artillery, and staff; Col. Arthur C. Colahan, 103rd Cavalry, with Col. John W. Converse and staff; Col. Clarence J. Smith, Altoona, and staff; Col. Blanton Winship, 212th Coast Artillery, United States Army, formerly commander of one of the 28th Division regiments; Col. Wm. A. March, 108th Field Artillery, and staff; Col. Edward M. Hand, 103rd Medical Regiment, and staff; Col. R. M. Vail, 190th Infantry, and staff; Col. Laurence H. Watres, 190th Infantry, and staff; Col. Frank A. McHenry; Col. W. H. Zierst; Col. Frank P. Schoonmaker, 112th Infantry, and staff; Lieut. Col. Wm. S. Fleming, 104th Cavalry, and staff; Major George P. Drake and Captain A. H. Slow Through Fog, Please.

The Pennsylvania Motor Federation suggests to all automobile drivers that they be particularly careful when driving in fog.

"The season of the year has come when fog is encountered almost nightly," says the Federation. "Some drivers make the mistake of using only their dim lights. They cannot see any better with dimmers, and they increase the risk of head-on collisions. For their own safety, and the safety of others, they should use their headlamps. To tie white handkerchiefs over the headlights increases the visibility somewhat; to use orange colored cloths is even better. This precaution stops all direct unreflected light, which otherwise would illuminate the particles clouding the atmosphere, and reflect back into the eyes of the driver. No device, however, is a complete success against fog. Only thoughtless or ignorant drivers attempt to drive rapidly through fog. Caution is the only real accident preventative."

Friday and Saturday are McClure (Snyder county) bean soup days.
