W. I. BETTS DESERVES RETURN TO SENATE

Democratic Nominee, Seeking Re-election, Has Had a Fine Record—Represents All that is Clean.

Speaking of the candidacy of Senator William I. Betts of Clearfield county, Democratic nominee for election, has had a fine record in the office of State Senator from this district, Centre and Clearfield counties have never been better represented in the State Senate than during the past three years.

He was on the job every day and looked after the interest of his constituents, regardless of politics, in every responsible behalf. Much of the good roads extension in the two counties since January, 1923, is due to Senator Betts' untiring efforts. William I. Betts has been a worthwhile public servant and deserves re-election. He was unanimously re-nominated by the Democrats of the district.

The following brief biography speaks well of this man who the Democrats have offered to oppose Harry Scott, of Phillipsburg, the Republican nominee. William I. Betts was born at Clearfield June 3, 1870, of American-Colonial ancestors, his father being the late W. W. Betts, of Clearfield, and his mother, Margaret J. Irvin, of Curwensville. Mr. Betts' grandfather on his father's side, the Rev. Frederic G. Betts, lived at Boalsburg, Centre county, being employed as a clerk at the iron furnaces about 1825, while he was working and earning the necessary money to complete his education for the Presbyterian ministry. His grandfather on his mother's side, William Irvin, who he is named for, was born in Penns Valley, Centre county, in 1801. William I. Betts was educated in the public schools of Clearfield, at Greenwich, Conn., and at Peckskill, N. Y. At the age of 18, desiring to enter into active business life, he refused the opportunity of a college education and entered the office of his father, W. W. Betts. At the outbreak of the war in 1917, feeling it to be his duty to give up all his business interests in order to devote all of his time and energy to war work, he accepted the executive chairmanship of the Liberty Loan Committee of Clearfield county and Phillipsburg, which chairmanship Mr. Betts held until going to France, but remained on the Executive Committee and continued through the Victory Liberty Loan Drive. He was an active member of the Executive Committee of the Clearfield Chapter of the American Red Cross, was on the Executive Committee for public safety of Clearfield county, one of the four "minute men" of the Committee of Public Information, member of the Executive Committee United War Work (Campaign), member of the American Defense Society, served as chairman of the United States war savings committee of Clearfield, chairman of the First Salvation Army Home service drive for Clearfield county. Becoming engaged in war work, he gave up family ties, business interests and profits, and went to France in the service of the Y. M. C. A., refusing to accept any pay or salary for his services and paying all his own expenses while in the service. He served with the 37th (Buckeye) Division which saw active service in the Argonne until invalided home. Mr. Betts believed religiously in the duty of the older man for the younger man and followed this theory by the acceptance of his first presidency of the Clearfield Council Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Betts also organized, many years ago, the first systematic giving of Christmas baskets to those in need, regardless of creed or color, in Clearfield and vicinity and the system is still in full operation. Mr. Betts keeps on his desk and always carries with him his favorite motto, "I shall pass through this world but once. If, therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do, let me do it now; let me not defer it or neglect it; for I shall not pass this way again." He was elected burgess of Clearfield in 1907.

From young manhood Mr. Betts has been closely identified with the growth and development of Clearfield county, having fostered many enterprises and endeavors, all of which have added to the material growth and wealth of that county.

Mr. Betts was born and reared in Clearfield, and, although his varied business interests have been widely scattered, requiring considerable of his time in other states, he has spent practically his entire life in the place of his birth, with the exception of two years spent in Philadelphia, where as a young man, his business interests required his presence. His interest has always been first for the welfare and movements in his community and state.

From the above brief sketch it will be noticed that Mr. Betts was a man

SCHOOL PROBLEM SETTLED.

Educational Department's Definition of "Convenient" as Meaning Distance Only When Used in School Code Simplifies Tangle.

The word "convenient," as used in the school code, was defined differently by patrons of various school districts in Potter township than it is by the Educational Department of the State. For many years school children living near Centre Hall have had the privilege of attending the borough graded schools, the tuition being paid by the Potter township school board. The word "convenient" was construed to mean most anything but distance. The State Educational Department says "convenient" applies to distance only. The school children from a number of farm homes near the borough attended school here for several generations, because school boards determined that the schools here were the most "convenient" to them, regardless of distance.

The steady rise in school tuition, not only here but everywhere, probably had a large influence in stirring up the question of privilege under the accepted definition of "convenience," not meaning distance alone. As a result the Potter township school board refused to pay tuition for any children attending school in the borough unless the distance from their home to a township school was over one and one-half miles, the measurement to begin at the public road where lane or driving from residence intersect.

The refusal of Potter township to proceed from its former policy forced the borough school board to proceed to collect from individuals. The result was institution of suits, and these terminated favorable to the borough school board. The individuals in Potter township interested appealed to the State Department of Education. The Department referred the question to county superintendent of schools, F. Glenn Rogers, who met the school boards and citizens at the Earlstown school one evening last week. The legal side of the question at issue was carefully gone over by him and the school code bearing on the subject explained. Of course, he was obliged to uphold the Department's definition of "convenience" as used in the school code, to mean distance alone.

The result of the suits and conference is that a number of pupils, children of Potter township citizens, who long enjoyed the educational facilities of the Centre Hall borough graded schools, will be obliged to attend the school within the distance of one and one-half miles from their respective homes, regardless of the fact that the borough schools may be reached within a less distance.

It is understood that pupils entitled to high school privileges are not included in the "convenience" ruling of distance.

$1,100,000 Road Contracts.

Contracts were let for a stretch of road of twenty-nine miles between Lock Haven through Renovo to Keating, totaling $1,100,000. The contracting parties are Wm. C. Horn Company, $647,117.75, and Miller Construction Company, $452,882.25.

"Vare Is a Scare."

Writing the Reporter under date of October 7th, Dr. Alfred Beirly, doctor of music, Philadelphia, says: "Don't overlook the fact that Pennsylvania must elect a Democratic Governor and U. S. Senator this year. Vare is a Scare. Will Never Get There!"

Missionary Conference at Lemont.

A missionary conference will be held in the Spring Creek Presbyterian church, Lemont, on Friday, October 15th, morning and afternoon sessions. The missionary societies of Big Grove Mills, Boalsburg and Centre Hall are invited to attend, as it is a district convention. All persons interested in missions as well as all others are invited to attend.

William S. Vare, John S. Fisher, Arthur S. James, James Fleming Woodward, Republican candidates respectively for U. S. senator, governor, lieutenant governor, and secretary of internal affairs, were entertained yesterday (Wednesday) by Col. Theodore Davis Boal, at his country home at Boalsburg. No reception was held. Col. Boal met the party at Lock Haven, leaving there in the afternoon. This (Thursday) morning the party was met at Boalsburg by Dr. A. D. Cowdrick, who conveyed them to DuBois, where a reception was held at 11 o'clock. Except for the visit to Boalsburg, Centre county Republicans were entirely ignored. Of course they had an invitation to be at the Morrisdale ox roast this (Thursday) afternoon.

of many and varied activities. He is not a visionary idealist and theorist, but a practical, energetic, capable man who has attained a high degree of success in his numerous business enterprises. During the World War he gave his time, effort and means, while many other men were proffering and amassing huge fortunes, the nomination for State senate was extended him without opposition; it was a call to duty—for public service. The Keystone State, at this time, has need for men like Mr. Betts in the Senate. He is "clean as a whistle," has had wide experience, has proven his capacity in numerous activities, stands for clean politics and good government, is free from taint and above corruption—a Christian man, a patriot—and an ideal citizen.

MERCHANT MEISS SELLS OUT

Store, Store House, Dwelling House and Twenty Acres of Land Go to Harry S. Goodyear, of Wilkingsburg.

It was forty-five years ago that George R. Meiss entered the role of merchant at Colyer—it was in 1881, before George became a benedict. He began business in what is now the warehouse of his present good business quarters. The beginning was small, of course, but many small businesses have grown to larger and larger proportions. The building then belonged to the late William Colyer, for whom the local post was named. About 1887 Mr. Meiss sold his store goods to John Glasgow & Son, and built for himself a store room on Zion Hill. After doing business there for a short time he sold his store goods to John H. Runkle, Mr. Meiss in the meantime having married, moved to Bear Swamp, below Farmers Mills and engaged in huckstering. It was only a brief time until he came back to Zion Hill, opened a store, which was sold to Jacob Smith, father of J. Frank Smith. Mr. Meiss had turned to farming, having purchased the William Farm from the Allen farm, above Colyer. He was not contented on the farm. Upon the death of Jacob Smith, his son, J. Frank Smith, located in Centre Hall, and then Mr. Meiss again began business at Zion Hill.

Prior to this Reuben Boyer came up the country and began business as a merchant at Colyer. He continued until 1899 when business misfortune overtook him. Mr. Meiss then purchased the store house, dwelling house and land from Mr. Colyer and again occupied the place, continuing there until 1907, when he sold to Walter Copenhaver, of Pittsburg. Mr. Copenhaver did business there for two years, during which time Mr. Meiss lived in a small house west of the store, which dwelling was destroyed by fire. Just previous to this Mr. Meiss had purchased the Mrs. Fanny Colyer farm, the dwelling house on which had also been burned. Upon moving there he rebuilt the house, and then sold the place to Howard Langie. This was in 1909. At this time he again opened business at Colyer and continued uninterrupted to the present. The only business transaction of importance outside the store business was the purchase of the Colyer farm, in the mountain and its sale to D. L. Geary.

Since 1909 the Colyer business stand was materially improved. The store room was enlarged and remodeled, and is now a very desirable country store room. The dwelling house has also been improved, and today presents a most pleasant appearance.

Mr. Goodyear expects to take possession of the place some time in November. He contemplates removing the barn and in its stead erect a garage and install one or more gas tanks. The automobile feature will be taken care of by his son-in-law.

Holmes Car Sales.

W. R. Hosterman, the local garage and car salesman, last week sold three new cars—a Nash coupe to Fred Raymond, Centre Hall; Dodge sedan to Harry Leitell, Millheim, and Dodge coupe to Frank White, Penna. Cave.

E. M. Smith, the auctioneer, is devoting some of his time to looking up prospects and closing deals for Mr. Hosterman.

HOLMES FOR PENNS VALLEY—6.

Zero represents all that the Honorable J. Laird Holmes ever did for the good of Penns Valley while a member of the legislature or before. He has had a number of opportunities to show the people of Penns Valley that he represents them at the State Capital, but to date there is no record of performance.

A movement has been on for a number of years to have the road between Centre Hall and Linden Hall and on west taken over for improvement by the State, but our Mr. Holmes cannot show that he ever made a single move to accomplish it. This road is known as the Earlstown road and would be of great service if built by the State.

A committee was appointed by some self-constituted road organization to bring to the attention of the State Highway Department the particular need of this particular road. Mr. Holmes, we think, was made a member of it. Not a single move was made in behalf of the Earlstown road, although it was boasted that had it not been for two distinguished gentlemen of Republican faith the road from State College via Waddle to the Bald Eagle concrete trail would not have been accepted by the State. Pinchot in a statement said the boast of these men was all bunk; that they had no hand in its selection. No names were mentioned by the Governor, but it was meant to tell the people of Centre county that Mr. Holmes and Mr. Scott were alluded to.

Again, when the building of the concrete road over Seven Mountains was under discussion, Mr. Holmes' voice was unheard. And again when the advantages of the Cox's Valley route were up for discussion at a hearing in Harrisburg before Mr. Connell, Mr. Holmes was conveniently absent. He could not even be found by friends. He ignored the entire delegation from Centre county, nearly all of whom were Republicans.

And so zero represents all Mr. Holmes ever did for the south side of Centre county out in the legislature.

AT THE STAR STORE.

Just arrived at the Star Store, 1200 yards of Sheetting; 10 yards for $1.25. Get yours now.—Charles L. Cupples, Proprietor.

FILLING AUSTIN'S SHOES.

A regiment of Republicans have filed their applications to become the successor of Mr. Austin, who through death created a vacancy on the board of county commissioners. He was the minority member of the board and his successor will serve the unexpired term, which ends January, 1927.

Judge Keller, who has the appointing power, on Monday went to Michigan, and it is understood will be out of town for a week or ten days. By the time he returns the local Republican leaders are in hopes sentiment will crystallize—one or two of the now dim stars showing lustre above the others. At this writing no one seems to have a lead, unless it is Fred B. Healey, former deputy warden at Rockview Pen, under Warden John Pinchot. He was ousted when Pinchot blew a hot breath over the institution. Healey is a minor court officer, an appointee of Judge Keller, and when he was named his rivals said he had never warmed any other than an official seat in Centre county. The fact that he was fired by Pinchot may be an asset in counting merits on his side.

The Democratic members of the board of county commissioners, Messrs. Spearly and Swabb, are not likely to recognize a courtesy offer on the part of Judge Keller to recommend one of the numerous applicants. To do so would be discourteous on the part of the commissioners and receive no consideration by the appointive power.

This appointment is wholly an affair Republicans will settle. Of course, those who sit close to the court will have an ear full to pour out.

Shipping Apple Logs.

A car load of apple logs are being gathered for shipment from Old Fort landing by E. H. Zimmerman, of Millheim. The latter part of last week several truck loads of logs were secured from an old orchard now owned by E. T. Noll, west of Centre Hall. Later a car load will be gathered in the Valley for shipment from Bellefonte. The logs are shipped in the rough to the Diston people for use in making tool handles of various descriptions.

Later Mr. Zimmerman will have his crew of men working in Bedford county and will cover the region as far south as Cumberland, Maryland.

The Maine hunting party left Centre Hall last Thursday morning at 2:30 o'clock. Because of pressing business, Walter R. Hosterman was unable to accompany the party, and his place was taken by Frank V. Goodhart, the personnel of the party is: W. W. Kerlin, Edgar Miller, F. V. Goodhart, Roy Mark of Centre Hall, and Dr. Austin of Bellefonte. The trip is being made in Mr. Kerlin's Packard sedan. The objective point is North-east Maine and the object in view, deer and bear. The party will be gone two weeks.

A Word to Motorists.

The re-opening of schools throughout the country has taken place and with it there are coming into notice an increased number of accidents to children, through being struck by motor cars.

All motorists must exercise the greatest care not to injure children. Their lives and limbs are invaluable. If they seem to act carelessly and heedlessly, let the motorist use extra care to offset that carelessness. The child mind does not and cannot function in the precautionary way that an adult's can. Its judgment as to distance and speed are often wrong. So when the little ones are crossing the street, or highway, just slow up the old machine until you are certain there cannot be any chance for an accident.

COMMISSIONER AUSTIN DEAD.

End Came Thursday Morning After Operation for Appendicitis Monday Previous in Centre County Hospital.

Harry P. Austin, the Republican member of the Board of Commissioners of Centre county, died in the Centre County hospital, Thursday morning of last week at 11:35. He had just returned from the State conference of county commissioners held in Philadelphia, when he was stricken with appendicitis. Monday afternoon previous to his death he was taken to the Centre County hospital and operated on late that night. The operation revealed that the appendix had already sluffed off and the liberated pus caused peritonitis to develop which caused his death.

Deceased was born in Huntingdon county fifty-seven years ago and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Austin. When but a boy the family moved to Howard, this county, and later to Milesburg, where both father and son were employed in the McCoy Linn iron works. Later he entered the employ of the lime industry and worked in the late A. G. Morter. He was elected County Commissioner, in 1919. In 1923 he was re-elected to the Board and was serving his second term when he died.

Mr. Austin is survived by his wife, who was Miss Mollie Smith, of Milesburg, and two daughters, Miss Mabel at home and Miss Catherine, in Altoona.

The body was interred in the cemetery at the Advent church, near Milesburg, Baptist and Presbyterian ministers officiating. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon and was largely attended.

The error occurred in an article appearing in this paper last week.

"The Book of Knowledge," in twenty volumes, has been placed in the Centre Hall grade schools for reference purposes. It is encyclopaedic in nature, but edited in such a way that the smallest child can easily grasp the text.

Wednesday night of last week this section was without electric light between the hours of 3:00 P. M. and 5:00 A. M., due to the transformer shorting. The result was a new transformer had to be installed, which required the efforts of several men for most of the time between the hours mentioned Centre Hall was in darkness.

Persons who some time before the abandonment of the Millheim-Coburn turnpike refused to pay toll at the Coburn gate have now received notice from Justice of the Peace Cyrus Brungart, of Centre Hall, to come across. Some of the accounts now in the hands of the justice are said to amount to over two hundred dollars each.

The "Edgetone" gasoline station located at Axemann, was sold by Bond White, the owner since its establishment several years ago, to A. L. Johnson, of State College. The consideration was $20,000. Mr. Johnson assumed immediate possession of the station which is located at an advantageous point along the road midway between Bellefonte and Pleasant Gap.

The slag at the Collins furnace site, at Coleville near Bellefonte, is to be converted into brick by E. Zimmerman, a State College contractor. The plant is to be in operation before mid-winter. An effort was made by Mr. Zimmerman to secure the pile of slag along the State highway this side of Bellefonte, but for some reason he could not do so, and then decided to put a plant at the place first named.

In last week's issue of the Reporter mention was made that T. E. Jordan had the misfortune to have a cow die for him just prior to holding his last sale at the Mitterling barn in Centre Hall. This was bad enough, but after the sale two more cows died, making a total of sixteen cows to die for him during the present year. Miss Mary McQuiston, of Bellefonte, will spend the winter in California. She will leave in November, the only stop planned is in Colorado, where she has relatives.

The names of the persons composing the gang which had been systematically killing deer with spot lights between Pine Grove Mills and Coburn, mention of which was made in last week's issue, were revealed by the game wardens who handled the case. Those found guilty were E. E. Styers, Dr. H. G. Ricker, Frank M. Hartman and Charles Gilmore, of Millheim; R. P. Strouse and George Immel, of Centre Hall; W. A. Strouse, E. E. Strouse, R. D. Dunaway, and Lytle Taylor, of Mill Hall; Charles C. Goss and Mrs. Daisy W. Plummer, of Harrisburg, and Joseph Goss, of Pine Grove Mills.
