Farmer's Pay Check Cut Down By Waste in Feed

Wasteful feeding, rather than cost of feed, is limiting the profit in dairying and poultry raising, according to the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics. "Feed a good feed but don't waste it" is the slogan suggested for the dairyman or poultryman who would go forward in his business, rather than backwards.

"An investigation of the farmer's feeding problems has shown that there is a lamentable waste of good feed going on in nearly every barn in the country," the institute states. "The same dairyman or poultryman who complains about a difference of five cents a sack between two feeds, will waste many times that amount through his methods of feeding."

"Here is a typical illustration. If a farmer is feeding 20 cows 10 pounds

Form Accounts Pay Food Wages To Those Who Keep Them

Per Day	Cost	Weight	Worth
250 lbs. of efficient feed	$5.50	600 lbs.	$15.00
250 lbs. of poor feed	$5.62	480 lbs.	$12.00
Loss...	12¢	120 lbs.	$3.00

of food a piece a day, he requires 200 pounds of feed. And if feed costs him 2 1/2 cents per pound, his daily cost of feed is $5.50. But if instead of feeding each cow exactly 10 pounds per day, he guesses at the weight by the scoop-shovel method, he is likely to give the 20 cows 250 pounds, or 12 1/2 pounds a piece, and his feed bill becomes $6.87 instead of $5.50. Now, supposing that at this rate of cost the dairyman finds his operations are not sufficiently profitable, the first thought to come into his mind is to buy a cheaper feed. So instead of buying a feed that costs him $2.75 a sack, or $55.00 a ton, he buys a feed that costs only $2.25 or $45.00 a ton. He then

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College

GOOD FEEDING PAYS—Feed dairy cows enough to get a paying flow of milk. Every cow needs a certain amount of feed to maintain her system. Feed above that amount goes for milk production. Get a profitable yield from each cow by proper feeding.

DIVIDE RHUBARB THIS FALL—If your rhubarb has been decreasing in yield with stalks getting smaller and the whole plant less vigorous, it may be time to divide the crowns. This work should be done every five or six years and may be satisfactorily accomplished in the fall. As soon as the tops have died down, dig up the roots chop into several pieces with a spade, providing at least one bud to each piece of root and replant three to four feet apart in the row.

PUT PULLETS IN QUARTERS—

To avoid the losses of a fall molt among the pullets, be sure they are in winter quarters before they start laying. Ventilate well on warm fall nights. Observe regular feeding habits. Keep the birds fat. An abundance of green food and exercise are essential.

PROTECT FLOWSHARES—When through using the plow put some grease on the shares. It will prevent rusting and save a lot of inconvenience in the spring.

LATE CUTTING INJURIOUS—Give the alfalfa field a chance to produce a good crop next year by not cutting too late this fall.
