MAINE HUNTERS BAG LIMIT.

Get Five Deer in Short Order.—Letter from W. W. Kerlin Tells of Good Luck on Opening Day of Season.

Although the local hunting party which made a trip to Maine in quest of bear and deer returned home safe and sound last Friday night with five deer, as reported last week, the following letter written while in camp will interest many:

Forks of Machias Camp, Ashland, Maine, Oct. 16, 1926.

Bear hunting ended last evening with no results; had plenty of sport but lack of beech nuts has driven the bear farther north.

This morning deer season opened and so did we. Hunting the deer a few days previous enabled us to get an excellent "line" on the habits of the deer. Miller surprised all of us, including himself, by landing a buck early this morning while going to the spring for a bucket of water. One shot to the neck and a splendid 4-point buck fell. "Pever" Only five cases developed and it was unanimously voted to abandon breakfast and penetrate the woods. We had two guards with us, chiefly for the purpose of keeping us from losing our bearings. In less than an hour we heard another shot and another surprise! Goodhart passed on the word that his "most expensive outfit in the crowd" had landed deer No. 2—a dandy 8-point buck that balanced the scales at 148 pounds. Needless to say, we were all happy over Frank's success. Returning to camp at noon we found Mark wearing a smile from ear to ear, having landed a very pretty doe on the side of the Chandler Mountain, four miles south-west of the Owl's Roost, which was our individual camp, eight miles south-west of the home camps.

After lunch, Robinson and I, who had not as yet seen a "tail" today, each took a guide and hunted the "Spectacle Lake" region. I might say here that "still hunting" is employed entirely—simply moving about slowly and quietly, trying to catch a glimpse between the giant cedars, spruce, beech, pines, etc. About 3.30 I heard a shot fired above me and in a few moments a large 8-point buck came crashing down the side of the ravine and two shots by "yours truly" brought down a 154-pound beauty. Returning to the blazed trail Robinson very enthusiastically shouted the news that he had wounded "the darndest largest buck he had ever seen." The four of us—the two guides, Robinson and I—immediately started on the trail and about dusk rounded him up and "Doc" put the finishing shot to a wonderful 162-pound 10-point buck. Thus ended the first day of the deer season and we "break camp" in the morning. We are 26 miles from Ashland, and this entire distance, with the exception of 4 miles, is woodland, all of which must be covered by foot.

We have had very pleasant weather with cool nights, temperature at night ranging from 26 to 23 degrees. Days have been so warm, however, that no attempt will be made to bring the deer home, with exception of a few portions that will be salted down and brought down by car. The heads will be mounted by a taxidermist here in Aroostook county.

So far as we could learn from a messenger who just arrived, we were the only gang to get the limit.

Tomorrow we leave 6 A. M., so with your permission I will retire.

W. W. KERLIN.

P. S. Deer here are generally larger than those in Pennsylvania. One hunter is reported shooting a 180-lb. buck today.

essays, recitations and songs. They had Mr. Winters, the district forester, with them, and after the program the seniors planted two Norway spruce trees on the school ground.

About Planting Things—

Corn grows because it is planted in the ground and taken care of. It's the same with wheat, cotton and other crops. Just a matter of planting and cultivation.

The same thing is true of money. Place it on deposit in a good bank and they will safeguard it for you. Is there anyone so destitute that they could not deposit a dollar once a month? That amount deposited regularly for a period of 50 years would amount to $3,698.00 at compound interest. That's how money grows.
