ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

Saint Valentine's Day is remembered by many even in these busy times, and people exchange graceful messages and polite compliments, and children send pretty cards with sentiments of young friendship. But it was not always taken so lightly.

Some can recall when people of quite youthful age used to send very intense and love-lorn messages on this occasion, and were extremely anxious to know how they would be received. Young people became infatuated with premature love affairs somewhat early then, and sending valentines was a favorite way of expressing that sentiment.

People laugh at premature love affairs now, and suggest that these young people would better not think of so serious a subject until they are ready to take on the responsibilities of marriage. And in spite of all such suggestions, people continue to be stung by the little god, Cupid, not merely on Valentine's Day but all the year, and marriages are constantly taking place in the most heedless way.

We used to hear a great deal about people who were made forever unhappy by disappointment in love affairs. They would pass through the world with a cloud over their spirits, and swear eternal celibacy if they could not have the one they wanted. Today they decide to cheer up, and new friendships are likely to come to them that will be quite as rewarding to them that failed to develop into something more.

The love that makes a happy marriage is not the intense longing of love at first sight, but a deep and permanent affection that gradually grows up between people who have united their efforts for common ends. On such Saint Valentine may well smile, while these that conceive violent fancies for people without knowing much about them take too many chances to please his sound common sense.

DEATHS

WALTERS.—Mrs. Jennie Walters, wife of Samuel Walters, passed out of this life on Thursday of last week at Phoenixville, where the family lived. She was aged about twenty-five years.

Mrs. Walters was the daughter of Jerome Auman (deceased) and Annie Auman, now married to Jacob R. Bible. Her mother and two children survive her; also four sisters, as follows: Mrs. George Wisneski, Mrs. Harvel Beckhart, Mrs. George Miller, and Mildred, also married, all of Phoenixville.

Interment was made on Monday at Phoenixville.

SELLERS.—Mrs. Mary Catherine Sellers, widow of the late Caleb Matlock Sellers, died at the Altoona hospital following an illness of some days.

She was a daughter of John H. and Susan Dale Musser and was born at Boalsburg on January 13th, 1851. She married Caleb Sellers in 1874 and most of her married life was spent in Buffalo Run valley. Mr. Sellers died some years ago but surviving her is one son, Willis M. Sellers, of Altoona, with whom she made her home. She also leaves the following brothers and sisters: W. J. Musser, of Bellefonte; L. H. Musser, of Miami, Florida; C. M. Musser, Mrs. James P. Woodie and Mrs. John Rupp, all of State College, and F. M. Musser, of Eldorado.

The remains were taken to Buffalo Run Valley where funeral services were held in the church by Rev. Mackey, of State College, burial being made in the Meyers cemetery.

Shipping Baby Chicks.
The first shipment of baby chicks from the Grand View Poultry Farm for the season was sent out Tuesday, and consisted of over 3,000, others following Wednesday. A new ruling by the Post Office Department obliges shippers to stamp each package, giving name of post office from which shipment is made and the day and hour the shipment goes forward. Each package also must bear a "special handling" tag, the fee for this being twenty-five cents for each package regardless of size or distance carried. Baby chicks also must be insured against loss, that is, loss of the package, but not for damage done the chicks in transit or at the post office.

With an address label, special handling tag, insurance and perishable markings, the baby chicks box starts out the most doted up package that passes through the mails.

M.; vaudeville acts furnished by the Minster Theatre management; ladies' bridge and "500" party from 11 A. M. to luncheon.

Hirst Named Phillipsburg P. M.
The suspense over the postoffice vacancy in Phillipsburg ended Monday when John Hirst received official notice of his appointment as acting postmaster, effective at once. He will take charge as soon as his bond is prepared and filed, and there has been confirmation of his appointment.

It is understood that the petitions of several other applicants were still circulating at the time the appointment was made, indicating Mr. Hirst had influential backing.

In closing his comments on the appointment, the Phillipsburg Daily Journal makes this statement, but who the "mule" is, is not so clear to many. It might refer to the Bellefonte Fisher cabinet member, and if that is true, Hirst is a Scott selection. The comment follows, but the "mule" is not named:

Mr. Hirst will have at least the remainder of the second term of the late Postmaster Frank B. Wythe. The latter was in the first year of his second term. Whether he serves longer than that period depends on how active a certain well known mule becomes. In case it should become exceedingly active the plans of postmasters all over the country may be upset. But enough of this. What's the use of looking ahead too far and spoiling the present for John.

Steve Stasik, employed by the Lehigh Coal Company, got his hand in the cogs of some of the machinery. He is now a patient in the Centre County hospital.

SCREAMING COMEDY MADE FROM OLD STAGE PLAY

Film Version of "McFadden's Flats," Starring Charlie Murray and Chester Conklin, Opens at Scenic Theatre, Next Mon., Tues., Wed.

Anybody who fears that laughter may increase their girth is herewith warned to stay away from the Scenic Theatre, where "McFadden's Flats" opens Monday of next week for three days and nights. For this latest First National picture, filmed by the producing body of Asher, Small and Rogers, is one of the greatest laugh hits ever thrown upon the screen. Not only have all the comic situations that made the original stage production a continued hit for more than thirty years been retained, but new and novel situations have been added. The result is that nobody who cares for wholesome fun can afford to miss this, the most promising of the season's successes.

Two of the reasons for the complete success of this picture are Charlie Murray and Chester Conklin, who have been teamed up for the first time in this production. Charlie, always exuberantly funny, finds greater opportunities than ever in his association with the gifted Conklin.

The eye filling members of the company are Edna Murphy, who plays the part of Charlie's beautiful daughter, and Dorothy Dwan, her chum. One would hardly imagine that a production such as "McFadden's Flats" would give the opportunities it does for elaborate gowns and even alluringly trim bathing suits. But they are there, and it may be added, both Edna and Dorothy know how to wear them.

Matinee daily at 2 P. M. Admission, 15 and 35 cents.
