Frank D. Lee, of Centre Hall, is erecting a silo on his farm in Nittany Valley. Mr. Lee is doing most of the work of erecting himself.

William Allen, an extra clerk in the P. R. R. service, was at the local station Monday and Tuesday to take the place of D. M. Bradford, who was off duty on those days.

John H. Wagner, of Potters Mills, who a few months ago sold his home to Ira Auman, will make public sale on March 12, following which he will remove to Mount Union.

T. A. Hosterman joined the radio fans by having an Atwater Kent set placed in his home this week. The purchase was made from the local dealer, Walter R. Hosterman.

A new Dodge coupe was purchased by L. L. Smith to take the place of the one burned in the Hosterman garage fire. The purchase was made through the Hosterman agency.

Russell Burd, who last week was injured by falling from a load of corn fodder, died in the Centre County hospital a few days later. The accident happened on the Davis farm, at Snow Shoe Intersection.

At the point of death for a few days last week owing to illness with pneumonia, Gwendolyn Goodhart, aged one year, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Goodhart, of Centre Hall, rallied and is now on a fair way to recovery.

On Tuesday evening the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Bible Class of the Lutheran church was held at the home of Raymond Walker, a member of the class. The attendance was the largest for some months. Mrs. Walker served elegant refreshments after the program of the evening prepared by the class had been finished.

Archie Heckman, of Patton, was about town for a few days. He has been employed at the clay works at Patton for three years, but by the first of April will take up farming, having engaged with Edward Duret to move onto his farm at Earlstown, following Willis Breen as tenant there.

On Tuesday afternoon, Stewart E. Jordan, of Tusseyville, left by train for Tampa, Florida, to remain for an indefinite time. He will be with his son, Boyd A. Jordan, in the southern city. This is Mr. Jordan's first trip out, but he was confident of enjoying himself on the way as well as after reaching his son, who is a real estate agent.

Last week mention was made of an injury received by Dairyman John A. Shively, east of Centre Hall, and now the Reporter regrets to state that his condition is very serious. In addition to the injury, which was caused by a young animal jumping against him when in its stall, and consists of several broken ribs and perhaps internal hurts, he contracted a bad case of pleurisy.

On Sunday evening the Men's Bible Class of the Millheim Lutheran church, taught by S. Ward Gramley, will have as a speaker Dr. Charles P. Wiles, one of the editors of the Lutheran Sunday School Literature. Other features of the program will be music, both instrumental and vocal. The Men's Bible Class of the local Lutheran church has been invited to attend the meeting.

This is the story of a dog that thinks. To a dog lover there is nothing extraordinary about that, but to the layman there is usually something unique in the idea.

"Fangs" is a four-year-old wolf dog owned by Rayart Pictures, now appearing in "The Baited Trap," the picture at the Richelieu Theatre Saturday of this week. Ben Watson, the featured player in the cast, told the story of "Fangs" and his training for this picture. The dog had to turn over a telephone so that a little boy could cry into the mouthpiece," he said. "We showed the phone to 'Fangs' and told him to 'go get it.' That was all he needed. The telephone might have been an enemy dog, or a beef bone. 'Fangs' let out a roar and sprang, but when little Monty O'Grady reached for the phone, the dog fell back and watched him, appearing to understand.

Then, the dog had to leap upon a man with a gun and seize his wrist, remove the revolver and carry it back to his master. That was a hard one. We started out with a beef bone. 'Fangs' would leap when he was ordered, seize the bone and return with it to his master. Then we substituted the gun for the bone. And 'Fangs' repeated himself.

"It is a great pleasure to recommend 'AA Quality' Fertilizers for potatoes. This year I made a test and harvested 20 bushels of prime potatoes for each bushel planted and I only used 200 pounds per acre. I expect to use several tons of 'Agrico' on a large crop of potatoes next year."

—Russell L. Hardisty

Pocomoke, Md., June 26, 1926

"I have used 'AA Quality' Fertilizers on my own farm for 40 years. I made an excellent yield of bright clean potatoes (no scab) even though the season was extremely dry and very much against potato growing."

—F. E. Matthews

It actually costs you less to get a big yield of potatoes

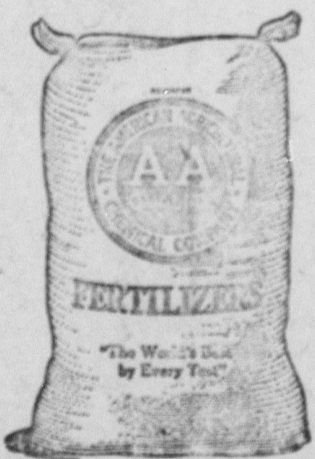

NO MATTER what size potato crop you get, it costs you the same to plow, plant and cultivate each acre. So, the bigger the yield the less the cost per bushel.

"AA Quality" Potato Fertilizers are made especially for potatoes. They produce big yields of first-quality tubers. They force early maturing crops of maximum yields. Their formulas have been determined by soil and crop experts long experienced in potato culture. Their plant food elements become available in succession, insuring a balanced ration at all times during the growing period.

Materials are scientifically manufactured into the finished fertilizer by processes developed through sixty years of manufacturing experience. Complete mixing, curing and thorough remilling give "AA Quality" Fertilizers perfect mechanical condition. They can be distributed evenly.

See your local "AA Quality" man. He will be glad to advise you which "AA Quality" brands are best suited to the soil conditions of your own farm.
