ONE-MAN TAXI CONVENIENCE IN BERLIN

PUT BEST TIRES ON REAR WHEELS

Spare Shoe Also Should Have Its Turn Off Duty, Says Expert.

A question that is asked very often by motorists has to do with the placing of tires to receive the greatest mileage and service from them. There is some little difference of opinion among tire users as to whether the two best tires should be placed on the front wheels or on the rear. One group claims that the best tires should be placed on the front, to eliminate or minimize the danger of losing control of the car in case of a blowout while traveling at a high rate of speed.

Danger Negligible.
Experience, gained by driving millions of tire miles under observation by tire men, proves that the danger from this source is negligible and is in every case the fault of the driver in losing his head.

Efficient operation of a car requires good traction, and for this reason the best tires should be on the rear wheels. The tires that are more worn should be on the front wheels.

In the case of a new or practically new spare tire, this should be used in the following manner: At the end of several thousand miles of driving examine the rear tires and select the one that shows the most wear and remove it, replacing it with the spare. Repeat this operation.

Placing New Tires.
On new cars where usually there are five new tires, they may remain in the original positions until several thousand miles have elapsed, then the front tires should be put on the rear wheels and vice versa. The fifth new tire should have its regular turn on the car.

Motor Spring Facts for More Comfort in Riding

Discussing automobile springs and their value for comfort in driving. In the Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers, F. C. Mock, research engineer, calls attention to an erroneous belief which must be discarded in the interest of better riding conditions. "This is the impression that interleaf friction can be a satisfactory means of taking up spring action. More than 90 pounds of friction per spring in cars weighing from 2,500 to 3,500 pounds will result in noticeably stiffer riding," says Mr. Mock. "The greatest improvement in riding comfort that can be made with reasonable expense on the average privately owned car today is to grease the springs well, put on spring covers and automatic lubricators to maintain this condition and then fit shock absorbers which resist spring recoil, but do not make the springs stiffer on the bumps."

Information as to how American travelers can arrange to take their cars with them into the various countries of Europe and adjacent Mediterranean areas without being subject to tedious customs formalities is detailed in a Department of Commerce publication.

Generally speaking, the bulletin explains, automobiles may be taken for a limited time into most of these countries for touring purposes free of duty by making a cash deposit (to be refunded later) or by giving bond (to be canceled later) for the amount of import duties, or by using the trip-tique privilege.

Motor Enamel Improves Appearance of Old Car

When overhauling the motor trying scraping all the oily dirt off the outside surfaces, thoroughly clean with gasoline and after drying paint it with motor enamel. This enamel can be obtained in either aluminum or black and will decidedly improve the appearance of an old motor, says the American Automobile Digest. Then, if the valve covers and all places that ordinarily leak oil are kept tightly fastened on, dust will not collect so easily, and the usually neglected dirty job of making many small adjustments will be a pleasure.

Ten Timely Safety Tips for Motorists

Ten timely anti-accident suggestions are contained in a bulletin issued by the National Safety Council, which credits Charles A. Harnett, New York state commissioner of motor vehicles, with the following:

1. Look out for children. You can never tell what they'll do, and you're always in wrong if you hit one.
2. Don't pass a standing trolley car. Some day the jury may call it manslaughter.
3. Don't speed around corners for it's a straight route to the hospital.
4. Drive on the right side of the road; it's the only safe side.
5. The fact that you had the right of way won't bring anybody back to life—least of all yourself. Use discretion.
6. Do not stop short without giving warning. The other fellow is no mind reader.
7. Do not back up without looking to the rear.
8. Do not park or pass on curve or hill. There's plenty of straight road.
9. Slow down when approaching a crossroad; it is nearly as dangerous as a railroad crossing.
10. Be courteous to other drivers and traffic officers. Courtesy prevents accidents.

Transmission Bands Are Quite Easy to Assemble

Thousands of men and women throughout the country are forming better homes committees to study local housing problems and problems of home and community life, and to work out a solution of those problems from the point of view of families of limited incomes. John J. Tigert, commissioner of education, says regarding the better home movement:

The importance of home life among our fundamental American institutions cannot well be over emphasized. Unfortunately, some of our recent adventures have had a tendency to destroy the influence of the home. The home, more than the school or church, relates to the individual in an intimate and personal way.

"Individual initiative is an outstanding American characteristic. Therefore, the creation and building of homes and home life contribute in a very vital way to the ongoing of our American civilization."

Modern City's Great Need

The modern city is so new that it has had scarcely time to find itself. It has brought into the life of the people so many good things that in general it has been accepted and approved. But leaders of thought should give serious consideration to its defects and should attempt to restore the good that happened to be discarded in its almost overnight development. If the old neighborhood is gone forever, some salutary substitute for it should be sought.—Exchange.

Clean Up Right Now

There is a time for fall planting as well as for the things that should go into the ground in the spring. Garden experts have given advice about such planting, but the general practice always has been to wait until spring. The task would be made much easier if summer's leavings were disposed of now. When spring comes there would be comparatively little to do and all the time could be given to planting and pruning.

For Better Homes

Better Homes in America maintains its headquarters in Washington under the active direction of Dr. James Ford. More than three thousand communities participated in the campaign last year. Better Homes week has been set for April 24 to May 1, 1927, when the programs conducted throughout the year will have their culmination.

Beautifulizing a Town

Motorists shouldn't tow children on sleds which may be struck by automobiles approaching from the rear, warns the National Safety Council.

Community Building

Good Citizen Takes Pride in "Home Town"

Pride, as a rule, is not commendable, especially in the material things of life. Even worse than pride are the false values that it creates. Pride in an individual is self-destructive. If permitted to run its course unchecked, but a certain amount of pride is necessary for people to keep their self-respect and the respect of their friends. However, pride in our home community may be pardoned—in fact, is needed, if the community is not to lie dormant or go backward in the competition that exists between towns and cities. A community pride that sees no good in any other community is unpardonable. A community pride that does not recognize the favorable points in every other neighbor defeats its own purpose, that of advancing the community in the eyes of others. The thing most to be guarded against is not a spirit of boastfulness, although it exists in some citizens to a degree that is harmful to the community, but the opposite extreme which causes citizens to feel that greater opportunities exist elsewhere. There is a halfway ground on which all loyal citizens may stand. We should guard against either extreme—dissatisfaction and false pride, which is equally as harmful, and all the while do all we can, each in our own limited way, to advance the interests of the county.—Rushville (Ind.) Republican.

Small Town Has Many Advantages Over City

Of all the vanities known to human weakness few are harder to understand than the vanity of a city over its own ungainly bigness. There is nothing natural or commendable in living by the million. On the whole, it is rather unintelligent. The people who do it have less than normal light, air and room. They build like busy ants and hang on each other like swarming bees.

The best that can be said for an oversized community is that it has done well in roads, parks, schools, museums, theaters, policing, fire-fighting and transportation to atone for the mistake of being so big to begin with. But the man with an acre of his own has advantages that only the occasional city millionaire—who also has his own acreage outside of town—can begin to rival.—Chicago Journal.

Claims Everyone Should Have Good Health

After Suffering From Severe Indigestion, Nervousness and Pains Around Heart That Resisted Treatment Insurance Man Recovers Lost Health. Thanks Tanlac

The experience of G. R. Johnson, a well-known Baltimore, Md., insurance man, living at 2565 W. Baltimore St., only proves the fact that most suffering is needless that nearly every man, woman and child can enjoy good health, strength and freedom from pain. He says: "For several months I couldn't eat a thing without suffering pain from indigestion and gas that bloated my stomach, pressing my heart and causing cutting pains that almost stopped my breath at times. 'In spite of every precaution and the most careful diet my condition did not improve. It resisted various treatments. And I grew steadily worse. At night I would feel worn-out and nervous. After reading of what Tanlac had done for others I began taking this tonic. What relief it brought me! 'It took only 3 bottles to straighten out my stomach completely. Tanlac toned up my liver which had been sluggish. It built up my entire system. Now I can eat anything at any time without a sign of pain. It has made me feel like a different person."
