Take Care of Brood Mares—Feed and exercise are two important things to remember in caring for the brood

FARM CALENDAR.
Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College.
Strong Demand for Forest Trees—Extension foresters of the Pennsylvania State College report that the demand for forest trees for the spring planting is greater than ever before. The supply of State nurseries is close to the point of exhaustion except for a few species.
Variety Pleases—A good variety of feeds in the grain mixture will be appreciated by the dairy cow. Successful dairymen use corn, oats, bran, gluten feed, oil meal, and cottonseed meal. When a good roughage, such as clover, alfalfa or soybean hay, is used, more home-grown grains, corn and oats chiefly, may be utilized.
Remember Seed Corn—The seed corn situation is a serious one. Locate the source of supply now and give all seed a thorough test for germination. Time flies and soon corn planting time will be here. Good seed is necessary for a full stand and a bountiful crop.
Bribe Weak Crotches—When pruning fruit trees bribe the weak crotches. Your county agricultural agent can tell you how to do this job and what materials to use.
Give Chicks Clean Feed—The all-mash system is the most sanitary method for feeding chicks. It also is a labor-saver. The condition of the grain is more important than the exact mixture. Be sure that the grains are clean and wholesome. Feed both mash and grain in troughs or hoppers.
