DEATHS

HAMILTON.—Thaddeus R. Hamilton, who is said at one time to have owned half the land on which the city of Denver now stands and who also helped to lay out the town of Leadville, Colo., died in Bellefonte on Monday. He was aged ninety-one years.

Mr. Hamilton was the oldest native citizen of Bellefonte. Up to two weeks ago he had been in good health. His survivors include two sons and a daughter, Clarence and Thomas Hamilton, of New York, and Mrs. M. F. Broderick, of State College.

Mr. Hamilton went west when he was nineteen years of age on a gold prospecting trip. He sought gold in Colorado, found some, and becoming discouraged, traded the land he was supposed to own for a mule in which he traveled to California. Two years later he came home by way of Cape Horn, and remained at Bellefonte the remainder of his life. He conducted a woodworking shop there until about two years ago. He left a small estate.

SPIGELMYER.—Mrs. Wm. Spigelmyer, of DuBois, a sister of Daniel W. Showalter, of Bellefonte, died at her home from a complication of diseases following an operation six weeks ago. She was born in College township and was aged about 50 years. She was a daughter of J. W. and Margaret Jane Showalter. Her mother is living at Hastings. The deceased is also survived by her husband who is superintendent of the public schools at DuBois, two sons and a daughter: John, Margaret and Herbert, all at home. These brothers and one sister also survive: Daniel W., of Bellefonte; Charles N., of Wilkesburg; J. J. of Glen Iron; William B., of Oswego, N. Y., and Mrs. J. F. Andreas, of Hastings. The funeral services were held at the Ray cemetery near Millburg, where interment was made.

WESTON.—Mrs. Emma Weston died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Barnes, at Pleasant Gap, on Friday, aged 84 years, 11 months and 25 days. Interment was made Monday at Warriors Mark.

Death of A Missionary.

Dr. William E. Hoy, a native of Millburg, missionary in China for the Reformed church, died on board the ship on which he was returning to this country with his wife and daughter, Gertrude. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. Interment was made in Millburg on Sunday.

Dr. Hoy had been in active mission service for forty-two years, fifteen years in Japan and the remainder in China. He was one of the founders of the North Japan College and also of the Hupik Christian College.

Dr. Hoy and his family were recalled because of chaotic conditions in China.

During his furlough in 1925-26 Dr. Hoy resided in Philadelphia. His daughter Gertrude took a post graduate course at the University of Pennsylvania, receiving a master's degree in February last year. She is now principal of Ziemer Girls Institution, Yochow, China.

Mrs. Hoy was the first principal of the Mayagi College, Senai, Japan and also of the Girls' School at Yochow City, China. Funeral services will be held in the Reformed church at Millburg on Sunday.

Other survivors are a son and daughter, Dr. W. E. Hoy, Jr., professor in the Presbyterian College, South Carolina, and Miss Mabel Kiser, of Changcha, China.

Mrs. E. C. Cronk Dead.

Funeral services for Mrs. E. C. Cronk, wife of Rev. E. Calvin Cronk, Eastern secretary of the Lutheran Orient Mission, who died in the Leukemia Hospital, Philadelphia, Saturday night, were held in St. John's Lutheran church, Melrose Park, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Campbell of Penns Cave. A favorable report of the 1926 wool pool was given by W. C. Smeltzer, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Smeltzer stated that the wool sold through the 1926 pool was in better condition than in any previous years. There were only 5 per cent rejections as compared with 20 per cent the year before.

W. B. Connell, sheep extension specialist of State College, gave a summary of the Lamb Feeding Club. There were ten members in the club, all of whom exhibited their lambs at the Farm Products Show at Harrisburg. The club proved to be a successful enterprise as was shown by the figures brought out and the members of the association expressed their desire to continue another club next year.

A SAMARITAN AT LAST.

A Stranger Falls By the Wayside—Creates a Sympathetic Wave.

A young man was found unconscious along the highway near the home of E. W. Ripka, on Sunday afternoon, by a group of young people who administered to him, after securing water from the Ripka home. He was badly crippled in one leg; he was faint and hungry, uncommunicative. He was well dressed, body clean, and had pearly teeth admired by many. He was pined with questions, but gave answer to few of them, and as to the truth of them, no one knows. He represented an intimation that his present plight was due to cultivated habits by asserting that he had been a war veteran. On his clothing was written the name Mr. Moore. Not much else was learned of him.

He was given food and milk by Mr. Ripka. It was accepted thankfully, yet reluctantly. In an undertone he was understood to say, "Has it come to this?"

While this scene was being enacted, a half-hundred automobiles had stopped, the occupants of which were on-lookers. Sympathy in abundance was expressed, and yet there was not lacking in one at least the manner of the youth and expression of the bigot.

And along comes a Samaritan. He looks over the situation, invites and then aids the unfortunate man to enter his car, and assured those who had shown a friendliness and had given such comfort to the youth as was possible, that he would be provided for. They are gone.

Fred Moore may be his name.

Tuesday morning W. Maurice Kelley of Reedsville, informed the writer that the youth had been taken by the stranger to the Lewisburg hospital, and that he was expected to recover within a few days and then would be sent to his home in Philadelphia. He had been in the U. S. service abroad; he had been shell shocked.

Among the first to give aid to the stranger was Lenora Foust and Luella Ripka, both Centre Hall High school girls. The former was passing in a car and seeing his plight, the young girl went to the Ripka home for water, and returning brought with her her friend. The youth's face was bathed his lips moistened, and soon he spoke. It required much persuasion to induce him to eat the choice food brought from the Ripka home, although he admitted he had been weakened by hunger.

The young man passed through Centre Hall, on foot. He was very lame. He was supposed by many to be a college student, but it is pretty certain he is not.

W. C. T. U. Institute.

A W. C. T. U. institute will be held at Pleasant Gap, Wednesday, March 30th. Departmental work will be a feature, with a short address on "How to do the work." At one of the sessions the Centre Hall Y. P. B. will present a playlet. Box luncheon at noon. All members are urged to be present.

Should Show Appreciation.

In an article in the Millheim Journal under the above caption, the Sheffield Farms Company is referred to, and since that company is doing business among farmers about Centre Hall and has a new plant near the railroad station here, the Reporter is pleased to reprint in part the Journal's production:

The farmer has at times been looked upon only as a tiller of the soil, going about his daily toil without giving any consideration to our industries. In former articles we have spoken of our Hosiery mill and Spinning mill. We wish to write about another industry in this column, which is the milk industry. Some time during 1925 the Sheffield Farms Co. came into this community, purchased the milk plant and interest of the Coburn Farm Products Co., and later building a plant at Centre Hall, one at Middleburg and also purchased the Nestle's plants at Millburg and Lewisburg. When these people located they asked for conditions on the farms that would comply with the regulations of the board of health of New York City, which did not seem to meet with the approval of many of the farmers at the immediate time.

In making a careful survey of conditions, we find the majority of the farmers have built milk houses, concreted the dairy barns and made many improvements on their farms and are now enjoying the New York market and realizing a better price for their milk, based on the market, than they ever realized before and we find that the farmer are appreciating the market. The steady increase in patrons has led this new company to increase the capacity of their Coburn plant, having added a new 125 horse-power boiler, a twenty-foot addition to their stack, some new glass-lined pasteurizers, and we have learned from the management that some additional equipment is in transit to be installed.

NASH
Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Steering is never tiring—when you drive a Nash

A cheerful willingness to answer your hand on the wheel is one of the very first things you notice, when you drive a Nash.

In many ways, Nash has provided for the ease and comfort of the arms that steer the car. In getting into or out of a tight place at the curb you will particularly notice the slight effort needed.

When you turn a corner, you'll welcome the shorter wind-up of the steering wheel.

In an emergency, this short turn of the wheel means quick responsiveness—and an accident averted. Nash steering is easier—faster—less tiring on the arms and wrists—ininitely safer in dense traffic.

Nothing has been spared to build a more delightful car to drive. This steering mechanism is, beyond question, the most expensive type built today for cars in the Nash price field.

Like the steering, every detail in the car reflects the Nash determination to lead the world in motor car value.

Another instance of the outstanding excellence in Nash design is the 7-bearing motor—without a doubt the smoothest type in all the world.
