

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. Anna Bingham changed her address from Swineford to Selmsgrove.

Max Herr made one of his frequent trips to Lock Haven the latter part of the week, remaining there over Sunday.

The Loyeville orphan home was remembered in the will of David H. McGinley, late of Waynesboro. He set aside $3,429.85 for the institution.

W. Speer Breen, of Millheim, was taken to the Geisinger Memorial hospital Danville, for observation and treatment of some internal ailment.

James Harry Shuey, a track laborer, of Lemont, who began his services April 1st, 1891, will retire April 1st, and will be placed on the pension list. He is 65 years old.

There were snow squalls during much of Saturday. On the mountains and in protected places the snow formed a covering, but in the open it melted as it fell.

W. M. Grove, of Berwick, was about Centre Hall for a few days last week. He was engaged in surveying the Harper farm, purchased some time ago by James L. Decker, east of town.

Mrs. Margaret E. Strohm, who spent the winter with her daughters, Mrs. Person and Mrs. Brukholder, returned to town on Friday and opened her home here for the summer.

D. A. Boozer, on Friday, went to Ingram, a Pittsburgh suburb, having been called there on account of the death of his sister, Mrs. Peter Fisher Keller. An account of the death appears in this issue.

Mrs. Jacob Sharer, of near Centre Hall, was taken to the Lock Haven hospital on Monday, where she since has been under observation. Her daughter, Miss Mabelle, is a nurse in training at that institution.

Seven applicants to become rural mail carrier for Spring Mills took the civil service examination at Centre Hall on Saturday. The vacancy was caused by retirement, under the civil service rules, of George N. Wolf.

George A. Hettinger, living below Penns Cave, was a caller on Saturday. He is giving about three hundred white leghorn chickens first-class attention, and assured the writer that the fowls were responding.

Mr. and Mrs. Windom Gramley, of Millheim; William Smith, of Spring Mills, and D. Geiss Wagner, of Centre Hall, last week went to Belleville to visit Dr. H. S. and Mrs. Alexander, and remained until after the death of the latter on Sunday morning.

Compared with twenty years ago and more, movings in Centre Hall have fallen off fully 80 per cent. The burg has become one whose inhabitants are practically all home owners or are permanently located. April 1st, as to changing residences, means little here.

A scraper drawn by a tractor is being used on the road between Old Fort and Spring Mills. The sides of the road lying next to the old portion are being cut away to afford more complete drainage. The work is being done very expeditiously, and but little hand labor will be required to "smooth up" the rough spots.

The State Highway Department notified the commissioners of Clinton county that it was ready to begin the Bald Eagle road as soon as the county would rebuild a bridge to replace the old covered wooden one at Bald Eagle creek, west of Mill Hall. This is the oldest bridge in the county and at his section the creek is so narrow that every spring the water overflows the banks and makes the highway impassible.

Mrs. S. P. Hennigh has been confined to bed for over a week due to a light paralytic stroke suffered about the middle of the month. Her lower limbs and throat are affected. At first she could move about, but later, as related above, it was found necessary to put her to bed. She is unable to speak and also has more or less difficulty in swallowing, her food of necessity being in liquid form. Mr. Hennigh is hopeful she will again fully recover.

Charles P. Ray, who has been employed in the "Kellfonte," in the Richelieu theatre building ever since it was opened, has purchased the Millheim Inn, a restaurant heretofore conducted by S. P. Springer. He took charge on Tuesday and will move his family to Millheim on or before April first and take personal supervision of the Inn. $5000 is said to have been paid for the fixtures. The inn is located in the Woodman building, the third floor being used as a meeting room by that organization.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral of A. C. Ripka, were Carl Ripka, of Wilmington; Del.; Frank Carloff, of Roxbury, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. William Ripka, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Wm. P. Shelby, of Sunbury; Mrs. Susan Crader and Reuben Breen, of Port Clinton; Mrs. Julia Malze, Mrs. Cora McClellan and Samuel Ripka, of Millheim; Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Kryder, of Williamsport; Paul B. Ripka, of Pittsburgh; Miss Huldah Ripka, of Milroy; Mrs. W. H. Ertel, of Coburn; Mrs. Russell Cable and W. D. Zerby, Esq., of Bellefonte.

It is a bit over eight weeks since Dr. H. S. Alexander, of Belleville, met with a serious accident while crossing the Lewistown-Sunbury railroad within the city limits of Lewistown. The coupe he was driving was struck by an engine, resulting in one of his legs being broken between the hip and knee. The leg was put into a cast, and when this was removed one day last week, it was found the bone had not knit properly, and a day or two later the doctor was again taken to the hospital, and on Monday it was planned to plate the bone. Greater than this misfortune, however, to befall the doctor was the loss of his wife, through death on Sunday morning, an account of which appears elsewhere in this issue of the Reporter.

Mrs. Lulu Hosterman, of Coburn; Misses Estella Hosterman and Ida Frazier, of Centre Hall, and Paul Emmerling, of Tusseyville, took advantage of the Sunday excursion to Pittsburgh. The excursion was largely patronized from residents of Bellefonte and surrounding section.

Thursday of last week Mr. and Mrs. J. Shannon Boozer took their little daughter, Patricia, to the Mary M. Packer Hospital, Sunbury, and that night she was operated on by Dr. Becker for double mastoids. She has since been improving nicely. The mother remained at the hospital with the child.

While the second part of the show or olio consists of seven separate novelty acts, each one different from any of the others. Van Arnams Minstrels, who appear at the Richelieu Theatre, Bellefonte, for one night only, Tuesday, April 5th, provide over two hours of fun and amusement. Prices, 50c and $1.10.

FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College.

Grow Legume Hays—Clover, alfalfa, and all other legume hay crops cheapen the cost of feeding dairy cows and of producing milk. Where soils are suited to their growing, one or more legumes always should be included in the crop rotations of dairy farms.

Dock the Young Lambs—Long-tailed lambs brand the sheepman as careless in his methods of handling his flocks. Our good shepherds dock the young generation of wool and mutton producers early in life so they will not have to carry around a useless and unnecessary piece of anatomy. The also castrate the ram lambs in the mutton flock.

Feed Cattle Regularly—Roll call at the stockyards will soon sound for many steers now on feed. As other farming operations begin to press for time, do not fail to be regular and thorough in feeding and caring for the fattening cattle. Comfortable quarters and ample bedding during the rainy season will mean many dollars in the stockman's pocketbook.

Prune Hardy Vines—Go over the hardy vines now. All except the wistaria can be pruned at this time. Do not allow the vines to become too thick. Also be sure that they are properly fastened to supports.

Use the Sunshine—Milk utensils will be much sweeter and cleaner if they are placed in the sunlight after being washed.

Plant Quality Vegetables—Only va-
