MISSOURI MULE FAVORED FOR THRILLS

For those who crave excitement and thrill we would recommend a trip to Oaks park, Portland, Ore., there to experience a ride on the Missouri mule (pictured above). The Missouri mule to all appearance looks like a well-mannered flivver, but looks are deceiving—at least in this case—for the flivver is possessed of diabolic tendencies—and when in use may buck, rear and stall like a mule.

BIG IMPORTANCE OF LUBRICATION

Many Motorists Fail to See Why Frequent Change of Oil Is Vital.

In spite of the fact that manufacturers, garage men and dealers constantly stress the importance of frequent oil changes in engine lubrication, many motorists fail to see why this changing is so vital.

The introduction of improved lubrication systems, oil filters and devices to lessen oil dilution in the crankcase has done much to cut down lubrication troubles, but the subject of oil changing still demands the careful attention of the motorist.

What Happens to Unchanged Oil.

What happens when you fail to change oil? In the first place, heat produces a chemical change in oil which causes it to lose its lubricating qualities. Gasoline may become mixed with the oil, lowering its efficiency. When there is no oil filter, particles of metal from the wearing surfaces and a certain amount of dirt and rust which accumulate in the crankcase oil may be forced to the engine operating parts. Unless all the oil is drained out of the crankcase, foreign matter will remain there. It is not sufficient to add only enough oil to keep the proper level.

A new engine requires more frequent oil changes than an engine which is "broken in," because new bearing surfaces throw off a greater number of metal particles. After the first 500 miles of driving, it is advisable to change the oil in the engine. Repeat this operation every 2,500 miles in warm weather, and every 1,000 miles in cold weather.

What Kind of Oil to Use.

Fortunately for the motorist, oil service is today so highly developed that it is possible to get disinterested advice from filling-station service men, oil dealers and garage men as to the best type of oil to use for your engine. In addition to this, manufacturers issue booklets of instruction with new cars, telling just what sort of oil to use for best results.

Remember that, at speeds of 40 miles an hour or greater, oil consumption by the motor is considerably higher than at lower speeds. With ordinary driving, the motor may consume one quart of oil every 125 miles of travel, but this amount becomes greater as speed increases.

Best Time to Overhaul Auto and Refinish Body

Fastidious car owners who want to spend the spring months with an automobile that is mechanically perfect and spick-and-span in appearance should take advantage of the present season to have their cars overhauled and refinished.

Repair and refinishing establishments are less rushed at this season than at any other time of year. Cars put up for either or both types of work now will be given attention that cannot be commanded when the demand for speed becomes great.

At no other time can an owner so well afford to be without his car.

Lining Up Front Wheels

Many car owners fail to make headway when lining up the front wheels because they fail to true up the wheels and tires separately. The front wheels may toe in the proper amount, but the rims may not run true, thus throwing the tires out of line. This can be determined by revolving the wheels separately and noting how true they turn. Any variation may be due to the wheels being too loose on the axles or to the rims being screwed to the wheels unevenly.

Motorcycle Coupe Popular in Paris

The inside drive motorcycle coupe is on the streets of Paris. It looks like a normal motorcycle with a one-man body, top, windshield, curtains and all, placed well forward so the steering can be done comfortably with the long handle-bars. A small radiator in front, over the steering wheel, makes the vehicle look like a small automobile. The motor is under the body with the starting crank at the rear. A small third wheel to the right rear, supports the car at rest.

Baby Carrier for Auto Safe and Comfortable

When riding in the rear seat of a car it is quite difficult to hold a baby comfortably, but by providing a carrier the trouble will be eliminated. The carrier shown in the drawing consists of a canvas bag, the open top of which is held rigid by a wood or metal frame. Lengths of brass or galvanized chain and two coil springs, to serve as shock absorbers, are attached as indicated, and the baby will be safe and comfortable. To prevent the crib from lurching it should be fastened to the back of the front seat near the bottom by means of a short coil spring—Carlton Groat, The Dalles, Ore., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Numbering Gear Shift to Help in Handling Lever

In teaching his wife to drive a motorist found that she was having great difficulty in remembering the several gear-shift positions, and as a result was slowing up her shifting considerably, due to having to stop to think which lever position was which. He hit upon the idea of employing some small metal numbers, such as might be used for small signs and the like. Procuring a "1," "2," "3" and an "R," he nailed them to the footboard in proper position to indicate the way the lever had to be shifted to effect any given speed change. The idea worked to advantage, and the beginner had only to glance down at the numbers to know exactly which way to carry the lever, eliminating all uncertainty.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

See that the generator charges sufficient amperage at all times to avoid battery damage.

Motorists have paid liberally and without complaint for good roads. The "detour" still persists.

Keep the foot flat on the floor board, unless actually shifting gears or slowing quickly to a stop.

Blow your auto horn at the railroad crossing so that the limited train will know you're around and won't run the risk of being knocked from the right-of-way.

Chimpanzees Slow to Pick Up Human Speech

A chimpanzee might be taught to talk with its fingers, as deaf people talk, more easily than it could be taught to imitate sounds of human speech, in the opinion of Dr. Robert M. Yerkes and Margaret S. Child of the Institute of Psychology at Yale university. Several scientists who observed and studied higher apes have tried to teach them to say words, but without much success, these psychologists state in reporting in the Quarterly Review of Biology what is now known about anthropoid behavior. "Perhaps the chief reason for the ape's failure to develop speech is the absence of a tendency to imitate sounds," Doctor Yerkes explains. "Seeing strongly stimulates to imitation, but hearing seems to have no such effect." He believes that the sounds made by apes are not language, but are primarily emotional expressions, which are not learned by imitation.

Tunneling by Electricity The new tunnel of the Great Northern railway under the Cascade mountains is literally being driven by electricity. Blasting shots planted in the rock are fired by it, shoveling machines are driven by it, rock and dirt are hauled out and materials hauled into the bore by six, ten and twenty-ton mine-type electric locomotives, and lighting and some special heating in and around the job are all done electrically.
