R. E. CREW GIVES ALARM; SAVES HOUSE FROM FIRE.

Sunbury Trainmen Summon Help When Fire Is Discovered In Coburn Home and Save Next Building

The following is reprinted from the Sunbury Daily Item, date of Friday, and was contributed by Norman Kerstetter, mail agent on the train referred to below:

The Sunbury crew of the L. & T. Pennsylvania passenger train due at Coburn at 3:09 P. M. daily, acted as fire alarm sounders for that village on Thursday afternoon. As the train drew into the Coburn station, an excited woman came running toward the engine frantically waving her arms and pointing toward a burning house nearby.

Engineer G. W. Radle, quick to size up the situation, pulled his whistle lever down and held it wide open for almost five minutes, while scores of people attracted by the sound flocked to the fire. The house was tenanted by Bailey Auman and family. It was of wood frame construction and was totally destroyed.

The quick action of the Sunbury crew, however, saved an adjoining house which took fire as the whistle drew scores of people from the village which is at some distance from the station, and they assisted in carrying out the furniture and in quenching the flames from the new outburst.

When the train left the station the villagers were still battling the second fire.

The fire in the Auman home started apparently in the attic. Mr. Auman is a trackwalker and was not at home at the time. He has had considerable misfortune lately. Recently his wife died, leaving him with five children to care for.

CENTRE HALL, 13; HOWARD, 5.

Centre Hall won its fifth league contest on Saturday by defeating Howard, on Grange Park, 13 to 5. The locals collected their batting averages by collecting 21 safe blows, among them three home runs.

Shay started for Howard and was knocked out in the fifth inning, after fifteen hits had been made off his delivery. Pletcher relieved Shay in the hope of improvement, but the only improvement was in the locals' favor.

Keller, Crawford and Goodhart each cut themselves a piece of cake in the form of a home run, the first two coming in the 7th inning and Goodhart's in the 8th. Crawford collected four safe blows—a single, double, triple and home run. Howard hit Harry Gross for eight safe blows.
