Diphtheria Hits at Adults

"There is no reason why there should not come a time when we can throw all our diphtheria signs into the waste basket," says Health Commissioner Henry F. Vaughan of Detroit. As Doctor Vaughan reiterated, everyone can be immunized against diphtheria. It is just a reasonable, ordinary precaution to be so immunized. Most adults exercise their arbitrary authority to have their children inoculated. But adults say: "Oh, that's a child's disease, I won't get it."

They are wrong, but inquire among your friends and see how many have been inoculated .- Detroit News.

Mrs. Victor Kauffman, wife of the editor of the Washington Star, has donated three dining room chairs which formerly belonged to Jefferson, and she has delegated Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes, of Washington, chairman of the descendant of James Monroe, to present the chairs in her behalf to Monticello. In addition the foundation acknowledges presentation of a very unusual and interesting colored drawing of Monticello, made many years ago in France from the recollection of a visiting Frenchman. This drawing was purchased by and presented to the foundation by Mrs. Martin W. Littleton foundation by Mrs. Martin W. Entreton of New York city. The foundation also acknowledges presentation of a handsome silk Vir-ginia flag, presented to Monticello by the women's committee who had charge of the replica of the Jefferson house on High ctreet at the Sesquicen-tennial exposition in Philadelphia. of which committee Miss Caroline Sinkler was chairman, and which committee was chairman, and which committee was represented by Miss Agnes Mori-son and a delegation which formally delivered the flag to Monticello. Of interest, too, to all Americans was the recent announcement by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university upon his return from Italy that he was bringing with him as a gift to the Columbia library a hitherto unpublished letter of Jefferson's. This letter, ordering a packet of books for Jefferson's private library, dated Monticello, April 19, 1821, and addressed to Messrs, De Bures Freres, Rue Serpente, Paris, gives an interesting and instructive view of the wide and varied range of Jefferson's intellectual activities and interests. The letter follows:

Guiding Young Minds in Scientific Paths

A moving picture sample of the activities of little children learning by the laboratory method "try it and see" is being featured in London in an unusual campaign. Malting House school, originally started by faculty members of Cambridge university for their own offspring as a place where young children could "learn how to learn." has proved so successful that the directors wish to expand it into a new type of educational research. To show parents who are interested in experimental schools what can be done to retain the emotional and intellectual drive of the "ask question age," movies of a specimen week at Malting House have been put on view for a private showing. The directors, who include such men as Sir Ernest Rutherford, former winner of the Noble prize for physics, and J. B. S. Haldane, essayist and biologist, recently attracted wide attention toward the school by advertising in leading scientific journals for a scientist "of the first order . . . to investigate and conduct, the introduction of young children to science and scientific method."

lish an appropriate shrine in Washington where may be preserved records and relics connected with the adoption of the Declaration of American Independence and to continue the nonpartisan work of patriotic education conducted by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation.

Thus the name of Thomas Jefferson. author of the Declaration of Independence and third President of the United States, would be immortalized along with that of Washington and Lincoln as the only Presidents whose birthdays are national holidays and Monticello would take its place with Mount Vernon and the house in Springfield, Ill., as a patriotic shrine. Although Jefferson is regarded as the "Patron saint" of one of the two major political parties and the term "Jeffersonian democracy" is a part of our current speech, this proposal to honor him should have the support of all Americans because it is strictly nonpartisan. The officers of the commission, appointed under an act of congress, are: President Coolidge: Vice President Dawes; Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house; George P. McLean (R.), senator from Con-necticut; Joseph T. Robinson (D.), senator from Arkansas; Simeon D. Fess (R.), senator from Ohjo; Royal S. Copeland (D.), senator from New York; Finis J. Garrett (D.), representative from Tennessee; John Q. Tilson (R.), representative from Connecticut; R. Walton Moore (R.), representative from Virginia; Robert L. Bacon (R.), representative from New York, and Dr. Edwin A. Aldema; Claude G. Bowers; Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook; Henry Ford; Stuart G. Gibbony; Thomas F. Ryan, and Felix M. Warburg.

Through the work of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation Monticello is being gradualy restored to its original condition and visitors there find it easy to believe that they are living in the past of more than a century ago. One aid especially in establishing that atmosphere is the large number of Jefferson relics which have been presented to the foundation within the last few months and which will be on exhibition at Monticello henceforth. The foundation recently made this announcement:

a dramatic manner. Several years ago the Lloyd library purchased in Paris the first volume of "North American Sylva" by F. Andre Michaux, a noted French traveler and botanist. When Miss Edith Wycoff, present curator of the library, was cataloguing the book. she discovered securely pasted in it a letter written by Jefferson to M. Michaux. This letter written eight years earlier than the Columbia letter as a token of esteem to the President's friend, in France, also reveals in a manner fully as interesting as the other communication one of the interests of the many-sided Jefferson, viz. his keen appreciation of any contribution to the existing scientific knowledge of Sir: My interior situation among the mountains, and great distance from any seaport town, is extremely unfriendly to punctual correspondence with the other side of the Atlantic Vessels bound to that quarter are gen-erally gone before I learn their destination by the public papers. I have received from you, at different times, several livraisons of your excellent work on the forest trees of America, to wit the 1st and 2nd sur les Pins et Sapins et sur les Chenes and the 9th and 10th on the Betula, Castanea, Fagus, Diospyros, etc. I have gone over them with great pleasure and re-ceived from them much information which had escaped my own notice, al-tho' the subjects lie under my eye. They contain a valuable addition to the knowledge of American trees and claim for you the thanks of all who interest themselves in this most interesting branch of science. I pray you to accept my portion of that tribute as being among those who set the highest value on your work.

"Receiving Room"

An elderly colored man hesitatingly opened the door at police headquarters the other day and walking into the building barely far enough to allow the door to close, addressed a bystander with, "Could you tell me, sir, where I could find the receiving room?

"No sir. Have no goods. I want the receiving room-the room where they bring 'em after they're catched." "Oh, I see. The turnkey's office. Right upstairs."-Indianapolis News.
