CHURCHES TO HELP ERECT A MISSION AT STATE COLLEGE

Reformed Synod Hears of Plan to Raise $75,000 on Home Mission Day—Students Go to Church, Rev. Stamm Says.

The Eastern Synod of the Reformed Church was asked to assist, through its congregations, to raise $75,000 toward the erection of a suitable mission church at State College, on the annual Home Missions day, November 13, at the final meeting of the Synod in a few days ago. The report of the Home Missions Board was given by Charles E. Schaeffer, of Philadelphia, general secretary.
Several talks were given in the plea for State College, which were enthusiastically received. William F. DeLong, of Philadelphia, field secretary, said the church must get busy and erect proper buildings.
"There is no other more challenging home missions project facing the Reformed church than this," Rev. K. Stamm, former pastor of the Faith Mission at State College, now of Reading, asserted. "Students do go to church. We must have faith and confidence in youth. And there is no greater work than to help young men and women think themselves through religious problems."

Resolutions of thanks to the local church, Franklin and Marshall College, and the press of the State were adopted. The re-establishment of the family altar and an intensive campaign of temperance education was urged in the report of the Publication and Sunday School Board.

REFORMATION DAY.

Pastors in Lutheran Churches Observed Anniversary of Martin Luther's Activity at Wittenberg.

Last Sunday the great majority of ministers in Lutheran pulpits spoke on the activity of Luther at Wittenberg. Rev. S. F. Greenhoe was no exception and gave expression to the thought on October 31, when Dr. Martin Luther nailed his famous Ninety-Five Theses to the church door at Wittenberg. And something infinitely better than merely a new denomination or group of denominations was born with it. The movement known as Protestantism placed renewed emphasis upon ideals which had been forgotten.

One of the most far reaching developments of the Protestant Reformation was the placing of the Word of God in the hands of the common people. It was Luther who translated the Scriptures into the tongue of the masses, and urged priests and pastors to see that every parishioner read and understood the Bible. It was Luther who conceived the recent marvelous inventions in printing to be gifts of God to spread His Word among His people.

Luther is rightly given credit for placing the Open Bible in the hands of the people. And the Lutheran church, which agrees with its illustrious founder in all matters of major importance, also believes that every man, woman and child should not only be given the privilege of using the Bible as a source of inspiration, instruction and comfort, but should consider it his duty so to do.
The minister did not fail to give due credit to the important work performed by his co-workers in bringing about the Reformation.

Considerable small game was bagged the first day of the hunting season by local sportsmen. An unusually large ringneck pheasant was exhibited by W. F. Colyer. THE NEW ERA IN TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION

Across the Atlantic

TODAY, you can talk Across the Atlantic Ocean from your Bell Telephone in your home or office.

Other things, while not so spectacular, are of perhaps greater benefit to you in your every-day use of the telephone.

Your voice travels over wires to the coast, and then leaps out over the sea.

You are connected to nearby cities today while you wait on the line—just as on local calls.

Your calls to more distant points are handled with a speed which a few years ago would have been considered visionary.

This development is indicative of the tremendous things which have been happening to your telephone service in recent years.

We're living in a new era in telephone communication.
