

MRS. REED BACK IN COUNTY JAIL

Refused to Pay Tax—Decision of Judge Bailey Results in Women in Milroy County Avoiding Following Her Course.

Mention was made last week of Mrs. Lillian Reed, of Milroy, going to jail rather than pay tax. Following is a more complete story covering the affair:

Mrs. Lillian Reed was recommitted to the Milroy county jail, 7:15 o'clock Monday evening, by W. H. Printz, sheriff, because she refused to pay her tax. The sheriff acted upon a decree issued by the county court a few days ago by Thomas F. Bailey, president judge.

Sheriff Printz went to the Reed residence in Milroy, early Monday evening and read the court's order to the woman and asked her what choice she would make between two alternatives, one to pay her tax, and the other that of imprisonment in jail. She chose to go to jail.

The sheriff offered to accept approved security that the tax would be paid within ten days, thus giving her the opportunity to enjoy her freedom for that length of time, but she refused to accept this proposition. When the sheriff first went to the Reed home he was thoughtful and gave Mrs. Reed an hour's time to select the course which she would choose, before he would take her from her family, and put her behind prison bars. The sheriff left her alone in her home so that she might study her case, and he returned an hour later to receive her decision, which was that she had decided to accompany the sheriff to his domicile behind prison walls.

Mrs. Reed accompanied the sheriff to the jail, unaccompanied by her husband. She took with her a suit case filled with her clothing and other articles which she may use in her cell. She refuses to make any statement.

Exclusive of her attorney fees, Mrs. Reed refused to pay these items of costs of her case in court, thus far accumulated: Court record costs, $29.50; amount of school tax with extra expenses added, $5.25; sheriff costs, $4.40. Total, $38.85. Mrs. Reed refused to give any security for the payment of this account charged against her, due to her failure to pay her school tax for one year.

The woman now a prisoner in the woman's ward of the county jail, is the wife of Ralph Reed, of Milroy, who conducts a restaurant in the town.

Z. T. Stine, Lewisport borough tax collector, stated that many women have been paying their taxes since Judge Bailey made his decision of the case against Mrs. Reed.

A Rare Musical Treat in Bellefonte, November 15th.

Miss Louise Stallings, the young American mezzo-soprano and radio artist of New York City, has been secured, through special arrangements, to give a recital concert from her annual concert in Chicago.

She will appear in Bellefonte on Friday evening, November 15th, in the chapel of the Presbyterian church. Miss Stallings is a singer of rare merit. She has received none but the most favorable comments from the New York press and critics in her recent recital in that city. The New York Sun said, "Miss Louise Stallings has a rich, mellow sympathetic voice of rare power and quality, which together with her pleasing and gracious personality at once captivates her audience."

Miss Stallings soloists for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and for Oratorio societies. Her accompanist is Miss Marion Carley, concert pianist, late accompanist for Madam Frances Alda of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Miss Carley is regularly engaged each year as accompanist at the annual Cotton Exhibition of North Carolina. She is a noted pianist.

Music lovers in every part of the county should not fail to hear these artists. Remember the date and place. As the seating capacity is limited, outside of towns people may reserve seats.
