

G. T. V. S. OBSERVES ARMISTICE DAY

Friday Program Given by Senior Class—Address by Rev. Hazen.

The Gregg Township Vocational School observed Armistice Day by a fitting program last Friday morning.

The program was prepared and presented by members of the senior class each member of the class taking an active part.

Mary Brungard served as chairman for this assembly. Among the numbers on the program was reading, "November Eleventh," given by Carl Myers.

"Mother Maehre" was impersonated by Ida Keller, as Barbara Robinson and Sara Foreman read the poem "The Soldier" as a duet.

Sara Engard gave the reading, "Be Not Afraid." The "Flag of the Free" was given in the form of a ceremonial by Ruth Swabb, John Glasgow, Fred Malone and Guy Jamison.

Rev. C. E. Hazen, pastor of the Methodist church, spoke for a few minutes to the school on the theme of "Higher Heroism." His instruction largely concerned service to your country and fellowman.

Patriotic hymns were sung by the school as part of the exercises, and the program was brought to a close by the singing of America.

From the story by Irvin S. Cobb.

No more meaty and colorful subject for a delightful comedy can be imagined than the ludicrous situations suggested by the emancipation of the Turkish women. Gone is the day of the cloistered Hour of Arabian Nights legend. In her place is the Turkish flapper—unveiled, un-haremed and un-shackled.
