

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Thomas F. Delaney, who had a light attack of flu, has recovered and is back to normal again.

Carl A. Auman, of Steubenville, Ohio, spent the holidays with his parents in this place.

Claude K. Stahl, of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stahl, of Altoona, were home over the Yuletide.

J. S. Rowe, assessor for Centre Hall borough, is making the triennial real estate assessment at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gilliland, of State College, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Jacobs, in Steubenville, Ohio.

Genevieve Ruble and Gladys Heckman spent Christmas vacation at State College with the latter's sister, Mrs. T. H. Hartwick.

Harold H. Keller, on Sunday, returned by auto to Laurel, Delaware, where he is teaching in the High school for the second year.

Editors J. C. Hosterman and Claude E. Musser, of the Millheim Journal, paid their respects to the Reporter while in town one day last week.

Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs, who had been in bed continuously from the effects of a broken hip, sat up for the first about a week ago.

John C. Bailey, of Philadelphia, has accepted a position with the Grand View Poultry Farm, in this place, and took up his duties beginning of last week.

Miss Margaret Fogelman, student in a business college in Washington, D. C., was brought to the Seaton home here by Isalah Emery, where she spent her holiday vacation.

John Foster and sister, Miss Mazie Foster, of Aaronsburg, and Miss Mabel Allison, of Spring Mills, comprised a party who will go to Florida by car, leaving some time this week.

A black bear paid a New Year's day call to Aaron O. Detwiler, near Colyer. Bruin came off "Old Tussey," stayed around the farm buildings for a short time, and then scampered off again to the mountains.

In this issue is found an advertisement for the New Chevrolet cars on sale since Monday. The advertisement gives much information one desiring to buy a modern car will want to know.

The Stephen Matis sale of farm stock and implements announced for January 17th, has been postponed until Tuesday, March 6th. E. M. Smith, has been retained as auctioneer. Mr. Matis has a good line of implements and stock.

Mrs. Peter Jordan, at Colyer, whose illness began at about the time of that of her deceased husband, is improving slightly, and hopes are entertained for her complete recovery. She does not suffer much pain, but is too weak to be out of bed.

On his return home to Lock Haven on Thursday night from the Centre Hall High School Alumni banquet, Harry Hubler met with an accident and damaged his car. Neither he nor his sister-in-law, who accompanied him, was injured.

Rev. J. Frederic Moore, accompanied by Miss Anne Sutton, of Lewisberry, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. L. Moore, Wm. E. Eisenberg, of Harrisburg, and a student of State Teachers' College, at Shippensburg, was also entertained at the Moore home.

Miss Rebecca Barrack, a former Centre Hall school girl, now teaching languages in the Huntingdon High school, was at her home in Lewisstown during the recent school vacation period. Miss Barrack is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Barrack, former residents here.

Frank P. Flory, a Potter township farmer who is making a success in his occupation, was a caller on Tuesday, and while here renewed the subscription to the paper sent to his son in Leavenworth, Kansas. The junior Mr. Flory is engaged in the retail milk business and is building up a good trade.

Wednesday morning of this week, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Spayd, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dutrow and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dutrow and son, formed a party traveling in three automobiles headed for Florida. They expect to go as far as Washington, D. C. the first day. They are equipped to camp out after reaching the warmer climate.

Harry Cole, who has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Daniel Bohn, near Old Fort, is engineer on the dinky engaged in hauling ground from a steam shovel used in road construction between Renovo and Driftwood. He has had previous experience in this kind of work. It is on this piece of road that J. F. McClellan is also employed.

James W. Swabb, of Linden Hall, who now carries the title of ex-County Commissioner, was a Reporter caller on Saturday to have inserted in this paper his professional card which states that he is justice of the peace of Harris township, and that he is again ready to take up his work in writing legal documents, and the like. Mr. Swabb steps out of the office of County Commissioner with an honorable record. He made "good" in every sense of the word, and if at some future time he should "choose to run" for another county office, his past record will carry him far toward achieving his goal.

Steril Stoner and John Jordan, of Colyer, had an unusual experience one day last week with a young dog. They were driving a Ford coupe when along came a deer bounding over the road and in order to avoid hitting it the speed of the car was decreased, and at this instant a second deer struck the side of the car, rebounded and fell to the ground dead in the minds of the young men. The animal was picked up, placed in the rear compartment in the car and the lid closed down. Then it was decided to take it to a game warden for hospital use. All was serene for a while, but then the whole car seemed to be alive—a long, long, sound of all deer crys! The door flew open, and the dead (?) deer leaped from its confined quarters, and sped on to the wooded section nearby.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

George Stover, manager of the McClellan grain and coal business, spent a well-deserved vacation in Philadelphia, New York City, and Newark, New Jersey. At the latter place he was a guest of Russell Goodhart, son of J. C. Goodhart, who is employed by a spring manufacturing company.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Franke, at Parkville, a suburb of Baltimore, about the middle of December. The son is getting along fine, but the mother, a daughter of Mrs. Clara Meeker, at Pottery Mills, has been in poor health since the arrival of the babe. Miss Ellen Meeker (now Mrs. Gross) cared for her for a period of five weeks.

DEATHS.

MOORE.—On Monday afternoon following Christmas Edward P. Moore, a freight conductor on the Tyrone division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died before medical aid could be summoned. He was about to enter upon his day's work when he was stricken with apoplexy. From a laborer he advanced to a track foreman, brakeman, flagman and conductor. He was aged sixty-one years.

The deceased is survived by a wife whose maiden name was Miss Elizabeth Miller, and a daughter, Miss Elizabeth, and Marjorie Sedlers, who lived with them since babyhood.

For many years Mr. Moore, wife and children, were familiar figures during the Grange Encampment and Fair here. They camped on the Main avenue and as a rule were among the first campers on the grounds, and thus formed the acquaintance of many persons about town.

STRUBLE.—Watson Struble passed away at the home of his son, Clyde, at State College, of a complication of diseases. He was born at Zion, October 16, 1859, and was a son of Conrad and Sarah Struble (deceased). In 1871 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Kramer. To this union were born twelve children, eight of whom survive: Oscar N., of Pine Grove Mills; Harry V., Clyde L. and J. Dorcy, of State College; Mrs. William Fishburn and Mrs. Harry Benner, of Lemont; C. Bruce and J. Feron, of Houersville. Twenty-five grandchildren and one great grandchild also survive.

Lindbergh's "WE."

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, America's popular hero, has written a book on his life which covers his early days in aviation and his applicable flight to France.

Thousands of people will be glad to learn that the New York American has secured the serial rights to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's famous story "WE." Although in its eighteenth edition, and still among the "best sellers," the New York American has scored a genuine beat in securing this epic story—paying a fabulous price for the privilege of presenting it to readers throughout the country.

"WE" is the celebrated flier's own story of his life and his remarkable trans-oceanic flight—and will begin in the New York American, Sunday, January 8th. The story deals with a description of Lindbergh's boyhood and early flights. It tells how he got his first plane—his unique career as a stunt flier—his training days in the army Air Corps—his emergency jumps which saved his life as an air mail pilot. Then comes the stirring description of his New York to Paris flight—and the receptions that followed in Europe and America.

Readers of this newspaper who have not already read Col. Lindbergh's absorbing story may do so by following it daily and Sunday in the New York American. To insure getting every installment of this great book, mail $2.50 to cover two months' subscription, Daily and Sunday, to the New York American, 219 South Street, New York City, N. Y.

OH, BOY! GOOD NEWS!

I hear that Abrahamson's Department Store, Millheim, is having a No Profit Sale, starting Friday, January 6th, and everything in the store is to be sold at cost or less. Abrahamsons don't want one penny profit.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7th, 12:30 o'clock, on the Horner homestead, 1/2 mile east of State road over Nittany Mt. G. T. and S. S. Horner will sell farm stock and implements; clean-up sale.—E. M. Smith, auct.

FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from the Pennsylvania State College.

BRING BUSINESS TO DATE—Take the annual inventory before the end of the month and enter it in your account book.

HARVEST THE RIPE TIMBER—Timber is a crop. Is part of your timber crop ripe? ask Penn State foresters. The best time for the farmer to cut his ripe timber is during the late fall and winter when work with other farm crops runs low.

PROTECT SEED CORN—How is your seed corn? If the corn is not fully dry it is better to keep heat in the storage room for a few days than to have to look elsewhere for your seed next spring. A hard freeze can damage moisture-laden seed corn considerably.

TAKE CARE OF TREES AND VINES—Do pruning at other tree surgery on bright days during the next few weeks. Also tie up any vines that need attention.

CHOOSE EGGS CAREFULLY—In preparing eggs for exhibition purpose, remember that only strictly fresh eggs should be exhibited. They should have smooth firm, and clean shells and should be uniform in shape, size and color. Eggs should be packed well for shipping as they are easily broken.
