

WEST PENN POWER RECOVERING FROM STORM DAMAGE.

The West Penn Power Company is slowly recovering from one of the worst storms of the year. The snow and ice has interrupted service in most sections of this territory. With very few exceptions, the central stations could not be kept in parallel due to interruptions on the tower lines and lines of lesser voltage.

The Coke Region and territory in the vicinity of Monessen and the Monongahela Valley near Masontown were hardest hit while Allegheny Valley was seemingly saved from any interruption due to the unprecedented storm. The Keystone Division of the West Penn Power Company is being carried by the Piney Dam Station of the Penn Public Service Corporation which is located a few miles from the town of Clarion.

The climax was reached at approximately noon on Saturday when the storm abated slightly throughout sections of the West Penn System territory. Due to fine cooperation from all departments from the line walkers and construction crews up to the system operators and the various central stations, the badly crippled lines are slowly being placed in service again. Difficulties in establishing telephone communication has greatly hindered the restoration of service, and throughout the districts, West Penn employees are taking advantage of transportation of any kind—automobile where possible, horseback where available, and on foot.

BOALSBURG ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Johnston, of Crafton, spent the past week with Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mr. M. A. Woods. The Missionary society of the Lutheran church will meet at the home of Mrs. George Homan, Thursday evening, May 3, at 7:30.

Mrs. W. J. Wagner, who had been ill for several days, is convalescing. A little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kent at the State College Hospital last week.

Our town has been without electric current since Saturday and the telephone operators report they have only eight patrons they can call.

A number of large limbs were broken off trees and the roof of the barn at the Tavern and those of numerous stables were broken by the weight of the snow.

Postmaster Jacob Meyer was off duty for several days last week, engaged in making some improvements about his home. Miss Murray had charge of the office.

SPRING MILLS

Miss Geraldine Bitner spent a few days at Milton with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Mensch.

Mrs. M. B. Sunde, superintendent of the milk plant, has been quite ill with grip.

Mrs. Steiffer returned from State College where she was employed for a few weeks.

Elmer Lingle and wife and Pearl Decker attended the funeral of Mrs. Harry Lingle, at Tusseyville, on Saturday.

The snow and storm did a lot of damage to telephone and electric light poles. The town and vicinity was in darkness for two days and nights. Many trees and roofs were broken down from the heavy weight of the snow. The old willow tree at the bridge, an old landmark fell prey to the storm and in its falling took with it electric light and telephone wires.

FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College.

HEALTH CONDITIONS IMPROVE.—Health reports show that the typhoid fever death rate is now down to 2.7 per 100,000 in Pennsylvania, and the disease is no longer an important mortality factor. In rural sections the building of septic tanks has aided in curbing disease and promoting health.

BORERS CAUSE LOSS.—Commercial damage to corn depends upon the number of borers per stalk and vigor of the plants. As a rule, an infestation of five borers per stalk produces little commercial loss while 30 borers per stalk produces little loss of the crop. A commercial loss probably will be felt with 10 borers per stalk in field corn and with a smaller number in sweet corn.

WILTED LEAVES BREAK LESS.—When cabbage plants have attained a fair amount of leaf spread, breaking off leaves can be avoided by cultivating after mid-day on sunny days when the leaves are somewhat wilted. They will then yield more readily.

PRESERVE SPRING EGGS.—Use water glass for preserving spring eggs for later use. Buy Penn State College poultry specialists. Add one quart of commercial water glass to nine quarts of water previously boiled and cooled, and mix thoroughly. Allow two quarts of the mixture for each three dozen eggs.

COWS NEED GRAIN.—Cows on pasture need some grain to keep up the milk flow. Grass is a bulky feed containing 75 to 80 per cent water, and it is impossible for a cow to consume enough of it to supply the required nutrients for high milk production.

All in one beautiful case. Add tubes and it's ready to operate! It is powerful. Supplying 150 volts to power output tube it gives full undistorted volume. Other sets supplying 110 to 135 volts result in poor quality, distortion and less volume.

THE PRICE OF THE NEW JEWELBOX IS A TRIUMPH OF MANUFACTURING GENIUS!
Crosley engineers designed this new Crosley Jewelbox under explicit instructions to make first a perfect radio. If the production of their final design had been limited to a few hundred, only wealthy persons could have afforded them.
