FOUR QUESTIONS

Your life may be saved by heeding these four questions:

First: Have you a cough that seems to hang on?

Second: Are you losing weight steadily?

Third: Have you a tired feeling nearly all the time?

Fourth: Have you indigestion or loss of appetite?

If you can answer "yes" to any of these questions, consider it a warning to go to your doctor or to a clinic for an examination as soon as possible, because these symptoms may indicate tuberculosis.

Fifty years ago tuberculosis was a death sentence. Today it can be cured, if it is discovered in time, by the simple treatment of complete rest in bed, plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and good food, under the direction of an experienced physician. The important thing to remember is that in order to bring about a cure the disease must be discovered in time.

The ladies—and the men, too—may be overjoyed to discover that they are beginning to lose weight. We ask you, "How are you losing it?"
