To Vote on Bond Issue. The voters of Millheim borough will vote on a bond issue for school purposes at the general election, November 6th. There appears to be little of no opposition to the program of erecting a High school building in Millheim Penn and Haines townships ar able to finance their portion of the project without resorting to the sale of bonds; Penn township, for the present, will meet its obligation by paying a stipulated amount annually. This leaves Millhelm as the only one of the three districts needing to go before its peo-

> If the farmer can stand another cur in the price of his wheat when he takes to market and a rise in his taxe next year, he then should vote for al the loans on this year's bailot to help those fellows who love to roam on the velvet .- Huntingdon Monitor.

The price obtained for wheat by farmers throughout the west is less than in a number of years, and potatoes are selling at such a low rate per bushel that many farmers will not raise them. These conditions are not at all favor able to Mr. Hoover who is in sympathy with the Coolidge veto of the McNary-Haugen farm bill.

Sure, we are all for good roads, but we can have good roads, and more good roads than we now have without the $50,000,000 bond issue. Too large sums of money at the command of the State Highway Department would lead to greater extravagance than would be the case if the fund are kept to a reasonable sum.
