

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Frank Phillips, of Potters Mills, sold a new Ford touring car to Ira Auman, of Pine Grove Mills, last week.

W. L. Jacobs, Miss Margaret E. Jacobs, Miss Carribel Emerick, Mrs. Geo. H. Emerick and daughter, Miss Verna Emerick, spent last Wednesday in Altoona.

Charles Bradford, of Pittsburgh, who is engaged in contract plastering in the Western Pennsylvania city, is hunting in the Seven Mountains with the Bradfords.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. L. Moore took their son Rev. Frederic Moore, and wife, and their daughter, Miss Miriam Moore, to Lewisburg, on last Thursday. On Friday, Mr. Moore attended a session of the York county teachers' institute, at York.

Aaron H. Harter, of Harrisburg, accompanied the funeral cortege conveying the remains of Miss Dale from Harrisburg to Shiloh, west of Pleasant Gap, on Tuesday, where interment was made. The cortege stopped in Centre Hall for a brief period of time.

When you hear over the radio from Station WCAM, Camden, N. J., you will be listening to a station over which Clay W. Reesman, Director of Parks and Public Property in that city, has complete supervision. This mention is made because Mr. Reesman was a boy in Centre Hall.

Mrs. Eliza Meyer, who with her son, John D. Meyer, is living in an apartment over the First National Bank in Tyrone, of which bank Mr. Meyer is the cashier, will spend the Christmas season with her granddaughter, Mrs. Harold P. Butler, and her great-granddaughter, in New York City.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs during the past week were the following: Miss Ella Bottorf, of Leont; Mrs. Lizzie Otewine, of Bellefonte; Mrs. John W. Stuart, of State College; Miss Ellen Gilliland, of State College; Mrs. Eliza Leach, of State College; a sister-in-law, and Miss Anna Sweney, of Boalsburg.

William Bradford and son Randall, and daughter, Mrs. Harry Crisman, and the latter's daughter, Betty, all of Phoenixville, came here by auto last week and will remain as guests of the former's brothers, D. M. Bradford and Paul Bradford, until the end of this week. The senior Mr. Bradford is hunting with the Bradfords who are located at Pole Bridge camp.

Last Thursday evening union Thanksgiving services were held in the Methodist church, Spring Mills, with Rev. H. W. Newman pastor of the church, in charge of the services. Rev. Smith of the Evangelical church, preached a very timely sermon which was much appreciated. The union choir under the leadership of Mrs. H. W. Fetterolf, furnished special music for the occasion.

Orvis Taylor is now in full charge of the garage at Potters Mills formerly owned by Frank Phillips, and later by L. Lotz. Mr. Taylor purchased the garage and has moved his family from State College to Potters Mills. He is a son of the late John Taylor, of Potter township, and has been engaged in garage work for a sufficient length of time to assure car owners good mechanical repair work.

Harry Neff, who is employed at Camp Susquehanna, near Susquehanna, in the county of that name, is home for a brief vacation. The camp entertains the sporting class in high style. The proprietors aim to produce on the large farms connected with the camp everything possible that goes to make up the menu. This includes wild game, meats from domestic animals, foreign vegetables, nuts, etc. The bad road conditions in the winter are the only drawback to living at the camp as he sees it.

George Hackett, son of Brown Hackett, living on the Dauberman farm along Sinking Creek, was doubly unfortunate recently in crossing the Seven Mountains in his Star touring car. He collided with a car, resulting in disabling his own car. A messenger was sent to Millroy for an "ambulance," and in executing their part of the program a second accident happened. Close to Millroy the Star broke away from the "ambulance" and toppled from the concrete road over an embankment, doing considerable additional damage. The garage man, however, assumed his part of the damages.

"Dobbin" is sure becoming more and more every day in every way out of place anywhere on the highway. This was demonstrated very conclusively one day last week when a little mishap to a tire so frightened one of his kind that he almost fell to the ground. Mr. Baumgardner drove to town at the time referred to and tied his faithful horse to a post to the front of the T. L. Smith's place of business, and went on the errands he came here for. William Casher, a young farm hand employed by Mr. Hagan on the Edward Durst farm at Earlstown, came here in the modern way—driving a big Nash touring. When opposite the Smith place of business one of the Nash tires blew out, and Dobbin was so thoroughly frightened that he almost collapsed.

Among the incidents due to the hunting season is one in which Harry Moyer, tenant on the Benner farm, near Old Port, was the principal, and as good fortune had it he came through able to deny it yet it is said to be quite true. A fine buck came from Egg Hill through Harry's domain, and on reaching a fence made some miscalculations, resulting in his large and wide spread antlers getting fast in the fence—so fast that his buckskin was completely stalled. Harry saw the deer's predicament, and taking with him an axe went to the rescue. A few whacks of the axe and his lordship was released. The buck then showed a most ungrateful and vicious spirit in attacking his rescuer. He was upset, rolled over and over, and it was only due to the performance of a faithful dog that Harry's skin was saved.

B. D. Brisbin will this week accompany his daughter, Mrs. George Robertson, to her home in Hartford, Conn., where he will remain for some time. Mrs. Laura Lee, housekeeper for Mr. Brisbin, will be with her son, W. E. Lee, at Potters Mills, and sister, Mrs. Mary Herring, in Altoona, during Mr. Brisbin's absence.

The 7th and 8th grades, W. H. Haney, teacher, and 3rd and 4th grades, Miss Martha Yearick, teacher, rendered appropriate Thanksgiving exercises on Wednesday afternoon before the holiday named. Music, recitations, and a playlet were a part of the program executed in a most delightful manner. The 5th and 6th grades, T. L. Moore, teacher, were spectators.

For the second time this season the B. Gardner Grove household in Centre Hall sat around the festive board graced by a wild turkey. Mr. Grove had the good fortune to kill a bird on Thanksgiving day, along Nittany Mountain, above the old improvements on the Sharer farm east of town. Andrew Mark, who has lived with the Grove family for a few years, early in the season killed the other bird referred to.
