CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1929.

NO. 16

HIT AND RUN PENALTY INCREASED BY YEAR

First Crime Commission Bill Signed—Centre County Excepted in Bill Making Each County a Separate Poor District.

The penalty for involuntary manslaughter was increased by Governor Fisher's approval of Staudenmeier bill. It increases the maximum prison sentence from two to three years.

The measure, which was a Crimes Commission recommendation, and the first of the 18 recommended by the commission to be signed, originally provided for a five-year sentence. Hit-and-run drivers are prosecuted under this act.

The Governor gave his approval to 18 bills and vetoed one.

The Homsher bill, requiring the Secretary of Highways to obtain the approval and consent of County Commissioners to construct and improve State highways and requiring the department to pay half the land damages, was vetoed.

"The bill," the Governor said, "would put the construction program at the mercy of local considerations."

"Moreover, payment of land damages has always been a matter for counties. The motor license fund has too many prospective burdens to justify further impositions upon it."

Governor Fisher approved the Quikley bill amending the act of 1925 to provide that each county shall be made a separate poor district with five exceptions.

The poor districts of Philadelphia and Allegheny are excepted. Bradford is excepted from the McKean county district, and the present district in Westmoreland county is to remain the same.

Insofar as the provisions relate to territorial subdivisions the following counties are excepted: Carbon, Fulton, Cameron, Luzerne, Centre, Columbia, Lycoming, Montour, Northumberland, Susquehanna, Wayne and Lackawanna.

The Harvey bill allowing Sheriffs $1 and mileage for summoning jurors; the Haines bill providing for the certification of seed potatoes, agricultural and vegetable seeds; the Griffith bill removing the annual license fee for registration of jacks and stallions; the Wilson bill authorizing farmers co-operative associations to do business on a credit basis; the Williams bill authorizing the chief forest fire warden to declare forest fire hazards a public nuisance, and the Marcus bill providing for private sales of municipal bonds where no bids are received, were among the bills signed by the Governor.

PAY OF ELECTION OFFICIALS IS SET BY SENATE BILL

Provides $7.50 a Day for Judges, Inspectors, and Clerks and Additional Compensation for Each 100 Voters Over 200 in Any Precinct.

Election officials everywhere are interested in the Moore bill which fixed the pay of election officials. No objection was offered to the measure.

The bill was not passed as it was originally introduced. In the first instance the bill provided that election officers should receive an extra day if they worked after midnight in the counting of the votes, and the compensation was fixed at $7.50 a day.

The bill, as passed in the senate, provides compensation of $7.50 a day for judges, inspectors and clerks of election. If there are more than 100 voters in a precinct, each official is to receive $2 extra, and for each hundred voters over 200, another dollar is to be added.

The provisions of the bill are favorably spoken of. It is shown that in a precinct where 1,000 votes are polled each election officer would receive $17.50, or compensation for working two days. It is stated that to poll and properly count 1,000 votes it takes a number of hours equal to two working days.

About 330 people are employed as election officers in Centre county in the holding of an election.

SHEFFIELD MILK PRICES.

March Milk Sold at $2.70 per Cwt.—42 Cents More Than Paid in March, 1928—Highest March Price.

The secretary of the Sheffield Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., announced that the net cash price to be paid the members of the association for the milk sold by them in the month of March, 1929, is $2.75 per hundred pounds for 3 per cent. Grade B milk in the 201-210 mile zone with the usual freight, grade and butterfat differentials. This is equivalent to $2.95 for milk sold on a 2.5 per cent. butterfat basis. It is 42 cents per hundred pounds higher than the price paid in March, 1928, and is much the highest price ever paid for March milk in the history of the association.

This price ought to act as an incentive to all dairymen to make every reasonable effort so as to arrange their production so to be able to supply their market next fall and winter. We have now the best market to be found and it is well worth our best endeavors to protect it by furnishing an adequate supply for the next short period, thus avoiding the necessity of an extension of the area from which New York City gets its milk.

Poorman—Callahan.

Walter L. Poorman, of Boalsburg, manager of the farms owned by Col. Theodore Boal, and Miss Esther Callahan, daughter of Daniel Callahan, of Linden Hall, were united in marriage on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Calbert, of Tyrone. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Martz of Boalsburg, Mrs. Martz being a sister of the bride. Rev. Morgan officiated at the ceremony. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Callahan, Miss Freda Braeger, of Tyrone, and George Smith, of State College. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served. The newlyweds went to housekeeping at Boalsburg immediately.

Letter from Beloit, Kansas.

Beloit, Kan., April 11, 1929.

Dear Editor:

Enclosed find check which pays my subscription to Jan. 1930.

It is a welcome weekly visitor and how we work. Sorry to thus learn of the passing of my school mate, near Ellwood, Ill. Chris Bines, of old Tussey Sink school-boy days. Have not been back there since 1907. How were feasted by the kin and friends and ended with an old-fashioned corn roast on top of Old Nittany. I could have even a better view now from the "lookout" than I did then of the old farm home of which some fields ran up the side of Old Tussey from where I could see the buildings of the then called "P-H-S" and feeling my time would soon come when I could finish the education I already had begun at the Tussey Sink "academy," as it was called in derision, after us pupils with our teacher, the late A. A. Kerrin, had spelled their school down.

We still love to get the weekly news from them, and am pleased to learn of members of old families, whose family name I remember, who now belong to the 400-bushel potato growers' club. But set, how I remember as a boy I would have disliked being one of the pickers; but thanks for the inventions since my youth.

I suppose you all agree with the Secretary of State in view of how to close the Mr. and Mrs. Gann question—America's question of official etiquette. I am surprised that Mrs. Gann did not have the courage to say "I am democratic enough to stay in the ranks with my husband. There is nothing I detest more than having a husband to be impeached."

I hope you will take the hint and not publish this letter for some may not understand. I am still a Democrat, but not a "Tammany Democrat."

We had quite a frost last night. Could use more moisture, but the alfalfa and wheat fields look green.

Your well wisher,
JACOB K. GEISS.

MERGER APPROVED FOR SEMINARIES

Mt. Airy Directors Vote for Union of Three Lutheran Schools.

The directors of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy have approved the proposed merger with Gettysburg Seminary and Susquehanna Seminary at Sellsgrove.

The proposal is to consolidate into one new school, which would be located somewhere within 20 miles of City Hall, Philadelphia, to be completed in 1931. To be effective the plan must be approved by the directors of all the institutions and their supporting synods.

One Mt. Airy director said the proposed merger was an attempt to erase superficial difficulties and create an institution with greater facilities and ability to prepare men for the ministry. The location of the school near here will bring it close at hand to many Lutheran parishes, which will serve the students as laboratories of experience.

The proposed school would serve an area embracing 1700 congregations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, West Virginia and New York.

The move is seen as a result of the 1926 convention of the United Lutheran Church in Richmond. There a resolution was adopted urging "seminaries in contiguous territory to consider whether the best interest of the church would not be served by consolidation, or by such affiliation as would unify or correlate their work."

The seminary at Hartwick, outside of Cooperstown, N. Y., was included in the original proposal of the above merger, but later dropped out. Under the suggested plan there would be 46 directors apportioned among the supporting synods on the basis of two ministers and two laymen to each synod, provided it boasts more than 15,000 communicants. For each additional 50,000 members four additional directors would be provided.

Tell It to the Aviator.

Why not tell the aviator this is Centre Hall in letters, say about twelve feet high? A sign post could be laid on the Reporter building in letters large enough to be read at a great height. Each of the ten letters in "Centre Hall" could be given a space of approximately six feet in width, and proportionate height on an unbroken surface.

Think it over.

COST OF GROWING POTATOES.

4-H Club Members Grew This Crop at from 31 Cents to $3.00 Per Bushel.

Forty-three 4-H club members grew potatoes at a cost of 53 cents a bushel last year, records of four county clubs summarized by C. P. Lang, assistant State club leader of the Pennsylvania State College, reveal.

Costs per bushel varied from 31 cents to $3.00. Twenty-five per cent of the club members kept their costs under 45 cents and 62 per cent were below 60 cents a bushel. The club members having the highest costs per bushel were the ones who sprayed only a few times or used the smallest amount of fertilizer, because their yields were low.

In computing the records, man labor at 15 cents, and truck and tractor labor at 85 cents an hour. Manure was valued at $1.50 a ton, and half of the cost was charged to the potatoes. Commercial fertilizer was charged at cost. Charges were also made for use of buildings, equipment, and land, for depreciation on equipment and machinery, for interest, and for taxes and all supplies used.

Wilbur McClellan is back with the State Highway Department after a vacation of a few weeks. He is now in the Clearfield office, having resumed work on Friday morning.
