Paper Old and New

Modern paper receives its share of eriticism, perhaps not unjustly. It perishable and that books printed upon it will not last, and comparisons unfavorable to the paper of today are drawn between the old-fashioned article and the new.

Much that has been said on this sub ject is undoubtedly true, but the in ference must not be drawn that all old paper was lasting. The investigation go to show that the paper of pe days was often very poor stuff. The history of paper making in Europe from the time of its intgoduction in: Spain by the Moors in the Eleven century shows that from its earlie use paper was deemed fit only f passing documents and that when was first used in bound books it w thought necessary to bind alterna leaves of parchment and paper. paper was deemed too brittle to stand the strain.

hird Speech Channel Inaugurated by Telephone Call from Landon to Claveland.

A recent telephone conversation beween London, England, and Cleveand, Ohio, handled successfully brough the Lawrenceville, N. J., short wave transmitter of the Amerian Telephone and Telegraph Comcany, marked the commercial openng of the Bell System's new short wave radio telephone transmitting center. In future all trans-Atlantic short-wave radio messages passing over Ball System wires in America will be transmitted through the new radio plant.

Equipment is being installed and tested in England and in South America to take care of the proposed new channels. At the same time preparations are being pushed forward at Lawrenceville and at Netcong, N. J., the short wave receiving center in this country, which began operating last summer. Providing a third trans-Atlantic speech channel, the new short-wave unit supplements the long wave and short wave systems previously operating between the United States and
