

Englishmen Eat Much, but Few Put on Fat

The English are the leanest race in the world; one seldom sees a fat Englishman, yet many of them eat four square meals every day, writes William Lyon Phelps in Scribner's Magazine.

George Santayana told me a new story of the famous Oscar Browning, of King's college, Cambridge. He ate seven meals a day. There are persons who wake up in the middle of the night and cannot fall asleep again until they have eaten something.

Exchange Offer Made

W. P. Frith, royal academician, was painting in the country one summer, living in a cottage owned by a nice old woman who often used to watch him paint.

"But she said 'No,'" chuckled Frith, relating the incident to Julian Hawthorne. "She couldn't think of robbing me, but she'd be perfectly content if I'd take the chair in exchange for one of my little 'pleasers'!"

Which took Frith's breath away for a minute—the little 'pleasers' would easily sell for a thousand dollars or more—but he got out of it somehow and carried off the chair, too.—Kansas City Times.

Use a Fork Now

Gone is the generous lake of juice in which vegetables used to be served. Gone are the fancy little fleets of "side dishes" that used to find harbor near our dinner plates.

Breaking It Gently

There came a hurried knock at the door and a voice made itself heard through the letter box.

"Open up, Mrs. O'Malley—open up!" Mrs. O'Malley opened the door quickly. On the steps stood her neighbor, crying softly.

"O've come to tell ye yer 'usband has met with an accident, Mrs. O'Malley," she wailed sadly.

"Ah, to be sure, an' phwat is it now?" cried the other, anxiously.

"Och, the poor man was overcome by the heat, darlin'."

"The heat?"

"Yis, yis," returned the bearer of the news earnestly. "Your man fell into the furnace o' the foundry."—London Answers.

Links With the Past

Several interesting relics of the famous Boar's Head tavern are to be found in the Church of St. Magnus the Martyr. Lower Threadneedle street, London.

They date back to 1831 and include an antique drinking goblet known as the "Falstaff cup," and the big tobacco box that so excited the admiration of Washington Irving, as recorded in his "Sketch Book."

They date back to 1831 and include an antique drinking goblet known as the "Falstaff cup," and the big tobacco box that so excited the admiration of Washington Irving, as recorded in his "Sketch Book."

The latter has its cover decorated with a picture of the old inn and a company carousing, two of the chairs being inscribed with the names of Prince Hal and Falstaff. An inscription records that the box was used at the vestry meetings at the Boar's Head.

Tell It to the Marines

Over the entrances to certain encampments of the American marines is a sign which reads—"If you don't listen, you'll get killed." But this warning did not originate with the marines, says the American Magazine, which explains: "It is really the life code of all wild things in nature. With them, to obey is to live, and to disobey is to die. Almost daily, wild creatures are called upon to make life-and-death choices, and they usually choose with celerity and dispatch. Reason and natural laws go hand in hand, and to violate a law of nature is always to defy reason."

Claim Uncanny Power Absorbed From Trees

In Liberia and Sierra Leone, in northern Africa, there is a small element of the residents who devote themselves to a rather uncanny life in the forest and so devotedly that they become part of the forest, entering into its moods as much as the very trees themselves. In fact, they claim to consort with the trees. By watching them and studying them and by constant association with one particular tree, they claim that there is an interchange of thought and sympathy through which these persons are enabled to ascertain information often of a very advanced nature. A few years ago it is recorded that one of these persons visited an American representing some industrial interests and told him of the sale of a great tract of land in the vicinity and gave him the name of the man who would come to take charge. Just out of curiosity a note was made of the name and the memorandum was properly witnessed, and four months later the prediction turned out to be absolutely correct in every particular. The forest lore is handed down to relatives.

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickle) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet. "Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.
