BEARS BLOCK HIGHWAY

Rufus Sharer, son of S. E. Sharer, of near Linden Hall, found the highway before him blocked by three black bears, one night recently when he was returning to his home from Boalsburg in an automobile. He was driving along on State Highway Route 250 and on reaching a point near his home the three bears, two of which were cubs about the size of a Collie dog, were seen at some distance and as the car approached the animals failed to clear the road until the car came to within less than ten feet of them. It was only because the driver slowed down that they were not hit. The young man realized the car lights blinded the bears and gave them chance to clear out, which they leisurely did, first climbing a bank along the roadside and then to safety.

A mature bear in that section during the time they may be killed will need to keep out of rifle range to get away with a whole skin.

CHRYSLER ADDRESSES DODGE MEN ON FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Summarizes Record of the Chrysler Achievement in First Year of Ownership — Assures Executives Dodge Brothers Name and Prestige Will Be Enhanced and Expanded by Future Development.

"The Restoration of Dodge Brothers Prestige" was the subject of an earnest talk by Walter P. Chrysler to the executives of the Dodge Brothers organization on the occasion of the completion of the first year of Chrysler ownership of the vast Dodge properties, says R. S. Hagan, proprietor of the Hagan Garage in Centre Hall, and Dodge dealer.

Mr. Chrysler pointed out, he says, that under the management of the Chrysler organization, the Dodge Brothers Six has shown a gain in sales 57 per cent greater than that of the former Victory Six in the year Chrysler acquired Dodge. The increase in Dodge Brothers' truck, bus and coach business for the same period has also been substantial, Mr. Chrysler said.

In this first year of Chrysler ownership of Dodge Brothers, plant efficiency has been greatly increased under the direction of K. T. Keller, vice-president in charge of all Chrysler Motor manufacturing and general manager of Dodge Brothers Engineering design, quality of materials and craftsmanship has been further improved, with a corresponding increase in the value of the product. The great Dodge Brothers dealer organization, always one of the strongest in the industry, has grown still stronger.

Much of the growth in volume and in prestige, Mr. Chrysler attributes to the restoration of the policies established in the business fifteen years ago by John and Horace Dodge, and to the re-establishment of the name of Dodge Brothers in the motor car markets of the world.

"Under the ownership which preceded Chrysler, there appeared a tendency to get away from the name of Dodge Brothers, and from the prestige for value, dependability and mechanical excellence which that name had so long carried," said Mr. Chrysler.

"While the company was still known as Dodge Brothers, its cars were known as the Victory Six, the Standard Six and the Senior Six. The trucks, buses and motor coaches manufactured by the company were sold under the name of Graham Brothers.

"To the Chrysler organization, our purchase of these great properties brought three assets of incalculable value—the vast and fine manufacturing facilities in the splendid plants, the soundly established and aggressive organization of Dodge dealers, and the name of Dodge Brothers.

"In my judgment the greatest of these was the 14-year old prestige of the Dodge Brothers name. We could have reproduced the brick, mortar and machinery of the manufacturing plants. Conceivably, we might in time have duplicated in the marketing of a fine product the prestige of the Dodge dealer organization. But only to Dodge Brothers and to a business built upon the principles of integrity, progressiveness and fine craftsmanship could there belong the public approval and the prestige which attach to the name of Dodge Brothers.

"That is why we immediately revived the original Dodge Brothers emblem, restoring to Dodge Brothers products that sterling sign of quality, dependability and value. That is why our first Chrysler-engineered Dodge car is named Dodge Brothers Six. That is why we have given to our trucks, buses and coaches the name of their makers—Dodge Brothers. That is why every Dodge product, no matter what its model name, carries also the name of Dodge Brothers.

"This grand old name is the grandest thing that came with the acquisition of Dodge Brothers and, under Chrysler management, I firmly believe it shall go steadily forward to greater and greater eminence. With your co-operation and with that of our fine dealer body, I confidently predict that the name of Dodge Brothers will enjoy in the future a prestige even greater than was ever imagined by the founders of this great manufacturing institution." adv.

19-BARREL LIQUOR CACHE.

The largest cache of illicit liquor ever uncovered in Centre county, was found Friday night in a cave on the farm of Harry A. McClellan, near the foothills of the Seven Mountains. Nineteen barrels were removed from the cave, by using rope and tackle, and Arrin Smith, of Yeagertown, was arrested on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

A hearing was held before Justice J. L. Tressel, in Spring township, that night. Smith gave bail in the sum of $1000 for a further hearing on Friday night of this week.

The arrest was made by L. H. Nicholson, a State police lieutenant at Huntington, who also superintended the removal of the liquor from the cave to the Centre county jail.

It was reported here that Mr. McClellan had been arrested in connection with the case, but that report is untrue, the Reporter is glad to note.

Bech Creek Bank Robbery.

Mr. Sykes when his car was stolen and he was left lying in the woods. It is believed that the missing fourth bundle has the money taken, from the young merchant, for the only money recovered from the men already under arrest was the bank's currency, readily identified by its package form.

The sum stolen from the bank included $3,550 in twenty dollar bills, $5,000 in ten dollar bills, $2,500 in five dollar bills and the remainder in ones.

Shope was removed to the Centre County hospital about 3 o'clock on Friday morning, after he and Kline had been examined by State police and the admission of the men's previous criminal record had been made. While physicians were unwilling at that time to have him moved, Shope's condition is not considered serious.

Kline Friday morning complained of soreness about the chest but an examination by physicians revealed no injuries. Both Shope and Kline have shot in their faces from the guns fired at them by Dr. Tibbens and Frank Williams. They are now in the Clinton county jail.

Leo Kline, 17 years old, son of H. N. Kline, who is in the Lock Haven jail, is thought to be about his home in Clearfield. Officers are watching for him.
