

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frank will this week move into the Breen home on Church street.

Mrs. Mary Herring, of Altoona, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Laura Lee, at the Brislin home.

Rain set in Tuesday evening and continued throughout the night and Wednesday. It was the first rain of any consequence for three months.

An elm tree along Elk creek in Millheim borough at a point two and one-half feet from the ground, measures thirty-four inches in diameter, making its circumference approximately ten feet.

Mrs. James Houser, who had been at the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, for about two weeks, was brought to her home at Spring Mills on Tuesday evening by her son, Claude Houser, also of that place. Her condition is regarded as improved.

Mrs. Belle Bowman and sister, Mrs. Ell Snyder, of Shenandoah, and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wachtette, of Bethlehem, composed an auto party to land at Spring Mills and were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lee. Mrs. Lee is a daughter of the former.

Vapor heating plants are being installed in the dwellings occupied by E. M. Huyette and W. F. Keller, by the Hootman & Stover company. Millheim plants of the same order are also being installed in the Kerlin offices at the Grand View poultry farm and in the private residence of W. W. Kerlin by Caldwell & Son, Bellefonte.

Three stings from a hornet put L. M. Arney out of commission for a day. He was rendered unconscious and required the services of two physicians to bring him about in the good form he now is. The hornet selected a point back of the ear for a single and the back of one of his hands for a double, and Sunday morning for the time.

S. M. Goodhart, who has long been connected with the Penn Furniture Store in Johnstown in various capacities, has been made manager of the company's store at Somerset, and is now in charge there. He expects to move his family there at some near future date. Mrs. Goodhart, at this time, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. W. F. Keller, and father, Alfred Durst, in town.

Harry W. Dinges is one of the few orchardists in this section to have a good crop of apples this fall. Mr. Dinges attributes his consistently good yield to his practice of spraying each spring. His leading varieties are Baldwin, Stayman-Winesap, Jonathan and Wagner. A young tree of Jonathans, with its perfectly formed fruit, free of all blemishes, is a beautiful sight to behold.

Claude Dutrow, now a helper at the Boozer filling station, has leased the W. F. and Christ Keller farm east of town and will begin farming operations next spring. While he was reared on a farm, this will be his first effort on his own initiative. He will stock the farm himself, the same as Ray J. Sharer, the present tenant, who, by the way, will move onto the Sharer homestead purchased recently by him.

While at the Cambria county fair recently a guessing contest was put on by the General Realty Company. The guess was on the number of beans in a jar on display, and the prize a building lot in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, estimated to be worth $350. Mrs. W. F. Keller, of town, who with her husband was one of the fair attendants, put in a guess which proved to be the nearest to the correct number of beans in the jar. She was notified of her good estimate and was invited to come to Pittsburgh, look over the prize and get a deed for it. This she expects to do in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Buck of Berwick, the latter part of last week returned from a month's vacation auto trip to Colorado, where the Spanish-American War Veterans convention was attended. Returning, they drove north to Minneapolis, where a brother, Rev. H. W. Buck, was visited, and spent some time with Paul Keen, a cousin of Mrs. Buck, in St. Paul, Pittsburgh was another point stopped at, and at Centre Hall they were guests of Mrs. F. P. Geary, a sister of Mr. Buck, and family. Mr. Buck is storekeeper for American Car and Foundry Co. at Berwick, and this is the first real vacation taken in thirty years.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Funk left here on Wednesday morning in their Paige sedan for California, Los Angeles being their definite objective point. They will not rush across the continent, but are planning to reach the coast in three weeks. The Pacific slope will be new country to Mr. Funk, but not so for his wife—she spent four months there during the past and knows much of the country in a general way. Mr. Funk has arranged with an orange grower to engage in harvesting the orange crop, and later may engage in the poultry business, in which line of work Mr. Funk has large experience. The couple have the best wishes of many here in their new field.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Haney left here by auto on Monday morning for their new home at Rising Sun, Maryland. Mr. Haney engaged in teaching school in Gregg township and Centre Hall borough for a number of years but about six weeks ago accepted a position with the Sheffield Farms Company, and is now a field man working out from the town named. Dairymen in that section are progressive, and advanced in their dairy industry. Most of the customers of the plant where he is located keep registered stock, and the Guernsey and Jersey breeds largely predominate. An effort is being made to bring the herds supplying the plant up to a test of not less than four per cent.

MILK PRODUCTION BREAK

Better Cans and Better Feeding Need Seen—Every Dairyman Must Exert Effort to Furnish New York Supply.

The writer is not certain that milk producers are fully impressed with the necessity of keeping up the supply of milk during the fall and winter months. Under ordinary circumstances a scarcity of milk would enhance the price, but that is not the case in this instance. While scarcity of milk for a very brief time might bring about an increase in price, eventually it would invite competition from other fields and the result would be a much lower price for the product during the major portion of each year, if not throughout every month. With a view of further impressing producers along this line, a reason for the decline of from ten to twenty pounds of milk per day per dairy in September is given, and a remedy:

Two factors enter into the sharp falling off in early September production in the opinion of those best informed on conditions throughout the entire territory. The severe drought, which rendered thousands of acres of pasture land practically valueless as feeding grounds and which in some instances even effected the available water supply for livestock, is one of the factors in the case. The second important factor is believed to be the fact that many fall cows are dry now. Which of these two factors had the most effect in cutting down production cannot be determined.

Regardless of this, however, the situation is such that heroic steps must be taken by every producer in this territory to assure a sufficient milk supply for New York City, and to prevent any further falling off in production.

Right now proper care of all cows is the most important thing any dairyman has to do. Nothing will have a more serious effect on cows now than to be left out in the cold or wet weather. To be left out in such weather at this season will cause cows to give less milk, and once their production declines it will be practically impossible to bring them back to 1929 production. Therefore every producer should plan to have his cows in the stable early. And, nothing should be allowed to interfere with their proper care—not even the importance of silo filling or other fall work.

Next step is to feed the cows generously; to give them all the feed they will eat. Much milk can be saved for the fluid market by feeding calves on skim milk powder. As soon as the calves reach an age of two or three weeks they can be given skim milk powder and thus a considerable quantity of fluid milk made available for the fluid market. Skim powder is as economical and efficient for the calves, and has been found entirely satisfactory by scores of dairymen.

Mrs. Charles M. Arney dislocated her shoulder in a peculiar manner a few days ago. She was walking on the street near her home with a dog which was on leash, when the dog, copying a rabbit, made a dart, throwing Mrs. Arney to the ground with the noted result.
