The Chevrolet coach stolen from William Garis, of Bellefonte, was found a few days later at Wadswick. The car was taken from in front of his home. No damage had been done, except that a full gas tank was found entirely empty.

Cheap as Bellefonte water is there ought to be no complaint of the quantity used. There might be need of some reduction in the use of "liquids," but we never heard of anybody over there being injured from using water from the sink spigot.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lingle, of near Millroy, drove to Penna Valley where they lived until twelve years ago when they left the then Dr. Lee farm to move to their present home which they own. The twelve acre tract of timber offered at public sale by W. H. Ertel, at Coburn, was bid in by the Meyer Lumber company, of Coburn, at a price of $2350. This tract of land was in the possession of the Ertels for three generations, or covering a period of more than 70 years. W. H. Ertel's grandfather owned the tract. He sold it to his son in 1862, and W. H. Ertel, the grandson, inherited it in 1887. In that time no timber of any account was cut off it.

The initial step to revive the L. T. L., a junior branch of the W. C. T. U., here, was taken Monday night at which time eight children presented themselves at the home of Mrs. S. W. Smith for organization. The organization was effected by electing Roberta Smith, president; Gladys Scott, vice-president; Catherine Bender secretary; Alice Spayker, treasurer. Other active members were Catherine Smith, Anna Mae Martz, Marie Snyder and Ethel Meyer.

Speaking of building operations in lower Penna Valley, the Journal says the James L. Miller residence at Aronsburg will be of cinder block construction, more than two-thirds of the walls being erected at this time. Mr. Miller will have his interior finish (plaster) put directly on the blocks, eliminating the lath feature that usually precedes the plastering. The blocks are both hollow and porous and it is claimed that these air chambers add greatly in making the casing a desirable feature. Local builders are watching this construction with interest, principally because of the reduction in cost of building.
