

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

John Rishel is making an improvement on his home here by inclosing a side porch.

Townsmen John Dahem, who had been ill, has almost completely recovered.

John D. Wagner, of Pottery Mills, was in town on Monday and called here on business.

Sumner Packer, of Flint, Michigan, was recently at the Packer home here, where his wife is temporarily staying.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Foss of Bellwood, were at the C. F. Emery home last Thursday, the day of the butchering.

The Thanksgiving vacation at Penn State is unusually short this year. It began Wednesday noon and will continue until Friday noon.

During the latter part of last week Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shoop, from town, went to Altoona where they were the guests of Mr. Shoop's sisters, Mrs. John Wheeler, until yesterday (Wednesday).

William Swartz, of State College, a State building inspector, is located at Laurelton at the present time. Several buildings are now under construction there, among them a large laundry and steward's home.

Meade Wagonseller, who thirty years ago was principal of the Centre Hall High school, was met in his office last week by F. V. Goodhart, while the latter was under the care of Dr. MacKenzie, in Philadelphia. Mr. Wagonseller is located at 1734 Spruce Street.

Thursday evening of last week Mrs. Alice Durst was seized with a heart attack and for a time her condition was regarded as somewhat alarming. She has since improved to a very considerable extent. Mrs. Rufus Gearhart R. N., of Linden Hall, is in charge of her.

Frank Wbn. of Bellefonte, was the guest for a day of his sister, Mrs. Richard Brooks, in town. It is almost fifty years since Mr. Wbn left Potter township with his father, the late Daniel Wbn, who at that time removed from the Neff (now Blairfoot) farm, west of here.

Former Sheriff A. B. Lee, of Spring Mills, was in town on Tuesday to complete his equipment for the hunting season opening Monday. He is confident that bucks will not be as plentiful as heretofore, and that to kill an antlered deer this season will tax the skill of many hunters.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Buckwater were over-Sunday guests at the L. O. Packer home here. Mr. Buckwater is a Penn State senior, a student in chemistry, and Mrs. Buckwater, a daughter of Prof. L. O. Packer, until recently, was a teacher in the Pittsburgh public schools.

Mrs. John B. Wert, accompanied by her son, John, Jr., and Miss Myra Spiker, drove to Indiana, this State, where Mrs. Wert's daughter, Miss Anna Wert, is a junior in the Indiana State Teachers' College. On returning home they brought with them Miss Wert, who is now spending Thanksgiving vacation at the parental home, near Tusseyville.

The correct age of Rev. Daniel Mitterling, whose death notice appeared in these columns last week, was 77 years and 8 months. Others well known here, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Mitterling, of town, who attended the funeral of the minister at La Grange, Indiana, on Thursday of last week, were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitterling, and Mrs. Carrie Ashley, of Chicago.

The Grammar grade of the Centre Hall schools, under the care of their teacher, Roy Jamison, went to Coburn on Friday evening, and in a game of dodge ball were defeated by one point by the Grammar grade of the Penn Township Centralized School. Although they lost, the game was well played by the team. Mr. Jamison is giving his pupils good training in various sports and as a result in contests with local High picked teams they are able to make a score in their favor.

The West Penn Power Company broke ground at State College for a $50,000 sub-station, on East College Avenue. It is to be a model sub-station; also correct in architectural design. In addition to this, $10,000 are to be spent placing new transformers and relocating lines in the borough. By co-operating with the Bell Telephone company ninety-five poles have been eliminated. Another expense of $6000 will be created by the building of a new cut-in on the high power line which will practically eliminate State College from ever being without light.

The piles of ashes you see along the State highways about here have been treated with calcium chloride after dissolving it in water. The solution is sprinkled over the ashes and then the mass is shoveled over to thoroughly mix it. The purpose of using the solution is to prevent the ashes freezing into a solid body, interfering greatly with distributing them over the road bed when needed to counteract the slippery condition of the road. The use of ashes during the winter months on all types of improved roads has been a great aid in making it safe for auto driving on hills and curves.

A square shooter visited our newspaper office a few days ago. He was the type of fellow who likes to treat you as he himself would be treated. He owed us for two years' subscription, and along with his apology for his neglecting the matter so long, made the terse statement that "since you waited for me two years, I'll now wait for you two years," and forthwith handed over sufficient of the "long green" to put his label far ahead in 1931. Of course, we're not asking you all to do that, for if you did, we would have the money spent in a short time, and then we would have to be working for you for nothing for the next year or two.
