FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College.

IMPROVE DAIRY HERD—Provide now for a better milk-producing inheritance in your future herd. Get a sire from a line of breeding better than your own.

PREVENT DISEASE SPREAD—Isolate all birds from the poultry flock as soon as they show symptoms of disease. Then decide what method of treatment to follow.

ATTEND "HORT" WEEK—For three days, December 9 to 11, the Pennsylvania State College will offer the sixth annual Horticulture Week. There will be separate programs on vegetable gardening, fruit growing, and floriculture and ornamental horticulture. These afford opportunities for alert farmers to increase their information and improve their practices.

PROVIDE ICE SUPPLY—A farm ice-house is a valuable asset. Plan now to build such a house and fill it with the first supply of good ice to be available.

FEED DAIRY CALVES—If skim-milk is not available for dairy calf feeding, skimmilk powder is a satisfactory substitute. Mix one pound of the powder with nine pounds of warm water and feed exactly as skimmilk.

KEEP FARM RECORDS—Make yourself a Christmas present of a farm account book and in your New Year's resolution include a plan to run the farm on business principles. Ask your county agent how to start the bookkeeping.

PROTECT IMPLEMENTS—Winter weather is hard on unhusbed and unprotected farm machinery. The life of any machine can be prolonged if it stands in a good shed when not in use.

BUY ROOSTERS NOW—Do not delay purchasing male birds if new birds are needed in the breeding flock. If a few more than needed, so if deaths occur, there will be enough for use.

Bazaar and Bake Sale.

The local lodge of Ladies Temple, K. G. E., will hold a bake sale and bazaar in the basement of the Penna Valley bank building, Saturday afternoon and evening, December 7th. The patronage of the public is solicited.

M. O. Stover, of Millheim, is one of the successful growers of pork in that section of Penna Valley. Three hogs killed by him tipped the scale beam to these various weights: 556½, 603½ and 620½ pounds.

Game Commission Looks for Heavy Deer Slaughter.

An unusually heavy toll of deer, estimated at between 18,000 and 25,000, was forecast a few days ago by the State Game Commission for the 1929 deer season, which opened Monday.

In 1927, the last year that buck deer could be legally shot, there was a bag of 14,374. This number will be appreciably increased, in the opinion of the commission, because the shooting last year was confined to does and because of the scarcity of the food supply.

The commission asked sportsmen to place sacks of corn or other grain in the woods to prevent starving of the game over the winter.
