

CLOSE CO-OPERATION OF PROTESTANTS IS VITAL NEED

Organic Union Impossible at Present, Presbyterian Moderator Admits—Sees 213 Groups in U. S.

Need for closer co-operation between the Protestant groups, if no complete organic union, was stressed by Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, Chicago moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, in Detroit, on Thursday.

He was discussing the need of church union before the annual meeting of the Detroit Council of Churches. "The Church is ineffective and helpless in the presence of some of the world's greatest needs," he said, "because we cannot speak with a united voice in which the world can hear the authentic voice of our one Lord."

He lamented that the census showed 213 religious bodies in the United States instead of one coherent church. He warned of the peril of "multiplying little, ineffective groups centered around insignificant or subordinate things," yet said that "no one seriously suggests at present a total organic union of all denominations in America."

Difficulties of union, he said, might be met by effective federation, leading gradually to organic union. He was not sure that mere bigness meant greater efficiency, and there might be danger in catching the slogans of the day and counting as Christian some who were sub-Christian, he said.

"No sincere man," the moderator declared, "can face the world of today as a Christian opportunity and dream for one moment that his own particular group is adequate for it."

"It would be folly for any one denomination to say that it can take care of the situation by itself. Any one church in its senses is staggered by the world problems. Thinking of the world influence in Presbyterian terms or in Methodist terms or in Baptist terms is utterly out of the question."

"The only decent hope is in each adjustment of church relationships, that the problems can be conceived in their Christian entirety."

Pointing out that there are 121 groups in the country with less than 100 congregations each; that there are 19 Baptist groups, 18 Lutheran bodies, 19 Methodist church organizations, and 17 Mennonite churches, Dr. McAfee argues that "if the family groups were united into single units, and allowances made for specialties which could not be comfortable except in some degree of isolation, the entire grouping of Christian believers would number less than 100, which is too many, but which would be very much less confusing than the more than 200 at present."

Milk for December Down.

The Sheffield milk price for December is $2.72 per hundred pounds for three per cent. Grade B milk in the 201-210 mile zone with the usual freight, grade and butterfat differentials. This is equivalent to $2.92 for milk sold on a 3.5 basis. It is 18 cents per hundred pounds lower than the price paid in November.

PROMISES ROADS OF CLAY HARDER THAN CONCRETE

Road making material that promises roads harder than concrete and at the same cost as macadam has been developed by Professor J. B. Shaw, head of the ceramics department of the Pennsylvania State College and Myrtle C. Shaw, his son. The material, a massive baked clay "brick" running in size to five by twenty feet and weighing four and five tons, was developed in response to inquiries in Washington by United States Senator W. B. F. of Oklahoma, for an improved road building material.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards referred Senator Pine to the Penn State scientist, and to answer his inquiries the research was started that developed the material and the process of making it. Prof. Shaw expects to reveal the details at meetings of the American Ceramics Society in Toronto next month.

"BACK TO REGULAR DEMOCRACY"

In taking political stock of the year 1929, the New York Times is of the opinion that on the surface the replacement of President Coolidge with President Hoover was the chief political occurrence of the year, but also thinks that history with a long backward look may decide that it was the fiasco of the special session of the Republican Congress and the indicated return of the South to its traditional Democratic affiliation.

"The special session called in accordance with a campaign promise," says the Times, "and mainly for the purpose of aiding agriculture, developed speedily into a struggle between the House and the Senate over the question of whether there should be general tariff revision; and between the regular Republicans of the Senate and the remainder of that body as to what the rates should be. The result was exactly zero so far as legislation is concerned."

It cites the case of Virginia leading her Southern sisters back to regular Democracy, and her former "county," now Kentucky, choosing a Democrat to succeed a Republican in a bye-election. Although the Times omitted to mention the general trend to the Democratic party as evidenced by the municipal elections in the fall of the departed year, that fact is regarded by many as confirmatory of the significance of the action of Virginia and Kentucky.

TIMELY TOPICS FROM THE GAME COMMISSION

Restocking Game.

Sportsmen will be glad to learn that the rabbits now being stocked in various sections of the State by the Game Commission are large and in excellent condition. Shipments on the Commission's order for 50,000 of these creatures is just about completed.

The Commission recently placed orders for 200 Ringnecked pheasant cock birds, most of which will be used for stocking purposes in the spring in those sections where they were shot out during the past hunting season.

Prosecutions.

Prosecutions were numerous and penalties heavy during December. Officers reported having brought during December 539 prosecutions, among which were 75 cases of killing game by mistake.

Recently ten residents of Bedford county, residing in the vicinity of Flintstone which is on the line between Bedford county, Pa., and Maryland, and six residents giving their address as Flintstone, Md., were fined an aggregate of $1820 for staging an illegal deer hunt on Christmas day.

An anonymous letter to the Commission gave officials advance information and State Game Protector Ritchey and Deputies Kregor and Smith apprehended some of the gang on Christmas day and the remainder were rounded up a few days later. Each one was fined for hunting out of season and in addition, those who did not possess licenses were fined for hunting without licenses.

Additional Land.

Title was recently taken to a total of 3,000 acres of land in Bedford county comprising two separate tracts. One block consisting of 1,500 acres is now known as State Game Lands No. 48, and the other block consisting of 1,500 acres was designated as State Game Lands No. 49.

Sweet Clover as Game Food.

It is suggested that sportsmen and Scouts as they go afield from time to time, and particularly the fishermen who will be along the streams during the spring months may carry with them a half pint or so of sweet clover seed (Melilotus) and scatter it in the open places where the soil is sufficiently sweet to warrant its growth. Even in some of our woodlands clover can be sown with some degree of success in cleared areas. Of course acid soil which is representative of territory drained by swamp lands, and also heavier wooded areas which are rendered acid by the fallen leaves and so forth, are not suitable for planting clover. Small patches of clover scattered throughout the forests in open places will provide food for game birds, especially wild turkeys and grouse. It will also provide grazing for deer.

Box Social on January 17th.
The senior class of the Centre Hall High school will hold a box social on January 17th, in the High school building, to which the public is invited. Some of the amusements will be as follows: Fish pond, cake walks, entertainment, ice cream, cake and candy will be on sale.

Present Assembly Program.

The Assembly program on Friday, afternoon, January 10th, was presented by the Senior class. The program was as follows:
Solo with banjo accompaniment—Walter Wilkinson.
Song by the Novelty Quartette (Junior Wirt, Harold Bradford, Eugene McClellan, and Walter Wilkinson)—"Four Thousand Years Ago."
Play, "Who's Crazy Now?"—Characters: "Smooth," Junior Wirt; "Abrakad Sniffers," Goldie Stover; "Prof. Twitters," Harold Bradford; "Snowdrop," Thelma Brungart; "Officer Muldoon," Walter Wilkinson; "Expressman," Frank Rines.
Song, "I'm a Dreamer, Aren't We All?"—The Senior girls.
Song, "Bury Me Out on the Prairie"—Quartet.

First Semester Examinations.

January 16th and 17th, the regular High school schedule will be laid aside for the First Semester Examinations.

To Reduce Subsidies to Pulpit Students

Sentiment was expressed at the meeting of the Synod presidents of the United Lutheran Church, in Harrisburg, for a reduction and possible elimination of the subsidies paid by the church for the education of its clergymen.

The proposal was advocated by Dr. J. J. Scherer, of Richmond, Va., president of the Virginia Synod. Dr. Scherer said that, with some exceptions, the church's contribution towards the grooming of its ministers was too high at present.

A number of other delegates took up the subject and there was almost unanimity of expression for a reduction. Most of the speakers suggested that the money ordinarily paid by the various Synods as pastoral subsidies be paid directly to the educational institutions.

It was estimated by Dr. Frederick H. Knobel, of New York, president of the church, that the Synods pay a total of more than $200,000 annually in subsidies.

The champion potato king in Pennsylvania for 1929 is Henry High, of Blooming Glen, Bucks county, who raised 829.6 bushels of potatoes to a measured acre. He will be crowned "King" at the State Farm Products show in Harrisburg this month.

ALL HOLIDAYS IN MID-WEEK.

Longest Day in 1930 Comes June 21, and Shortest Day December 21—Only One "Black Friday."

This year will provide no double holidays as occurs when they come at the end of a week. The new calendar which is now in use shows that all the holidays of the year come in the middle of the week, consequently vacationists will get by the holiday.

The longest day of the year, June 21, falls on Saturday and the shortest day falls on Sunday, December 21. But there is something to be thankful for at least on the part of the superstitious—there is only one Black Friday—the thirteenth—and this will come in June. Following are some important dates:

Groundhog day—February 2—falls on Sunday.
Lincoln's birthday—February 12—falls on Wednesday.
Washington's birthday—February 22—falls on Saturday.
Good Friday comes on April 18th, Easter Sunday comes on April 20.
All Fool's Day—April 1—falls on Tuesday.
Mother's Day falls on Sunday, May 11th.
Flag Day—June 14—will be observed on Saturday.
The Fourth of July comes on Friday, Tuesday, Sept. 23, will be the Jewish New Year's day.
Columbus day, October 12, comes on Sunday.
Hallowe'en, October 31, comes on Sunday.
Election day will be Tuesday, November 4.
Armistice Day—November 11—falls on Tuesday.
Thanksgiving Day will be Thursday, November 27.
Christmas—December 25, comes on Thursday.

Grange Officers Installed.

At a special meeting of Progress Grange held on Monday evening, Pastmaster of the State Grange W. F. Hill, assisted by Mrs. V. A. Auman as Marshal, Bettie Elbright and Mabel Burkholder, attendants, installed the following officers:
Master, V. A. Auman.
Overseer, L. A. Brooks.
Steward, Charles S. Smith.
Asst. Steward, M. A. Burkholder.
Chaplain, Mrs. John Blausner.
Treasurer, J. W. Delaney.
Secretary, G. W. Ralston.
Gate-keeper, Curtis Reiber.
Ceres, Mrs. George McCormick.
Pomona, Mrs. J. B. Wert.
Flora, Mrs. M. A. Burkholder.
Executive committee—J. C. Brooks, J. W. Delaney, V. A. Auman.
About eighty members of the order were in attendance, among whom were J. A. Boak, Overseer of the State Grange, and wife; John S. Dale, of the State Finance committee, and wife. Several excellent addresses were made and an oyster supper followed the installation ceremonies.

HAIR-COVERED TRUNK BECOMES HEIRLOOM

A trunk, probably of German make, the property of Mrs. Blackford, at Glen Iron, is in the hands of Floyd E. Snyder of town for repair. It is an heirloom, handed down to Mrs. Blackford through her family, and its history is not known to the writer. It is evidently much over one hundred years old. On the exterior it is covered with natural deer skin, and on the inside a hair covering of the same kind was probably used, but there are only slight particles of it left now. Instead, a copy of the "Budget of Fun," dated Baltimore, 1831, furnishes the lining. The paper lining was not likely used until the original lining became soiled or badly worn, and this may have been at least fifty years, so the trunk is much over 100 years old. The trunk is 24x12 inches, 11 inches high, the top being oval. It has all the appearance of having been an expensive piece of traveling outfit at one time.
On the bottom is written in a good round hand, "Wm. H. Roush," but no date.

Throwing to Wind Old Custom.

Hon. J. Mitchell Chase is announcing himself a candidate for Congress, a third term. The claims of counties in the Twenty-third district, so far as Republican politicians are concerned, "rotates" is wanting, as is also the two-term rule. This is at least the opinion of The Times, of State College.
"And so it is with the State Legislature," the Times argues. It says Representative Holmes is hearing calls from every section of the county to be a candidate to succeed himself. And since political aspirants for office always hear what they are listening for, Mr. Holmes no doubt will officially announce himself a candidate to avoid being roughly thrown into the ring.

CENTRE CO. LAMB CLUB TO BE AT STATE SHOW

Centre county will be well represented at the State Farm show at Harrisburg on January 21, 22, 23 and 24. Chief among the exhibits will be those of the Lamb club, in charge of County Agent Ralph C. Blaney. Fourteen members of the club will attend the show and their best stock will be taken along.

The members of the club who will attend the show with exhibits are: Philip Smith, of Spring Mills; Edward Bitner, Florence Brooks, Alice Post, Fred Luns, Richard Ross, Margaret Ross and Wm. Campbell, all of Centre Hall; Harold Honan and Lee Honan, of State College; Charles Harter, of Nittany; Leroy Bechtel, of Howard; Floyd Waite and Clarence Hoy, of Bellefonte.

William Jeffries, Centre county vocational supervisor, will also exhibit records of thirty-five vocational projects completed or under way.
The Spring Mills Vocational school has already earned state-wide recognition, being judged among the best vocational schools in the hundred or more conducted in Pennsylvania.

A Holly Tree.

A lad, Edward Heck, in the Leysville Orphanage, gives a bit of information through "The Echo," the school paper, that will be of interest to many, and will give many auto tourists an opportunity to see a rare tree, a holly, in Pennsylvania. The brief article follows:

"You do not find many holly trees in our part of the country, yet there is one growing in one of our neighboring villages. I found in Duncannon, on the left hand side going towards Clark's Ferry bridge, setting a few feet back from the pavement and several hundred feet on this side of the lumber works located in the northern end of Duncannon.

"In mid-winter it is very noticeable because it is covered with dark green leaves that have spines on the edge. It does not show any berries and therefore we decided that it is a male tree, for only the female holly tree bears fruit or berries. This tree is quite large for a holly and seems to be thriving very well in this northern locality. It was brought north by one of the northern veterans of the Civil war who brought it back as a souvenir, planted it, and found to his astonishment, and ours, that it grew.
"Next time you pass through Duncannon, be on the lookout for this interesting tree."

REBERSBURG COUPLE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS, CELEBRATE

On Saturday, the 11th inst, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mallory, of Rebersburg, celebrated their golden anniversary. This union was blessed with five children—Mrs. W. M. Tarbert, of Manor, Pa., the first child, who also celebrated her forty-ninth anniversary at the same time and place; C. B. Malory, of Williamsport; S. O. Mallory, of the "Blue-bird Tea Room" of Rebersburg; Mrs. H. W. Frye, of Manor; and Mrs. I. W. Harer, of Williamsport.
A sumptuous dinner prepared by the mother was served by her daughter to the immediate family. In the evening a special program was rendered to the guests. Harry Frye, a humorist, gave a political monologue, and also read a poem composed by him, of each member of the family.
Miss Orpha Gramley read several humorous poems from Edgar Guest on "Popping the Question" and "Marriage" after which a lunch was served. Covers were laid for twenty-eight. A mammoth wedding cake adorned the center of the table. A gift from Chas. B. Mallory, employed by Winner & Franck Baking Co. of Williamsport. Many beautiful gifts were given the bride and groom, among which was $50.00 in gold, two five-dollar gold pieces bearing the date of their marriage (1880). Mrs. Grace Wolfe baked two large wedding cakes for the occasion and decorated them in gold and white, and assisted the hostess.
Mr. Mallory thanked his children who at all times vividly showed their kindness and respect and now are anxious that their parents shall be made sure of basing in the sunset glow continually which is more pleasant than the storms which sweep so many as they near the voyage of life. Then he quoted this poem:

Our days pass pleasantly away,
Our nights are blessed with sweetest sleep;
We feel no symptoms of decay,
We have no cause to mourn or weep;
Our fosa are impotent and shy,
Our friends are neither false or cold,
And yet of late we often sigh—
We are growing old.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mallory, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Tarbert, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mallory, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Mallory, Mr. & Mrs. H. W. Frye, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Harer, Rev. Spector of the Evangelical church, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Gramley and daughter, Miss Orpha Gramley, Mr. and Mrs. Windom C. Gramley, Mr. and Mrs. S. Ward Gramley and son Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. Steward Goyne of Ashland, and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Ocker.

Letter from Ohio.

Lorain, Ohio, Jan. 11, 1930.
Smith & Bailey:
Enclosed you will find check for subscription for 1930.
We are having all kinds of weather here for the last week or so—snow, rain and sleet; today we have a little sunshine.
Things are rather dull here now. I was laid off a week ago, the first time in fourteen years, but was lucky enough to find another job with the American Ship Building company until things pick up again in the building line in which I have been employed with the Wood Lumber Co.
With best wishes to the Reporter and all our friends for a happy and prosperous year.
M. J. BARGER.

ARE YOU HAVING SALE!

Permit us to remind farmers who expect to hold public sale this spring, that they should get their sale notice in the Reporter at once. By so doing it will be a matter of information for others who contemplate holding sale and will thus prevent conflict as to date. Most important, however, its advertising value. The Reporter circulates freely in the valley and your sale advertised here will repay the slight cost entailed many fold.

As in the past, no charge is made when sale bills are printed at this office; to others the charge is very reasonable.
Call on us or telephone 412.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

The Emma E. Bower home, in Aaronburg, was sold by the administrator of the Bower estate, for $1950, to Doyle Best, of Aaronburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Miller, on Friday evening, returned from their honeymoon trip to Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Washington, and other points.

H. B. Stover, who formerly lived at Millroy, is now located at Reedsville, where he will be found by his many old friends and acquaintances in Penns Valley where he once lived.

The Ladies' Civic Club, supervisors of Municipal Theater operations, in Millheim, have reduced their indebtedness, incurred six years ago, to one item of $1000.

H. G. Krape, the shoemaker, will make sale of his personal property on Saturday, January 18th, at one p. m. He expects to close the shoe shop owing to poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Hockman, on Tuesday, moved from the Bartges house to that formerly owned by the late John H. Weber. This will bring Mr. Hockman closer to his poultry plant located on Hoffer street.

A forty-foot steel tower was erected on the L. E. Stover lot in the rear of the Millheim Motor Co. garage. The tower will have a giant siren affixed to the top for a local fire signal, the arrangement being a part of a preparedness program adopted by the Millheim council.

The U. S. Agricultural Department in a recent bulletin makes this statement contrary to general belief: "There is no reason for removing food from a can as soon as it is opened. In fact, transferring the canned product to another receptacle might add to the danger of contamination."

Rev. Fred Griesing, of the Aaronburg Reformed church, substituted for Rev. S. P. Greenhoe, at the Week of Prayer services in Centre Hall, on last Wednesday night. He delivered a fine sermon in the Presbyterian church. Rev. Greenhoe's failure to participate in the services was due to Mrs. Greenhoe's illness.

Lemuel Brooks, who with his wife, the former Miss Annie Bell, of State College, came to Centre county on one of their tours by auto, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Royer, at Pleasant Gap. Mr. Brooks is the youngest brother of W. S. Brooks, of town, and came here to see him. Mrs. Brooks, owing to temporary illness, was not able to accompany him to Centre Hall.

Millard G. Reedy, of near Lewisburg, elected coroner in Union county, has returned his commission to Harrisburg. There is on salary contest with the office. The fee for holding an inquest is about $15.00, but since there are no records at the court house of a murder having been committed in that county, and but few accidents resulting in death, the prospects for the coroner are small.

Clyde Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Walker, of town, suffered a scalp wound while working with the steamfitters on new "Old Main" on the State College campus, last Thursday. A stone dropped from off the scaffolding on which stone masons were working and struck Clyde on the head, cutting a hole through his hat and inflicting a rather serious wound. He was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Charles H. Meyer, of Reedsville, who with Mrs. Meyer went to New York City to spend the Christmas season with their daughter, Mrs. Butler, and family, was not able to return home at the time owing to an attack of illness. It will be recalled that Mr. Meyer was unable to perform his duties as rural mail carrier for some weeks the latter part of last summer, but had again recovered. His friends here do not know the nature of his illness.

E. C. Harter, of near Spring Mills, was one of the business callers at this office on Monday, and was in his usual good frame of mind. He reported everything running smoothly in his section, except that sickness was occasionally inflicting itself on a family here and there. Among these was the family of Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Hockman, whose son, Eugene Hockman, grown to manhood, was seriously ill and had suffered much for more than a month. Mr. Harter was accompanied to town by James McCool.

John C. Lingle has returned to his home at Old Ford from a Government hospital at League Island, Philadelphia, where he had been receiving treatment for the past six weeks. John is a World War veteran, and in his service overseas was gassed. The serious consequences of this misfortune are now making themselves felt and the young man is in miserable state of health. He is home now for the purpose of gaining sufficient strength to enable him to undergo an operation at some future date.

Men and women will hereafter "wait" in the same room in the Bellefonte station. The ladies' waiting room has been converted into a baggage room and what was formerly the baggage room will become an express office. The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. appears to be competing with the State Highway Department to induce travelers to choose the auto or walk when contemplating a trip. Outside of the high-class trains, the traveler has been shorn of many conveniences and considerations shown him twenty years ago.
