Provide Fresh Vegetables—

Vegetable varieties should be chosen which will furnish fresh food over as great a part of the growing season as possible. This may be done by planting varieties which mature at different times and by making successive plantings of the same varieties. A good family garden should contain at least 25 different kinds of vegetables.

Choose Clean Ground—

Raise the chicks on ground where no fowls of any age have been allowed to run for at least two years and where poultry manure has been spread during that period. Where clean ground is not available or the brooder house cannot be moved, State College poultrymen recommend that chicks be raised in complete confinement.

Quality Demands Care—

Satisfying the customer's demand for good quality fruits and vegetables comes after a long, hard struggle against insects and diseases and constant care and watchfulness in handling the products of garden, field and orchard.

Test Seed Corn—

Serious losses are probable unless all seed corn is tested before planting this year. Early reports reveal severe injury to corn intended for seed and so handled that it would have been excellent in ordinary seasons.

Tomato Grows Popular—

From an obscure garden ornamental the tomato has grown in popularity until the annual crop is worth more than $41,000,000. Certain curative properties attributed to the tomato a hundred years ago have been scientifically established since the vegetable has been found rich in vitamins.

Bigger Yields Better Quality
Treat Seed Potatoes with SEMESAN BEL
THIS year, instead of letting your potatoes take their chances with damaging diseases such as scab, Rhizoctonia and black leg, kill these organisms on the seed, before you plant, with Semesan Bel.
No tedious soaking or harmful hot treatments necessary. Simply dip into the easily made Semesan Bel mixture and you are ready for planting. Semesan Bel mixes readily with cold water and is effective until completely used. No complicated equipment or skilled labor necessary.
By cleansing the seed of disease organisms, Semesan Bel aids germination and often improves the stand. Yield increases usually follow Semesan Bel seed treatment. In Crawford County, Iowa, Semesan Bel treatment of Ohio seed potatoes increased the yield 37 bushels per acre and on Cobler seed potatoes produced an increase of 88 bushels an acre.
Easily and quickly applied. Harmless to seed. Inexpensive to use. One pound of Semesan Bel makes 10 quarts of dip which treats from 16 to 22 bushels of seed potatoes. Use for both white and sweet potatoes. Packed in all convenient sizes from one to 300 pounds. Four ounces, 50c; one pound, $1.75; five pounds, $8.00.
Use Ceresan for seed grains and cotton; Semesan Jr. for seed corn; Semesan for vegetable and flower seeds and bulbs.
