

3000 AT PENN STATE SUMMER COLLEGE

Students from All Parts of the United States and the Hawaiian Islands Represented.

With an enrollment of upwards of 3000 students the twenty-first Summer Session at the Pennsylvania State College opened on Tuesday. Special work which is obtainable only in the summer school brought students from all parts of the United States and from several foreign countries. One student came all the way from the Hawaiian Islands to attend the French Institute, while the English Institute, the Nature Camp, and the School of Athletic Coaches, attracted students from every part of the country.

In addition to the resident faculty, a fourth of whom remained at the college for the Summer Session, more than one hundred educators were added to the staff from the faculties of other colleges and universities. Services of the very best talent in the east was retained for the six weeks term which comprises the Summer Session, the delightful summer weather prevailing in the mountainous region in which Penn State is located being one of the attractions which enables Penn State to take its choice of the men available for summer teaching.

CROSS SECTION OF HOOPER METHODS

President Hoover let special privilege agents and log-rolling Congressmen write a tariff bill which is denounced as a threat to prosperity, and then had to sign it with the apologetic promise that he would have it revised by a commission.

Just so he allowed electioneering Congressmen to frame a bad pension bill, and at the eleventh hour announced that he would kill it. As the New York World shrewdly observed:

He approved the tariff bill when a veto would have killed it, whereas he will veto the pension bill because there is no chance of defeating it. Through sheer mismanagement he has subjected himself to the ugly, demagogic but plausible charge of being willing to tax the people for the benefit of manufacturers, but unwilling to tax them for the benefit of war veterans.

This isn't good politics; nor is it good statesmanship.

Democratic Candidate for Governor in Centre County Tomorrow

John M. Hemphill, of Philadelphia, Democratic candidate for Governor, will be the guest of the Logan Fire Company, of Bellefonte, at their annual picnic at Hecla Park tomorrow (Friday), the Fourth of July. This is always one of the biggest midsummer gatherings in the county and Hemphill will have opportunity of meeting more voters there than he would have at any other meeting in this section. Hemphill is not expected to make a speech or express any declaration of principles at that time.

Federal Building for Lewisburg

The new Federal building for Lewisburg became practically assured with the passage by the House of Representatives of the deficiency bill including the appropriation of $255,000 for its erection.

According to plans announced several months ago, the building is to include the Lewisburg post office, Federal Court room, Prohibition Enforcement offices, Federal Court offices and County Agricultural Extension offices.

Jury Says Accident Unavoidable

The coroner's jury failed to take the same view as Corporal Gross when acting in the case of the death of Alexander J. Smith, of Philadelphia, who was killed when thrown from a car near State College. Harry Meek, R. D. State College, picked up Mr. Smith and a companion, and previously had picked up a negro. While driving on the Waddle road Mr. Meek claimed he lost control of his car due to an approaching speeding car, and that further that a tire blowout contributed to the accident. Corporal Gross charged the operator with reckless driving, but the jury said the accident was unavoidable.

Mr. Smith was taken to the Centre County Hospital where he died a few hours later. The colored man was injured, but not seriously.

Hot Dog Stands

The hot dog, or "red hot," as the luscious delicacy is termed in some sections of the land, has reached the point where it can justly be termed a national institution if one is willing to consider the income of $500,000,000 annually as big business.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, is authority for the statement that in America today there are between 110,000 and 125,000 roadside stands devoted to the distribution of the popular sandwich along with other edibles of a light nature for the passing tourists who seem never to have time to consume a full meal. No reference is made to the sad and unsanitary appearance of some of these places.

The hot dog field is one of individualism for the small stand owner, but sooner or later, as in other gigantic undertakings, some organizing genius will come along and we will have a coast-to-coast chain, linked together by hot dogs.

MILROY ACCEPTS NEW HIGHWAY ROUTE

Main Street Route is Eliminated—Concrete to Skirt Town.

After much discussion and several petitions pro and con the residents of Milroy have settled down to accept the fact that the new concrete highway, on which bids were opened at Harrisburg on Thursday, will not go through the main street of the town but will skirt the town to the west, leaving the old highway just before reaching the town and meeting it again at the foot of the Seven Mountains.

Some of the citizens wanted the new road to follow the old route, which would require considerable widening and moving of several houses; others wanted it kept outside of the town, and both sides circulated petitions to the county commissioners and State Highway Department. The State received bids on nearly five miles of concrete paving which will run through Reedsville to Milroy and join the concrete which runs to the Milroy-Centre county line on top of the mountains.

The lowest bidder was the Burkett Construction Company, Vineland, N. J. The bid was $250,909 for 4.32 miles. The Lewistown Gazette makes these statements in reference to the course of the proposed road at Reedsville and Milroy:

According to the plans and specifications, the road will diverge from its present route at the Narrows west of Reedsville, near what is now the narrow bridge, and go between the John Taylor house and barn on the hill and then will follow the present road across the flat to a point west of the Mustif farm, there to turn to the left and join the other road near Hartman's west of Milroy after crossing the low swamp land there.

At Reedsville the road will be changed to the other side of the hollow where it now lays and the course of the stream there will be changed somewhat.

Many Pheasant Eggs Produced at Game Farms

About 60,000 ring-neck pheasant eggs have been produced at the two State game farms so far this year. At the Fisher farm in Montgomery county there are now over 3,000 young birds in the rearing field and at the Jordan farm in Lawrence county, over 5,000. The latter farm expects to raise in the neighborhood of 7,000 birds, while the Fisher farm expects to raise around 5,000 birds. Refuge keepers have already been furnished about 15,000 eggs, many of which have already been hatched. Some refuge keepers have reported an almost 100 per cent hatch.

Much has been accomplished in the operation of the game farms since their establishment last summer and the results have been very satisfactory.

Results at the turkey farm in Juniata county have also been very good. There are now over 500 young birds at the farm, all coming along in fine shape.

Game protectors have been furnished approximately 2,500 eggs and over 29,000 eggs have been given to sportsmen.

STORM DESTROYS BARN

Second Barn Moved on Wall and Thrown Out of Plumb—Rafter Shot Through Summer House Over Head of Occupants—Damage $2,000 or More.

Two barns west of Old Fort, on the Boalsburg road were damaged during Thursday afternoon. One structure was almost demolished, and the other was thrown out of plumb and moved on its foundation.

The barn to receive the greatest damage was on the Brown farm, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Brown and tenanted by her son-in-law, Daniel Colyer. About twenty feet of the western end of the structure was completely demolished, and almost all of the roof of the entire building was tipped off and carried away. Large sections of the corrugated roofing were rolled up and deposited a considerable distance from where it did service.

A piece of one of the large rafters of the barn struck the gable end of the summer house and was driven through it. Members of the household were badly frightened by the incident, as some of them were in the house at the time and others on the outside had the experience of seeing the flying timbers pass over their heads.

In addition to the damage done to the barn, a colony house was pushed from its foundation and an implement shed unroofed. A ladder wagon was turned upside-down. A Chrysler sedan was also damaged by some object striking it and making a large dent on the back of the body.

Rough estimates of the cost to replace the barn is put at from $1500 to $2500.

Farther to the east of the Colyer barn the force of the wind was so strong that the barn on the Earl Ross farm was shifted on its foundation, throwing the structure out of plumb.

Trees were uprooted on the Baird farm, where M. C. Delaney is tenant, and the large willows at the B. W. Ripka farm, near Potters Mills, were trimmed.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS LARGE FARM BARN

William E. Shultz, Tenant on Allison Farm, Heavy Loser in Implements, Hay, Grain and Horse—Personal Property and Building Insured.

A flash of lightning ignited the large barn on the Allison farm, north of Spring Mills, Thursday afternoon of last week at about 3:00 o'clock, while rain was falling heavily. The barn was entirely destroyed. William E. Shultz is the tenant on the farm, and is also a heavy loser, although he carried insurance. His implements were all new or as good as new.

When the flash came, Mr. Shultz and several other men were standing near where the barn was struck. None of the men were injured, but one of them badly frightened. As soon as they recovered from the shock, the men began removing the stock from the barn. Four horses, a bull and two calves were taken from their stalls. One horse died next day. He began swelling at the mouth, his limbs became stiff and he finally died.

The barn was one on one of the farms long owned by the Allison estate, and on the adjustment of the estate's holdings was taken over by William Allison, Jr., of New York. It was a large structure—103 feet long, with an added shed on either end. Insurance in the sum of $2200 was carried by Mr. Allison in a company represented by the W. B. Rankin agency, Bellefonte. Additional insurance may be held.

Mr. Shultz had a complete loss of all his implements, except a tractor. A list of implements, etc., burned, included:

Two binders, tractor plow, double disc harrow, 2 riding cultivators, two-horn wagon, corn planter, sulkey plow, 4-section harrow, 60-tooth spike harrow, bob sled, hay loader, hay rake, mower, manure spreader, sheaf elevator and many small articles—a complete equipment for a 250-acre farm. Also, 500 bushels oats, 20 bushels of wheat, and about fifteen tons of old hay.

Mr. Shultz carried $4000 insurance on his personal property, but this included insurance on his livestock. The insurance was carried in the Sugar Valley company, William Stover, agent, Millheim. He had asked the agent to make a new listing of his implements, as he desired to increase the insurance to cover additional equipment purchased since the policy was issued, but the loss occurred before the plan was made effective.

Upon hearing of the fire loss, Mr. Allison came from his New York home at once to arrange for rebuilding of the barn, the carpenter work on which will be done by Charles Bierly. The structure in outward appearance will be much like the barn burned, but the interior will be arranged for greater convenience.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S CLINIC, JULY 10TH

The next Centre-Clearfield Crippled Children's Clinic held under the direction of the State Welfare Department, will take place at the Phillipsburg State Hospital on Thursday, July 10. Anyone knowing of a crippled child who needs attention is asked to acquaint the parents of the child with the date of the clinic. If transportation is needed, communication with the officers of the Service Clubs in the various districts is suggested, as nearly all these clubs are affiliated with the Centre-Clearfield Crippled Children's Society, and have committees designated to assist in bringing children to and from the clinic. If their parents are unable to furnish the transportation.

The Reformed Charge Picnic

Some of the games and contests enjoyed were peanut and chocolate kissing scramble, pretzel-eating, balloon blowing, nail driving, cat walk, horse shoes, various races, ball game and fancy dress.

The attendance was good, and a very enjoyable time was had by everybody present.

THE BETTER WAY

Pray don't find fault with the man who limps, or stumbles along the road unless you have worn the shoes he wears or struggled beneath the load. There may be tacks in his shoes that hurt, though hidden from view; or the burdens he bears, placed on your back might cause you to stumble too. Do not sneer at the man who is down today unless you have felt the strain that caused his fall, or felt the same that only the fallen know. You may be strong but still the blows that were his, if dealt to you in the self same way at the self same time might cause you to stagger too. Do not be too harsh with the man who sins, unless you have not sins of your own. For you know, perhaps, if the tempter's voice should whisper as soft to you as it did to him when he went astray, it would cause you to falter too.
