SPRING MILLS

Miss Orle Wagner, a student in the Lock-Haven Teachers' College, spent Sunday at the parental home, that of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Wagner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bartges, of Sunbury, were visiting at the former's home, Ivy W. Bartges, Sunday. The former's brother, Charles, of Harrisburg, brought them up on Saturday night in his new Ford.

W. T. Fredericks suffered a paralytic stroke last week and has been in a very critical condition since.

Last Thursday afternoon during an electrical storm lightning struck the large barn on the William Allison farm, occupied by William Shultz, and destroyed it. There happened to be several men at the barn at the time who saved the livestock and harness and tractor, but the remainder of the implements as well as the grain and hay were destroyed. Quite a loss to Mr. Shultz. One of the horses has since died.

Miss Mollie Moser, of Millheim, died on Sunday night, aged 82 years. Two sisters, Misses Kate and Minnie, and one brother, Samuel F. Moser, survive. She was the daughter of the late Samuel and Lydia (Ripka) Moser. The remains were laid to rest in Heckman's cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

MILLHEIM.

(From the Journal.)
The borough's traffic light, it seems, has lost its meaning to a large group of motorists. Some go right through, whatever the light shows—they don't even give it a glance.

The E. S. Ripka family vacated the W. N. Duck property on Penn street on Monday to occupy their recently purchased home on West Mainstreet. Following this change, P. S. Kerstetter, local insurance agent, vacated the southern half of the S. G. Snook duplex to move into the property vacated by Ripka.

Millheim is to have a new dentist. Fred C. Jones, D. D. S., of Salesbury, has rented the Thos. B. Ulrich store-room and upstairs apartment and expects to come here as soon as the quarters can be remodeled conveniently for him. He is married and will live in the apartment over his office.

According to current report, the stealing of gasoline seems to be a favorite pastime in these parts. Someone siphoned a tank of gas from a stranger who spent the week-end in the Millheim Narrows. And the power liquid seems to be vanishing more or less rapidly on the road making job in the eastern part of the valley. If and when these thieves are caught it is not likely that any sympathy will be wasted on them, nor will any sentiment stand in the way of a vigorous prosecution of their case. They'll get the works! And indications are that we'll soon know who is getting his gas for nothing—so far.

URGES PEDESTRIANS TO FACE TRAFFIC

Lack of Cooperation of Walkers on Highways Responsible for Many Accidents That Might Have Easily Been Avoided.

Sound advice to pedestrians is given by E. P. Curran, manager of the Safety Department of the Keystone Automobile club, who in a statement a few days ago urges walkers to face traffic while on the highways.

"This is no new idea," said Mr. Curran, "but it bears repeating considering the large number of persons who fail to appreciate their danger while walking with their backs turned to oncoming traffic. Their confidence in the ability of motorists to see them is, in numerous instances misplaced, because road conditions and glaring lights often make it impossible for the driver to note their presence.

"If on the other hand, the walkers face traffic, they can determine for themselves by the action of the approaching car whether the driver sees them. If it is apparent that he fails to do so, or is prevented from turning out by the approach of cars from the opposite direction, the pedestrian can save himself injury by stepping momentarily from the roadway.

"All motorists agree that walkers on the public roads at night present one of the most difficult problems of motorists. In many cases there is absolutely no cooperation on the part of the pedestrian. This is especially true when they are walking in groups taking up a great part of the highway and refusing to budge an inch to allow cars to pass in safety.

"This attitude on the part of walkers often leads to collision that could easily have been avoided if the pedestrian had kept to the side of the road."

FARM CALENDAR

TIMELY REMINDERS FROM PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

Stake Tall Flowers—
To prevent damage from wind the taller growing flowers should be staked. The stakes should be made as inconspicuous as possible.

Plant Late Vegetables—
Beets, carrots, rutabagas, endive, kale, kohi rabi, Chinese cabbage, bush beans, fall lettuce, spinach and radishes still can be planted in the home garden. Use the space where early vegetables have grown and plant leafy crops where roots grew and roots where leafy vegetables stood.

Save Grain from Moth—
Early threshing helps to control the Angoumois grain moth. To save wheat from the insect the grain should be threshed before August 1 if possible and not later than September 1.

Control Cabbage Worm—
One pound of lead of calcium arsenate and nine pounds of hydrated lime make a good dust for controlling cabbage worms. If a spray is desired use three tablespoonfuls each of lead arsenate and flour in a gallon of water.

Sprinkle Garden Well—
In sprinkling the garden be sure that sufficient water is put on to reach the roots of plants. It takes from two-thirds to 2 or 3 gallons of water to each square foot of ground to soak a moderately dry soil enough to compare with the effect of one inch of rainfall.

Cull Laying Birds—
Now is the time to cull the boarder hens. Look the flock over on the roosts and pick out the suspected loafers. The next morning these can be examined more closely and those which show they are not laying can be sold, say poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College.

CLOUDS OF PROTECTION for crops and profits

Effective protection against all menacing pests and diseases of field crops—but that is not all. Protection as well against inadequate coverage, and waste of time and material. How? By dusting with the improved

Niagara Dri-Fog Dusters

New in design, these machines are matched to their job—and can do it scientifically. A study of field conditions led to their construction.

The Dri-Fog Duster is sturdily built, yet it is light enough not to be another "horse killer". The construction is simple—easily adjusted and repaired. The improved dusting mechanism is designed to break up the dust into a uniform cloud of the desired intensity, equally divided among the nozzles. Every row, in this way, receives the same, correct amount of dust.

Niagara truck-crop dusters, having copper as a fungicidal base and calcium arsenate to kill external chewing pests, give quick and effective results with the Dri-Fog.

Visit our distributor soon. He will gladly explain the value a Dri-Fog can be to you.

A FARMER with six acres in strawberries was faced with an unusually heavy crop and a glutted market. So rapidly were prices falling that it did not pay to hire additional pickers. Instead, he telephoned a number of city acquaintances to come and harvest as many berries as they wished at so much per head. Thus eliminating all picking, crating and shipping charges, the farmer turned what might have been a loss into a neat profit.
