

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

The schools of Potter township will open Tuesday morning of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zearfoss, of Columbia, are being entertained by relatives in and about town.

Prof. J. F. Wetzel visited his brother, Prof. E. E. Wetzel, at Harrisburg, last week, and took in the American Legion parade, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Boal, of Altoona, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martz, of Lewistown, came to town on Sunday and greeted friends at Grange Park.

Mrs. William Bitner, of Tusseyville, will sell at public sale her real estate and personal property on Saturday, Sept. 20th. See ad. in this issue.

Mrs. John F. Mullen, of Pittsburg, on Tuesday returned home after a visit here with her sister, Mrs. Laura Lee, and other relatives about town.

Children who will be six years of age before the beginning of the second semester of school, Jan. 23, 1931, will be admitted to the local schools in September.

J. Roll Keller, of Phoenixville, drove up to Centre Hall beginning of the week to greet friends at the Grange Encampment. It is his first visit here in four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Auman, of Steubenville, Ohio, are due in town on Saturday. They will spend the week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Auman.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Daniels, of Mansfield Depot, Connecticut, are at the McClenahan home during their annual vacation. Mr. Daniels is employed by a Connecticut State institution.

Mrs. Thomas L. Moore, of town, on Friday, will accompany her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Crowl, and the ladies' mother, Mrs. Mary Christine, all of Elysburg, on a motor trip to Illinois and other mid-western States. They will be gone for a week or longer.

Pro. L. E. Baird, of Pleasant Gap, a well known educator in Centre county, will leave on September first for Mansfield, to become the supervising principal of the public schools of that place. Prof. Baird has served in a similar capacity in the community of Mahaffey for the past few years.

Miss Mayme Herring, Mrs. Eleanor Adams and Miss Davis, all teachers in the Altoona public schools, spent a few weeks in the valley. The former was at the homes of Mrs. Jennie Shook and Mr. and Mrs. John Hosterman, at Penn Hall, while the latter ladies stopped at the Potters Mills hotel.

Week end visitors at the home of J. F. Wetzel and family were Editor C. A. Baker, wife and son Hobart, Miss Della Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brininger and sons Hughes, Leroy and Dallas, and daughter Gayle, all from McClure, Miss Hughes and Mrs. Brininger are sisters of Mrs. Wetzel.

Editor J. G. Leshar, of the Huntingdon Monitor, paid us a pleasant call on Monday. Editor Leshar visited the Encampment and Fair for the first time in his life, and after seeing the 500 occupied tents and the beautiful fair grounds, expressed amazement and agreed it was all very wonderful.

Miss Gertrude Ruble is here from Chicago on a two weeks' vacation. For three years she has been employed by a banking house in the western city, having received her training for that work in the Penns Valley bank here. While in town she is at the home of her mother, Mrs. Sallie Ruble, and that of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bartholomew.

W. G. Fisher, of Sunbury, connected with the Department of Labor and Industry, was a caller at this office Monday. He has in charge the exhibit of the bureau of bedding and upholstery on Grange Park. Mr. Fisher is a native of Boalsburg, but has lived in Sunbury since he was a young man.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Y. Moyer and daughter, Miss Ruth Moyer, of Cleveland, Ohio, stopped in town for a few days during last week. They were on their way on an auto trip through the New England States. While here Miss Moyer was a guest of Mrs. W. W. Kerlin, while Mr. and Mrs. Moyer were entertained at the Rearick home in Georges Valley.

Miss Nellie Smith, of Steubenville, Ohio, was in Centre Hall on Tuesday, visiting her many friends and acquaintances, after a most delightful vacation spent in Canada. The greater part of the journey was by boat. Miss Smith is the superintendent of the Steubenville hospital, which position she has creditably filled for several years.

Miss Margaret Alexander is at her home here since finishing a course in the training school for nurses in the University Hospital, Philadelphia, and is now open for engagements. After graduating from the local high school she was obliged to wait a year on account of not having arrived at an age at which student nurses were accepted at the institution. She got along with her training work equally as well as she did with her school work here.

Among the callers at this office on Saturday was George H. Ripka, of Milroy, who twenty-one years ago moved from the McCoy farm to Mifflin county. Mr. Ripka had been "batching" it for four years on a sixty-six acre farm at Lock's Mills, but quite recently sold the place and is now again living with his daughters, Misses Myra and Cora, in his comfortable home in Milroy. The young ladies were brought to Grange Park by their father where they are camping as usual during this period.

George Condo and son Charles, of Greensburg, drove by car to Centre Hall last week where they were entertained by relatives. Mr. Condo reported business rather flat in that section and that he, an experienced meat cutter, had been out of employment for some months. On his return he took back with him his grandson, Glenn Miller, who had been with his grand-aunt, Miss Mary Durst, east of town, since last May. The lad, ten years of age, protested against leaving his temporary home in the country.

THRILLING DAYS SPENT IN SWITZERLAND MOUNTAINS

By Mrs. R. T. Bayard, Lucerne, Switzerland, August 11 1930.

"We arrived here yesterday noon from Interlaken. After seeing so many Palaces built by kings who are no more, it is inspiring to see the handiwork of the King of Kings—the great outdoors. We have had several thrilling days among the mountains of Switzerland. The 'Jungfrau' towered above us at Interlaken and here Mt. Rigi casts its shadow over us. Our trip to the Jungfrau zig-zagged us up one way then another so that sometimes the peaks above and the valleys below would be on one side then the other; then we would be in tunnels, then out in the open with sheer descents of hundreds of feet. At last we reached the end of the cog road and stepped out in the snow, where we snow-balled one another and washed faces and forgot our dignity. After that we ate lunches we carried with us, in a good warm room which we were glad to find there. After that we did some climbing, just far enough to see some glaciers, as with the recent rains and snows the paths were very slippery, so much so that it was dangerous without the proper shoes and canes, which we did not have. At one place I had to drop down on my knees to keep from slipping back, and you don't know where you will land when you start backward. The peaks and glaciers with their tons and tons of snow and ice, with the sun shining on them, are magical sights after coming up from a fairy and of green and flowers.

We zig-zagged down the mountain just as slowly and carefully as we went up. At times we saw as many as five and six waterfalls, all in sight at one time rushing down hundreds of feet. Our last sight of Jungfrau was with the bright morning sunshine on its snow clad peak. The trip from Interlaken to Lucerne is up and down and through mountains also, with beautiful valleys every here and there, thickly settled with the pretty chalets and shelter houses.

"After we arrived here yesterday at noon we took what is called the Axenstrasse drive, which is a drive round Lake Lucerne and giving us a fine view of Mt. Rigi. The drive is marvelous and gives all the thrills any one wants. The road is very narrow, and there were hundreds of automobiles and dozens of motorcycles going in both directions. Many pieces the road is too narrow for autos to pass and there are curves and curves, more than I could count, and numbers of tunnels with curves in them and, with places made specially for the autos to pass. A greater part of this road is cut out of solid rock with the straight up and down rock almost a thousand feet on one side and a sheer descent to the Lake of perhaps fifty feet. Then the lake 1800 feet deep on the other side. All the motor horns were going almost every minute. Sometimes our large bus would cover the road on the curves so that when a car came the other way, it would have to stop and let us get straightened out. I had to give several small shrieks.

"This morning we went to see the historical bridges across the river. They are covered bridges built in the 13th and 14th centuries. The one has the history of Switzerland in paintings on it; also a tower of an early date used as a fortification and prison. The second bridge has paintings illustrating the "Dance of Death." Old and young, rich and poor, good and bad, are finally claimed by Death.

"After that we saw the curious Glacier Gardens. These formations were made by glaciers hundreds of years ago, then gradually covered up and discovered only in 1872, and next came the museum, but I think I told you about these things after I was here three years ago. We again saw the "L'En of Luzerne" chiseled in the solid rock in memory of the Swiss Guards, who remained true to Louis XVI, and were killed during the French Revolution in 1792.

"Well, we move on tomorrow back into Germany for a couple of days, then to Belgium and Holland."

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Stahl, of Narberth, are among the campers on Grange Park from a distance.
