Centre County Farmer Seeks Forest Profits.

Seeking $500 profit each winter Alfred Albright of Pennsylvania Furnace is developing 75 acres of woodlot, according to F. T. Murphey, extension forester of the Pennsylvania State College.

Albright has a small sawmill and a shingle-making machine with which he plans to convert the trees in his woodlot into finished products. Last winter he cut 2500 board feet of lumber which he used to repair his farm buildings. Instead of cutting all the trees as he goes Albright harvests the timber systematically.

Grow Winter Barley—
Winter barley is a possible substitute for winter wheat as a grain crop in southern Pennsylvania counties east of the Alleghenies. It yields better and makes a more excellent feed for livestock than does wheat.

Meet Drought Shortage—
Retail prices of fresh produce in the principal larger city markets have not been seriously affected by the drought, because the shortage in local produce has been met by shipments from a distance.

Move to Clean Ground—
Pullets on range will be benefited if the brooder house is moved occasionally to a clean area. Placing the hoppers on a clean ground is another small chore which will help to prevent the spread of diseases and parasites.

Water Is Needed—
Cows in milk need plenty of water at all time and especially in hot weather according to State College dairy specialists.

Find Quality Counts—
Co-operative organizations early found that unless they had a uniformly graded product, their selling plans fell by the wayside. Highly efficient methods of grading and packing were adopted and these are now integral parts of all successful fruit and vegetable organizations.

Feed Livestock Well—
For the best results livestock need feed and attention. They cannot develop properly on empty stomachs any more than an automobile can run without a supply of gas.

Put Corn in Silo—
The most feeding value will be obtained this year by putting the corn crop in the silo.

PLEASANT GAP YOUTHS HELD FOR THEFTS FROM MT. STAND

Three Brothers in Jail, Two Others Released on Bond—Caught by County Detective.

Three brothers from near Pleasant Gap were committed to the Centre county jail and two other young men from the same vicinity were released on bail for their appearance at the September term of court, following their arrest by County Detective Leo Boden on charges of participating in a number of larcenies at the roadside stand of John H. Detwiler on the summit of Nittany Mountain, according to an article in the Keystone Gazette of last week.

All but one of the young men plead guilty to the charges made against them at hearings before Squire Kline Woodring. On the night of June 23, Melvin Scott, 21, his brother Leonard Scott, 18, and Joseph Baird, 19, all living near Pleasant Gap, are alleged to have unlawfully broken into, entered and stolen merchandise to the value of about fifty dollars from the Detwiler stand. At a hearing in Squire Woodring's office Friday afternoon Leonard Scott and Baird plead guilty while Melvin Scott would not admit that he was guilty. All three were held under $500 bail. Baird furnished bail but the others were unable to produce bail and were placed in jail to await the decision of the court.

The second theft was committed the night of July 30 at the same stand and about the same amount of merchandise was taken. Leonard Scott and Clarence Travis, 18, were arrested for this larceny and at a hearing before Squire Woodring last Wednesday afternoon plead guilty of the charges. Their bail was fixed at $500 each. Travis furnished bail and Scott was placed in jail. During the hearing on Wednesday Scott and Travis implicated Scott's other brother, Arthur Scott, 17, as a participant in the second theft.

Detective Boden was unable to locate Arthur Scott at the time the other arrests were made. The fifth member of the "gang" was thought to have headed in the direction of Harrisburg. State Police called Boden on Tuesday morning notifying him that a young man answering Scott's description was being held at Lewistown. The detective brought the lad back to Bellefonte the same morning and at a hearing in Squire Woodring's office he plead guilty and was committed to jail in default of $500 bail.

Both Melvin and Leonard Scott have criminal records, Melvin having served in the Huntingdon Reformatory and Leonard in the Glen Mills School.

These two are alleged to have been the ringleaders of the group. Candy, cigarettes, and chewing gum were among the articles stolen. Arthur Scott's home is in Mifflin county but he was working on a farm near Centre Hall at the time of his arrest. Melvin and Leonard Scott and Travis were employed at the White Rock quarries at Pleasant Gap.

Salt Relieves Fatigue.

Men who work in high temperatures often lose considerable weight from unusual respiration and perspiration. They also lose much salt. In England a series of experiments on workers in hot mines seems to show that a small quantity of salt taken daily relieves the men of much of their exhaustion. A drink based on a solution of about one-third of an ounce of salt to a gallon of water was most effective in warding off fatigue.

Slander and Libel.

Slander is oral defamation; that is, speaking false and malicious words concerning another, whereby injury results to his reputation. Libel is the false and malicious defamation of another expressed in writing, or in print, or by pictures or signs, tending to injure the reputation of an individual, and exposing him to public hatred, contempt or ridicule.

Tomb Used as Billiard Parlor.

It is unusual for a tomb to be used for any purpose other than that for which it was erected. An exception may be found in Allahabad, India, where a magnificent mausoleum, built to contain the remains of an Indian prince who was murdered by his father, has become in recent years a billiard parlor.

Acorn Alcohol.

Up to the present time no industrial use has been made of acorns, but recent experiments show that alcohol can be made from them. Shelled acorns contain about 40 per cent of starch, which can be readily saccharified and then converted into alcohol.

Twenty Miles Up.

The geological survey says that according to science there is an altitude at which water would not boil; however, no one has ever reached that point, as it is about twenty miles above sea level.

A STOCKMAN near Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, was breaking a pair of young mules. As he was hitching one of the animals to a heavy stone-wagon it broke away, terrified by the clanking chain traces.

Hasty telephone calls to neighbors led to its discovery, three miles distant, entangled in its harness and a wire fence. Quick action saved the mule from serious injury.
