BANDIT SKIDMORE STILL ELUDING CAPTURE Shot His Way Through Cordon of State Police and State Highway Patrolmen, Wounding Several of Them.

George C. Skidmore, wanted in Pittsburgh for killing Charles P. Hammond, a crippled gas station attendant, after emptying the till, shot his way through a cordon of State Police and Highway Patrolmen, when discovered at Red V camp, on Rattlesnake Mountain, above Julian, has not been captured there is no certainty he was seen anywhere after he fired and hit his intended captors on Saturday afternoon. Skidmore is a crack shot and was supplied with modern guns and side-tion. In making his getaway from the camp, which he occupied during much of the summer, State Highway Patrolman J. G. Olmes, of Bellefonte, and Wm. Fox, keeper of the aviation beacon on Rattlesnake Mountain, were shot from ambush as Skidmore sought to break away after eluding capture in the mountain cabin. Sergeant W. C. Bear, of the State Police, and Corporal C. I. Gross, of Bellefonte, also were fired on, one shot knocking Bear's cap from his head, another passing through Gross' trousers. Olmes suffered wounds in the right arm and chest. Fox's arm was shattered and amputation was necessary. William Dutton, named by a confederate in a confession, was captured in the cabin, as was also Leonard Skidmore, a brother of George Skidmore, the bandit. Leonard is a student in the Bellefonte Academy, and George was a student there two years ago. Headmaster Hughes speaks well of both of them as students.

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL Held in the Centre county jail to await sentence for escape from the Rockview Penitentiary, Joseph Chall and Steve Waters broke out of the prison Monday night and disappeared.

Both prisoners escaped on August 31 from the penitentiary, where they were serving terms for larceny. Five days later they were recaptured at Springs Mills. Chall was serving a sentence of from four to ten years and Waters from five to fifteen years. They were sentenced in the Allegheny county court. The escape was made from a steel cell by sawing the rivet heads from one of the ceiling plates. After this was removed a hole was cut through the remainder of the ceiling, which formed the attic floor, and through the roof. From the roof the wall of the prison yard and later the ground was gained by an improvised rope. Shortly after the two men were captured, two men visited them, and it is surmised they provided saws which were used in making the escape. The tools left behind were exceptionally crude.

With best regards, I am, Very truly yours, A. M. ALLISON. [Prof. Allison was principal of the Centre Hall High school during the term of 1902-03, and memory takes us back to our days in the class room with him as our tutor.
