WHAT PINCHOT DID FOR CENTRE

The Pinchot publicity bureau in Philadelphia, on Monday, sent out a statement purporting to have been prepared by (quote) Judge Arthur C. Dale of Centre county. In which the former Judge would make it appear that the former governor is the only candidate in the running. We cannot see why Pinchot, the premier, continues to hold spite against Centre county. He did plenty when he gave us a judge.

PINCHOT ON THE STATE CAPITOL STEPS.

All records in cost of a political meeting were broken last week in Harrisburg when Gifford Pinchot spoke in the State Capitol. Previous to his coming orders went out that every State employee in the city should report to his or her superior and attend the rally, each being given an hour off duty for the purpose.

As there are 9,000 employees and each receives on an average of $1 per hour, the total cost to the taxpayers of the State was $9,000. The pathetic part is that by actual count just 1,180 persons attended the meeting—leaving at least 7,900 employees who either were not for Pinchot or else were not sufficiently interested to hear him.

Previous to the meeting the Harrisburg Telegraph, one of the warmest of Pinchot supporters, predicted that at least 15,000 would attend since it was known that the Pinchot leaders in 32 central Pennsylvania counties were ordered to bring their cohorts and swell the throng. The same newspaper very carefully neglected to tell how many did attend.

Pinchot spoke from the State Capitol steps, saving himself the expense of hiring a hall.

CLUB COW WINS AWARD FOR UNION COUNTY BOY

Paul Zimmerman's Holstein cow has won a trip to the National Dairy Exposition at St. Louis, Mo., October 11 to 18, for her young owner. A member of the Union County 4-H junior cow club, Paul took such good care of his Holstein that she produced 13,333 pounds of milk and 563.3 pounds of butterfat in a year, the best record made by a club cow in the State. As a result, young Zimmerman has been invited to attend the nation's greatest dairy conclave as guest of Successful Farming, Des Moines, Iowa.

Centre County Cattle Free of Tuberculosis

An official of the State Department of Agriculture was in town on Monday posting notices warning against the shipping of cattle into any portion of Centre county unless done so under quarantine regulations. Centre county has been declared to be a "Modified Tuberculosis Free Accredited Area" and as such no cattle may be shipped into it except under strict regulations. This move is to protect the tubercular-free cattle in the county from being contaminated by cattle not free from this disease.

The State Game Commission a few days ago ordered an open season on antlerless deer of more than 60 pounds in weight, with entrails removed, in six full counties and portions of 17 other counties. The season on does in the specified areas will be on the last three hunting days of November, the 27th, 28th and 29th. Eight special licenses for doe hunting will be issued for each buck killed last fall in the specified areas. The open season is declared in Carbon, Elk, Jefferson, Juniata, Snyder and Union counties.

Among the seventeen counties opened in but portions are Clearfield, Huntingdon and Millheim.

Penn State Hen Lays 301 Eggs In a Year.

A Penn State White Leghorn hen, with a number like an auto license tag for a name, is walking proudly around her pen at the college poultry plant, for she has set a new college record. Keystone Katy, as K-1943 is called by attendants at the college, is the first Penn State hen to lay 300 eggs a year. She started production October 7, 1929. With 15 days to go she laid her 300th egg September 22. Evidently she laid another, for two days later she laid another egg and then went into a molt.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES SPEAK IN PENNS VALLEY

Kistler, Hemphill, Bard, Winston, Ginstery and Miller Spoke at Millheim, State College and Bellefonte.

Residents in Penns Valley were given an opportunity to see and hear the four leading candidates on the Democratic State ticket, on Saturday, at Millheim. A representative group of taxpayers greeted the candidates and listened attentively and applauded lustily. The candidates were: Sedgewick Kistler, Clinton county, candidate for United States Senator; John M. Hemphill, Chester county, candidate for Governor;

Guy K. Bard, Lancaster county, candidate for Lieutenant Governor; Lucy D. Winston, Cumberland county, candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs; Don Gingery, Clearfield county, candidate for State Senator;

John G. Miller, of Centre county, candidate for Representative in the General Assembly. All made brief addresses in Millheim.

After viewing the improvements and the recently completed buildings at Penn State college, a public meeting was held there in the evening, and later on in the court house in Bellefonte. It was the most largely attended political meeting held by either of the major parties in a long number of years, and until almost the last word uttered by the candidate for governor every one remained seated or stood in aisles. The closest attention was given each of the candidates on the State ticket.

Mr. Hemphill in his address declared that State College and other State institutions were materially hampered and their progress seriously retarded under the administration of the present Republican nominee for gubernatorial honors. Pinchot, the Democratic nominee said, cut and slashed the legislative appropriations in both bienniums and the hospitals, their inmates, and the general public suffered.

"Pennsylvania State College paid its price," he said. "Your institution, constituted as it is under the Act of 1865, is almost entirely dependent upon legislative appropriation. As it has grown and as it has become the efficient and useful institution that it is, its financial needs have, of course, been likewise increasing. Each biennium up to that of the first Legislature under Mr. Pinchot, both legislatures and Governors met the needs of this useful institution.

The college became hamstrung and hampered for the first time in its history in 1923 when my opponent, then Governor, struck off from the legislative appropriation $789,214 which was about 30 per cent. and likewise cut in half a special research appropriation of $100,000. "The work of this splendid institution was previously impaired and with great difficulty your faculty, trustees, and students eked through these two years with injury to all. "In his second biennium, beginning in 1925, Mr. Pinchot slashed $641,884 from the legislative appropriation which was again almost 30 per cent. Furthermore, he insisted, in connection with the giving of the balance of the appropriation, that certain requirements of his be complied with by the trustees, indicating that he did not have confidence in your trustees, unless and until there was imposed upon their free judgment some arbitrary thoughts of his.

"In neither of these two bienniums was anything whatsoever given to your college for its building program. "As a result of these four years, it was further necessary, during the Fisher administration, to call upon the State of Pennsylvania to expend, in order to bring the college back to the position that it must maintain, a very much larger sum of money than would have been normal in the four preceding years. And this large sum of money included $711,000 to care for an accumulated debt that was necessarily incurred by your management to get through the critical four years preceding wherein your institution had been denied proper, adequate and necessary financial help.

"Thus we see that the Fisher administration has had to expend, and except the budget burden for so doing, an abnormal amount of money upon your institution by reason of the false economy, arbitrarily and egotistically imposed by one of 10,000,000 of us who happened to be Governor in the years 1922-1926. "I see no efficiency in this nor do I see in it a recognition on the part of the man, who would presume to impose his individual judgment in such an arbitrary way upon the legislative enactments, of the rights of the people's representatives.

"Of course, executives sometimes find it necessary to curtail reckless appropriations of legislative bodies, and it is quite proper that they should do so in many cases, but with Mr. Pinchot it seemed to be the rule to cut and slash without regard to the enactments of the people's representatives with regard only for his individual opinion, with serious damage to our State welfare and educational and hospitalization program, and last, but not least, without due regard for businesslike efficiency and economy.

"He was not nearly so economical with the construction of the Roosevelt Boulevard from Millrod to Erie as he was with the State institutions and hospitals charged with the education of our youth and the care of our sick and unfortunate."

PENN STATE'S APPLE CROP TO BE 14,000 TO 16,000 BU.

The apple crop on the Penn State College farms is being harvested. Several car loads were shipped ten days ago. The crop is estimated at 14,000 to 16,000 bushels. The quality is very good and the yield heavier than last year. Thinning of the fruit resulted in overcoming the bad effects of the dry season. Commercial orchards where this process was not carried out are producing a larger per cent. of under-sized fruit.

Considering the generally bad business conditions throughout the country and lack of employment, those who have the handling of the apples in hand, are hopeful of receiving a fair return for the fruit. The figure per bushel, f.o.b. State College is guessed to be close to $1.35.

GAS IN TIOGA COUNTY.

Excitement continues over striking gas in Tioga county. The flow of gas on the Luther Palmer farm in Farmington township has been temporarily stopped by the sealing of the well by the Halliburton process of forcing cement under pressure between the outside and inside casings. Some of the cement found its way into the casing from the bottom and plugged the well. Work has been in progress of drilling through the 900 feet of cement which will have to be penetrated to again release the flow.

Eight hundred leases have been filed in the Tioga county register and recorder's office.
