Centre Hall Loses First League Game.
Centre Hall High lost its first league game of the soccer season, when the strong Boalsburg team defeated them by a 1-0 score. The game was one of the fastest and hardest fought games that has been played here for some time.

As far as playing was concerned, it is the consensus of opinion that Centre Hall had the better of the argument until the break came against them, and Boalsburg took advantage of it and scored the only goal of the game by the way of a penalty kick. In the waning minutes of the game the locals put up a heroic battle to score but Boalsburg arose to the occasion and bravely defended their slim margin of victory.

For Centre Hall, it was their best game of the season. Team work, a vital essential, was finely displayed throughout the entire game. Gentzel was outstanding on the line, with his great fighting spirit, and Luseplayed his usual brand of defensive soccer.

On Tuesday, October 22, the boys will encounter the Penn State Freshman team at State College. This game should prove unusually interesting to Centre Hall fans, as Jack Bradford and John Wert, former stars of Centre Hall sports, are both on the team there.

The next league game will be played at Port Matilda, October 31.

Volley Ball Victories—

The players on the team are: Theresa Eye, captain; Evelyn Colyer, manager; Mary Reiber, Marian Shirik, Ruth Reiber and Violet Smith.

The team was coached by William Weaver, the star volleyball player of the school.

GREGG TOWNSHIP VOCATIONAL SCHOOL NOTES

Installs Program Clock—

The Gregg Township Vocational School, last week, made another progressive step by installing a program clock and new signal system in the school. The clock automatically calls and dismisses classes by ringing a series of bells. It also controls an outside gong for indicating the beginning of sessions after intermissions and noon as well as in the morning. The clock automatically discontinues ringing the signals at night and Saturdays and Sundays. This modern device was presented by a recent graduating class

Life Work Well Done in Abodes of Content

A young married woman with a baby that took much of her time and care said she was discouraged when she thought how little her life work mattered compared with her husband's business. "He talks of large affairs," she explained, "and things I don't know anything about. My husband's work seems so large and mine is so little."

But the woman who felt that her life was caged and circumscribed was doing the creative and constructive work of building a home in a little house; and she did not realize that in so doing she fulfilled the law of her being and nobly served the race.

The nation is full of little houses where pure content abides. The misery that fills the divorce courts and gets into the headlines is so exceptional as to be "news." Most families are bound by ties of tender devotion, which the occasional friction or tension of dwelling in close proximity cannot destroy. Most husbands and wives are faithful and loving and indispensable to each other. Books and plays that discolor the universe with sensational misrepresentation, with untrue readings of life, cannot by their lying version efface the fact that most of the people most of the time—living in families, loyal friends, good neighbors, honest citizens—are trying to do right and in the low, narrow rooms of little houses are finding space for dreams as lofty as the stars.—Philadelphia Ledger.

East Indians Protect and Feed Wild Animals

A visitor walking along the dirty, dusty streets of Ahmadabad, India, a city which has 250,000 inhabitants, is often surprised at the number and size of the feeding places for birds. Some of these are built of marble and cost several thousand dollars. Sometimes there is a simple feeding platform supported by a single column. The platforms, which are from 12 to 20 feet above the street level, are reached by little stairways.

The wild birds come fearlessly to these feeding places and mingle with the pigeons and English sparrows. The feed is spread out on the floor and covered with a well-constructed roof which protects the birds from the fierce heat of the sun and also from the rain.

The Jains are the wealthier class of Indians. In their temples boxes are provided into which the worshippers drop coins for the purchase of bird feed. For the Jains, in common with all Hindus, do not believe in taking animal life.—Boys' Life.

and was purchased from and installed by Stanley C. Berly, Rebersburg electrical contractor.

The faculty and the students of the school can be very proud of this modern system.

School-Community Fair at Howard—

The annual school-community fairs at Howard and Hublersburg were held last Thursday and Friday respectively. This year's fairs probably rank among the best ever held in these communities. There were not only a greater number of exhibits but the quality of the exhibits was far superior to that of past years.

The Howard fair proved to be the larger of the two. There were eleven grade or rural schools competing in the grade class. These schools brought in an abundance of high quality products from the farm, the home and the class room. The grade teachers should be especially congratulated for the fine exhibits they put up.

There was some keen competition in the High school class. Each class tried to outdo the others, thus giving four exhibits which were extremely hard to place. Here again quality was stressed and judging from the exhibits, the boys and girls are learning considerable about selection.

Gordon Singer, physical director of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A., conducted games for the smaller children. The High school football team met the Howard Alumni team as the main athletic attraction of the afternoon.

The judging of exhibits was done by the following persons: Agricultural products, Mr. McCool, County Agent of Clinton county; Home Economics, Miss Ella Reynolds of the Home Economics Extension Department; and Academic, Lewis Lenhart, asst. county supt.

The Howard fair had a total of 2859 exhibits. This exceeds the total of any other year.

Hublersburg Fair a Fine One, Also—

The same fine things can be said of the Hublersburg fair that were said about the Howard Fair. The Hublersburg fair was somewhat smaller in number of exhibits due to the smaller number of schools in the district. There are just five rural schools in Walker township in addition to the two grades in Hublersburg, but every school had an exhibit. Here again the teachers have conducted their part of the work.

The program at Hublersburg resembled that at Howard except for the soccer game in place of football and the entertainment given in the school auditorium.

The afternoon meeting was one of the nicest parts of the fair. The judges were each called on for a few short remarks as were Mr. Rogers, county superintendent, and Roy Decker, a former resident of Hublersburg and who is now doing graduate work at Penn State. The High school girls put on a short play. Several selections were furnished by the school orchestra.

There were a total of 1227 exhibits at Hublersburg.

Tomatoes

Diet, which is one of the favorite obsessions in these days of discontent, has given us many a laugh at the expense of the calorie hounds, but one cannot help feeling a wee bit sorry for the lad who wrote to the Times medical department the other day. He said:

"My muvver says I am a blue blood. She is on a diet for something I can't spell. She says diet will cure anything. What diet will I use so as not to be a blue blood but have it nice and red like the rest of the boys?"—Los Angeles Times.

Not So Much Interest

I have observed in reading that it is frequently said of the hero that he "knows books," and is able to talk about them. This being admitted, it is at once concluded he is a man of education and character, and worthy of all confidence. The most interesting people I know do not talk much about books, or mention them; I have never been in a bookish atmosphere, except when occasionally in company with publishers or writers.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

THREE ESCAPE FROM ROCKVIEW "PEN"

Prisoners Take Advantage of Darkness Caused During Storm Friday Evening and Scale New Iron Fence.

Three prisoners on Friday evening during the storm which visited this section, made their escape from the Western penitentiary at Rockview, and guards are still searching for them.

The men, all of whom were trust es, are James Duffy, sentenced from Crawford county for breaking and entering and larceny, to from 5 to 10 years; Nick Dubush, of Allegheny county, forgery and larceny, 5 to 10 years, and J. L. Morrow, Allegheny county, robbery, 4 to 9 years.

The escape was made about 7:30 o'clock. Rain water ran along an electric wire, and soaked through defective insulation, causing a short circuit. A fuse blew out, extinguishing the lights, until repairs could be made.

The three took advantage of the opportunity and scaled the new iron fence at the east end of the cell block. The usual $50 reward each is offered for their capture.

Evangelicals Name Bishops.

The election of a fifth bishop, the Rev. George Edward Epp, Cleveland, Ohio, concluded the sessions at the quadrennial convention of the Evangelical church in Milwaukee, Wis. Other bishops elected to fill the five American and one European bishoprics were: Rev. M. T. Maze, Harrisburg, Pa.; Rev. L. H. Seeger, Lamars, Iowa; Rev. John S. Stamm, Kansas City, Mo.; Rev. J. F. Dunlap, Cleveland, Ohio; Rev. S. J. Umbreit, Berlin, Germany. The convention voted to cut the number of bishoprics from six to five. Bishop S. C. Bayefogel, Reading, who has served for 44 years, was named bishop emeritus when he refused to ask for re-election.

The President's Law Enforcement Commission promises to tell the world, after November 4th, whether prohibition is being enforced. The result will be the opinion of eleven minds.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the large barn on the farm of Harry Janet, at Plum Grove, near Unionville. When the fire was discovered by a passerby, the flames had made such headway that it was impossible to save the buildings or contents, which included 18 head of cattle, 4 horses, 3 calves, about 500 bushels of potatoes, farming implements and harness. The loss has not been estimated.

A LIVESTOCK dealer telephoned a farmer near Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, and offered what then was a high price for five calves, although he was looking for a larger shipment. Remembering several neighbors who had good quality calves for sale, the farmer bought nine by telephone and closed an advantageous deal with the broker. The whole transaction was completed in less than an hour.
