Mrs. Lucy Wilkinson, of Harrisburg, is visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. Ellen Wilkinson.

On Sunday, they, with some friends, spent the day with friends in Unionville.

FARM CALENDAR

TIMELY REMINDERS FROM PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

Cull Low Producers

Poor cows and heifers from inferior animals should not be carried through the winter. Sell them now and feed the hay to the rest of the herd. An empty stall is much better than one occupied by a poor cow.

Change Practices Slowly—Make changes gradually in the management of pullet flocks to avoid upsetting the birds, say Pennsylvania State College poultry specialists.

Will Judge and Show—Members of the 4-H clubs in the State will have an interesting time showing their products and judging corn and potatoes at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg next January.

Sow Needs Exercise—Plenty of Exercise and a variety of good feed will put the brood sow in good condition for her work in producing the spring litter.

Water Is Essential—Milk is approximately 87 per cent water. Cows producing large amounts of milk will drink 150 to 300 pounds of water apiece each day. Drinking cups furnish the cow with water when she wants it. They soon pay for themselves.

Apply Manure, Too—Where the growth of sweet clover is short, the deficiency of organic matter can be made up by applying barnyard manure before the ground is plowed for potatoes.

Hardy Alfalfa Yields More—Hardy strains of alfalfa have averaged from 474 to 651 pounds more hay per acre each year than common varieties in experiments at the Pennsylvania State College.

"EAT AND ENJOY IT" IS MOTTO OF THIS EXPERT

In recent years we have had a perfect deluge of advice on our eating habits. "Eat and grow fat," warns one school of diet experts. "Eat and grow thin," urges another. But there is one expert who has no particular diet fad to exploit, and if she has any particular motto to suggest it probably would be, "Eat and Enjoy It."

She is Miss Helen Maxwell, whose department, "The Kitchen Cabinet" is a regular feature of this newspaper. Thousands of women newspaper readers throughout the United States look to Miss Maxwell's "Kitchen Cabinet" for recipes of every variety of savory dishes, which they know members of their families will enjoy eating and which are not only palatable but nourishing and offering the proper ingredients of a well-balanced diet as well.

One reason why her recipes and her practical advice on household matters are so popular with them is because she understands so thoroughly their problems and their resources. That is because she was born and reared in a rural community, and it was upon a foundation of first-hand practical knowledge of the life of a woman on the farm and in the small town that she built her college education in do-meat science. Miss Maxwell is a native of Neenah, Wis., where she still makes her home. After she was graduated from the Neenah High school she went to the University of Wisconsin as a preliminary to teaching school for several years. She followed this by taking a course in domestic science and receiving a diploma in household economics at the Milwaukee-Downer school, during which time she was teaching household economics in Milwaukee.

For the next two years Miss Maxwell was engaged in domestic science extension work for the State agricultural colleges of Iowa and Nebraska. In that work she was called upon to give farmers' wives advice on how to plan their household work so they could do it more easily and satisfactorily than it had been done before, and many a farm woman in those two States have her to thank for taking much of the drudgery out of their work.

Then Miss Maxwell became a lecturer and demonstrator at the numerous farmers' institutes which are held in that State under the auspices of the University of Wisconsin. She has been a frequent contributor on household subjects to the publications of the university and with her co-worker she prepared the Women's Bulletin for Wisconsin farm women, then thousand copies of which are distributed annually.

Such is the record of the expert who writes "The Kitchen Cabinet" for this newspaper. We feel sure that every woman reader will find in it much that will be helpful, for users of "Nellie Maxwell recipes" find that they have a common bond whenever women who pride themselves on their cooking get together and "swap" ideas on what to give the members of their families to eat.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper. The lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the interiors of the new Fisher bodies provide a new degree of comfort and luxury; greater roominess; fine quality mohair or broadcloth upholstery; more pleasing interior fittings; and a new, completely equipped instrument panel.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better to provide more thorough satisfaction for the owner.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers the smooth performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock absorbers—a safety gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.
