

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Vernon Godshall has been selected a member of the Penn State Glee Club, and will sing baritone.

Thomas H. Houghton, of Millburg, is in charge of the Centre Hall railroad station during the time W. F. Bradford, the regular agent, is gone to hunt bucks in Seven Mountains.

While Albert Emery is off on a week's hunting expedition in the Seven Mountains, C. E. Flink is carrying mail on rural route No. 2 from Centre Hall.

A daughter, named Kitty Lou, was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dowe, in Lansing, Michigan. The mother, before marriage, was Miss Violet Gutelius, of Millheim.

Mrs. Jennie Lingle, on Sunday, accompanied her son, James B. Lingle, to his home at Kennett Square, where she expects to stay for at least a week, and perhaps until Christmas time.

The Penns Valley Ministerium will meet in the home of Rev. Prunz in Spring Mills at 7:30 Monday evening, December 31st. The paper for the evening will be read by the host. All ministers of the organization please note the date and be present.

Mrs. Frank McKinney and two children are at the McKinney home at the State House, Seven Mountains. Mr. McKinney was also at the parental home over the week-end, but went back to his work in Altoona on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keener and daughter Miriam, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lesher and daughter Ruth, were guests of Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Keener over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keener are the parents of Rev. Delas Keener.

Miss Miriam Moore, of Hershey, spent the Thanksgiving vacation at the home of her parents. She was accompanied by Mrs. E. W. Loveland and daughter, Miss Ruth, who is art supervisor in the Hershey schools, while Miss Moore is one of five First Grade teachers in the same school.

Korman Spicher, of Philadelphia, and Charles Bradford, of Pottsville, were two of the Bradford hunting club to find their way to the Bradford camp on Thanksgiving day. Both are former Potter township residents and never fail to be scouting through the Seven Mountains during this season of the year.

Mrs. Annie Shawver, of Penn township, tenant on the Ralph Stover farm, is confident that the large Guernsey bull she owned died from strychnine poisoning. The animal was closely examined and it is claimed there are good evidences of death from poison. The bull was brought to the Voght rendering works, here.

Rev. W. A. McClellan, of Rockwood, Somerset county, made a business trip to Potter township, coming here Sunday. He stopped with his brother-in-law, John H. Runkle, east of town, until Wednesday when he returned home. Rev. McClellan is living retired since leaving Rebersburg where he was pastor of the Reformed church.

W. W. Kerlin, on the evening of Thanksgiving day, talked to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kerlin, in St. Petersburg, Florida. The weather conditions in the peninsula state were quite different from here. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kerlin were well and in good spirits. The telephone service was good, the conversation having been interrupted.

Mrs. Frank Wible, daughter Miss Grace, and son, Kermit Wible of Three Springs, were week-end guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Kirkpatrick, at the Presbyterian Mansa. Kermit is a student in Shippensburg State Teachers' College, and Miss Grace is teaching art in all of the grade schools in Beaver Springs, as well as several branches in the 3A and 4th grades. After leaving here, Miss Wible graduated from West Chester State Teachers' College, making art a special study.

Kryder Frank, while standing near the crossing at Hagan's garage waiting for a favorable time to cross the street, had his cap knocked from his head but he is unable to explain what happened. A truck driven by Ray Decker, of Colyer, on making a proper signal, made a left hand turn and was hit lightly by a motorcycle going in the same direction, and from some where came a small pole to which a steel trap was attached, landing near Mr. Frank. He thinks that perhaps it was a part of this outfit that "decapped" him. He did not feel the stroke, nor were the glasses he was wearing interfered with. One thing is clear, it took only a second for it all to happen.

TELETYPE NETWORK SERVES N. J. POLICE

A network of telephone-typewriters linking together police units in 33 cities and towns is the latest and most efficient weapon employed by New Jersey in its fight against crime. It is similar to the system placed in service throughout Pennsylvania last winter.

The New Jersey system began to function October 1 and the first message transmitted was an address by Governor Larson.

The New Jersey system is interconnected with the Pennsylvania network, and also with similar systems in New York City and Westchester County, N. Y. In this way information can be sent from one state to another in a few seconds, thereby increasing police efficiency and lessening a fugitive's chances for escape.

During the first eight months the Pennsylvania telephone-typewriter system was in service, more than 10,000 messages were sent out. Approximately 1,100 of the messages were descriptions of persons wanted by police for specific crimes, while 3,000 messages pertained to stolen automobiles.
