FARM CALENDAR

TIMELY REMINDERS FROM PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE

Improve Poor Pastures—
Lime usually is the first essential in improving pasture sods that are poor and weedy. Superphosphate also should be applied at the rate of 400 lbs. or more per acre. On soils of deficient potash, at least 100 pounds of muriate may well be added or a 6-12-6 or 9-10-10 mixture applied liberally.

Some Flowers Need Stakes—
A number of perennials and other flowers require staking. Chief among these are dahlias, campanulas, certain phloxes, asters, chrysanthemums, and gypsophylla. The stakes are most conspicuous if painted green.

Grow Early Plants—
The coldframe is indispensable for growing early plants and small vegetable crops to maturity. The plants will have to be started in the house, a hotbed, or a greenhouse. Instructions for building and operating these are found in Circulars 129 and 135 which can be obtained from the Agricultural Publication Office, State College, Pa.

Care for Planting Materials—
As soon as trees and shrubs are received from the nursery they should be unpacked and heeled in temporarily. Later when weather conditions permit they can be planted permanently, say ornamental horticulturists of the Penn State College.

Feed Grain to Cows—
If roughage is scarce or poor in quality, the grain ration for dairy cows should be increased. Profits in milk production are not realized thru skimping on the feed bill but by liberal feeding of good cows and weeding out poor ones.

Save Trees from Stock—
Pasturing the farm wood lot is a poor practice. Trees and livestock do not mix. The trees are likely to suffer more than the stock.

Must Be Practical.
Idealists think all newspaper owners should be filled with high and lofty motives, that nothing should be printed except what is calculated to uplift and exalt. To hear them tell it, if they were publishing a newspaper, they would never print anything that failed to measure up to their lofty standards. Unfortunately, perhaps, few of us are filled with such ambitions. Perhaps it is equally fortunate that most of us who are producing newspapers are faced with the prosaic necessity of earning a living. For this reason even though we may have high aspirations, we know that most of our readers are not interested, so we try to produce the kind of paper we think will interest them most. A merchant might believe that his customers would get more out of life if they would all wear blue neckties. But if they show a marked preference for flannel shirts he sees to it that his stock of flannel shirts is always complete.—The U. S. Publisher and Printer.

We passed by the prison buildings at Rockview Penitentiary, on Sunday, where Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague were spending their last day on earth, awaiting the morrow to go to their doom. Uniformed and armed guards were stationed at all entrances to the prison. The day was cheerless. All this flitted into the picture, but we noted a decided incongruity—the American flag, symbol of freedom, was proudly flying to the breeze from a mast at the top of the huge cell block. Somehow, Old Glory did not seem to us to belong there.

The Union Bank of Altoona, a private institution, closed its doors on Tuesday. Steady withdrawals were responsible for the action.

I. O. O. F. Banquet.

The I. O. O. F. of Pine Grove Mills and Graysville held their annual banquet at Pine Grove Mills on Thursday night of last week. There were more than 150 members and visitors present.

A bounteous feast was served consisting of oysters, chicken, and all the delicacies which appeal to the appetite.

A program was given after the meal by the following entertainers:

Rev. Brown of Graysville brought many laughs by his store of stories which he revealed.

The night was enjoyed by all present.

Steve Matis Killed.

Steve Matis, while walking on a highway near Norwalk, Conn., was hit by a truck and was almost instantly killed. He was in company with another man who, although seriously hurt, was able to give an account of the accident. The driver, supposed to have been blinded by an approaching car, did not stop.

Matis lived on the Brockerhoff farm near Old Fort, in 1922. From there he moved to Buffalo Run valley. He left his home four years ago and since has been wandering over the country. He was aged 52 years. The body was brought to Bellefonte for interment.

He was born in Europe and is survived by his wife and three children: John, Michael, Stev, Elizabeth and Helen, at home; and Mrs. Steve Yakelch, of Bellefonte. One sister, Miss Anna Matis, of New York city, also survives.

Yiddish Made Up of Variety of Tongues

Yiddish is a middle German dialect derived from Hebrew and Slavic influences. It is the language spoken by the Jews in eastern Europe, the most widely spread dialect of the Jews. Those Jews who, toward the end of the Middle ages, left Germany for the Slavic lands (Bohemia, Poland, Galicia and Lithuania) spoke the middle high German of their places of origin and up to the sixteenth century wrote it quite correctly, although they employed the Hebrew alphabet. The absence of active intercourse with Germany, however, led in time to a process of simplification of morphology, and syntax. Thus the imperfect, subjunctive, and to a large extent the neuter gender were lost; all the prepositions came to be constructed with the dative, etc. At the same time the German sounds underwent certain changes, and a large number of Hebrew, Aramaic and Slavic words were incorporated in the language. The resultant idiom, the Yiddish, supplanted the Slavic spoken by the primitive Jewish settlers in the east of Europe, and has been carried to all parts of the world, including Germany, admitting words and idioms from all the languages with which it has come into contact.

Father and Son Banquet Successful—
The banquet which the boys of G. T. V. S. tendered their dads last Wednesday was most highly enjoyed by everyone present. To begin with the dinner, served and prepared so well by the home economics girls under the direction of their supervisors, was one of the main features of the evening. Grape fruit cup, creamed chicken on patty cakes, mashed potatoes, peas, salad, ice cream and cake, were outstanding foods on the menu. The program consisted of talks by R. P. Campbell representing the fathers, Harry Condo '31 speaking for the sons. H. C. Petteroff, Department of Public Instruction, gave the address for the evening. Prof. Hall of Penn State and Mr. Rogers, county superintendent of schools, were on the program. Entertainment was furnished by a boys' quartette and monologues by John Zuhler '33 and Harry Leitzi '31. From the standpoint of attendance little was left to be desired, as all the boys were present with their dads with the exception of one father who was unable to attend. All members of the school board were guests of the boys at the banquet. This banquet in its second year has resulted in one of the finest events of the calendar of the school from the standpoint of all concerned.

Locals Win Two Games from Beaver Vocational—
Last Friday night at Spring Mills the Beaver Vocational boys' and girls' basketball teams went down to defeat before the G. T. V. S. teams. The girls won by a score of 18-10. The G. T. V. S. boys more than wiped out their defeat at Beavertown some time ago in a two extra-period game when they lost by two points by Friday beating the Beaver boys 39-18. Both teams play this Friday night in the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. where they will be out to score their second victory of the season over the Bellefonte Hi-Y boys and girls. Friday night, March 6, boys' and girls' teams from East Penns Valley High will be played at Spring Mills.

The announcement of the expenditure of $100,000 by the Pennsylvania Railroad company for yard facilities at Bellefonte, is believed to be the result of a scheme to use the L. & T. for a short-route freight haul from Sunbury to Tyrone.

J. Victor Brunhart, of Smulton, Miles township, announces his candidacy for the nomination for county commissioner on the Democratic ticket in this issue of the Reporter. Miles township has produced some noteworthy commissioners in years gone by.

The MINE WAS PARALYZED... BUT SKILLED SERVICE PUT IT BACK ON THE JOB

BEFORE the fire could be put under control generating equipment at the mine had been damaged beyond repair. A complete shut down was threatened — men must be laid-off for an indefinite period. It was the business of West Penn engineers to find a way out — to have the mine operating as quickly as possible — to keep the men employed.

To be sure, that meant building a two-mile transmission line. And it meant erecting a transformer station. But an organization of skilled workers was ready for any emergency. Trained and experienced engineers were available to check and test every step of the construction.

Night and day the work went forward. Two days after the breakdown the mine was in operation again. Miners who had been faced with enforced idleness were back on the job. West Penn people had again demonstrated, in the service they had given, their vital interest in the prosperity of the workers and of the industries in the territory served.

The pride you take in your home and your community is shared with you by the West Penn people in your territory. Every day... day after day... they are using their skill and experience... their training and foresight to express this pride of theirs in terms of dependable and uninterrupted West Penn service.
