Penn State will be host to Keystone rural folks at the annual Farmers' Field Day, June 16. The program will include demonstrations, talks, observation trips to experimental plots, laboratories, gardens, orchards, flocks and herds.

Eighty cans of brook trout from the Pleasant Gap hatchery were distributed in the waters of Elk creek and spread over a distance of about 2 1/2 miles. The fish, were on the average about six inches in length, the total number released being about 1200.

When the loan payments on veterans' certificates were made available, Mr. Hoover was all worked up for fear the needy veterans would not get their money first, after having told them in his veto message that they couldn't have any.

Miss Catharine Davies, of Altoona, was a week-end guest of Miss Corn Lise at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Lutz, in Centre Hall. Both the young ladies have been teachers in the Altoona city schools for several years.

John Treaster struck water on his farm at a depth of 197 feet. The water rose 51 feet. The well was put down by the Kohl Brothers, and is so located that the water may be pumped into a cistern on high ground and from there run by gravity to the house and barn.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mothersbaugh and three children, of Boalsburg, on Sunday were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Durd, in town. The ladies are sisters. Mr. Mothersbaugh is a Republican candidate for county commissioner at the coming primaries, and had it not been Sunday he would have been soliciting support among his Republican acquaintances in town.

Leroy Cronin, aged 9 years, one of the children in Treasurer Ophians home, Loyville, died recently in a Harrisburg hospital. The boy had moved beyond regulation bounds or play to the incinerator where he played with fire. The burns were of the third degree and were on the legs and lower part of the body. His home was at Dubois, at which place the body was interred.

Over one hundred people enjoyed a profitable evening at the Sprucetown Methodist church last Friday evening. The regular meeting of the Nittany League of Youth was held at that time. In addition to other interesting features, the Rev. Mr. Eakin, a Presbyterian missionary from Siam, brought an inspiring address on "Orientating the New Missionary."

J. W. Foreman, an operative patient at the Centre County hospital, since the beginning of last week, is reported by his family as improving. Thursday of last week one of his lower limbs was amputated above the knee to check the spread of an infection of a serious nature. He had been suffering for a long while prior to submitting to the operation. Mr. Foreman and family live in the Penns Cayo district and engage in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Reiber are caring for Eleanor Herr, six years old, until school closes in April. She was a pupil in the Earlstown school when Mrs. Reiber taught until the family, with whom she lived moved to Mill Hall. The teacher became attached to the child and as a consequence is giving her a home, for the present, at least, and, of course, takes her with her to school every day. Eleanor is said to be a bright pupil and fair to look on.

Commuter Would Like Help in His Dilemma

His breakfast hadn't agreed with him, he had lost at bridge the night before and he had to run for the 8:05. As he hadn't finished his usual cigarette on the way to the station, he stood on the platform to finish it. The train started and just as it was gaining speed, a girl tried to hop to the last step. She missed the step and was hanging on, when the commuter grabbed her and pulled her up to the step.

He expected, after the girl composed herself, a smile of gratitude or at least a few words of thanks. He did not expect the torrent of abuse which she hurled at his head.

"If it hadn't been for you," she raved, "I would have pulled myself up and wouldn't have lost my new opera pump."

The commuter, stunned, found his way to a seat and hasn't made up his mind yet whether to help women in distress or let them—help themselves.—New York Sun.

Many Strong Tributes to Virtues of Garlic

Garlic is one of the most highly esteemed and heartily despised of vegetables. The ancients praised it with enthusiasm, as a cure for all sorts of bodily ills—among them indigestion, sunstroke, tuberculosis, bronchitis and smallpox. It figures in the Bible: "We remember," the rebellious children of Israel told Moses, "the fish which we did eat in Egypt freely; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlic."

Historians say that the pyramids could not have been built but for the garlic fed to the slaves and captives. Why says: "I cannot overpass the foolish superstition of the Egyptians who use to swear by Garlic and Onions, calling them to witness in taking their oaths." Garlic a god! The French do not deny it, but as a condiment they seem almost to reverence it. So also, assuredly, do the Italians, to whom it is a necessary of life.—Boston Transcript.

Good of Plants in House

The presence of plants in the house often proves a guide to the sanitary conditions existing within the domicile. If a room is so badly ventilated or dark that plants will not thrive in it, it is certainly not a healthy room for human beings. Plants are very sensitive and react quickly to any poisonous gases that might be in the air. The begonia is regarded as a guide to health. It was recently demonstrated when a begonia doing decorative service in a dining room was found to wilt in a few days. Being replaced by a second one, the same thing resulted, and it was suggested

There must be something wrong, a leakage of gas perhaps. An investigation being made, a tiny gas leak was discovered under the floor. The volume of gas was not sufficient to be detected by smell, and yet it was great enough to have an immediate action upon the plants.

Forests Are Depleted

Cuba has turned much of its former forest land over to the growing of sugarcane, says the American Tree association. The coast line of Santo Domingo, and the lowlands of Porto Rico, are dotted with plantations of cocoa, coconut and cane. But a great deal more land has been cleared of tree growth than is ever going to be used for agriculture in the islands of the West Indies. Much of it's a wasting asset today. Porto Rico and Trinidad have depleted their once widespread forest to a pitiful fraction. The republic of Haiti has hardly a stick of accessible commercial timber.

Shoppers' Faces Snapped

To obtain natural expressions of shoppers a Berlin merchant has in his store window a camera which, with its operator, is invisible to the gazers. One picture of a girl looking longingly at a string of pearls bore the title "Covetous." Another showing a young man surreptitiously looking at a pair of silk stockings, and evidently making up his mind to go in and buy, was unlabeled. Two small boys gazing at a mechanical train was charming, and equally so was that of a group of children watching a butterfly crawl up the window pane.

More Useful

Brown was called to the police court to receive a reward for rescuing a drowning woman. "I am pleased to pin this medal to your breast," said the magistrate, "and also to lodge $25 to your credit in the bank as an acknowledgement of your great bravery."

Brown showed some little embarrassment, and then said, "If it's all the same to you, sir, I'd rather you'd pin the $25 to my breast and lodge the medal in the bank."—Weekly Scotsman.

Iowa Brothers Set New World's Record in Ford

IOWA state officials and civic leaders witnessed the establishment of a new world's non-motor, non-wheel stop automobile endurance record recently, when Ralph and Roland Davis, brothers, brought their Model A Ford to a halt at the east entrance of the state capitol in Des Moines after 2,775 hours and 46 minutes of continuous driving. When Governor Hammill, standing with Walter Ferrell, executive secretary of the Iowa Chapter of the American Automobile Association, gave the signal to stop, the Ford had traveled a total of 47,138.3 miles over all sorts of roads in all sorts of weather and had exceeded by 33,680 miles and more than 2,355 hours the American non-stop endurance record which, theretofore officially recognized, was made by a much heavier car under almost ideal conditions on the Indianapolis speedway last year. In the course of the endurance run, the car, known as "The City of Des Moines," covered practically the entire state of Iowa. Engineers who examined the Ford at the conclusion of the run asserted that neither engine nor chassis showed evidence of the grueling strains to which they were subjected during the 116 days of continuous driving. Both apparently, according to the engineers, would have been good for another 50,000 miles or more.
