

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Ross, at Lemont, a few days ago.

Mrs. Ferd Bohn, a relative of M. D. Bradford, died at her home in Willard, Ohio.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Park are on a trip through Mexico, one of the places visited being Tzuana.

Children's services will be held at St. John's Union church, Farmers Mills, evening of Sunday, June 7.

Tonight (Thursday) the two-act musical drama by the Centre Hall High school will be repeated.

Mrs. F. D. Lee, of town, spent a few days this week in Williamsport, the guest of Mrs. Harriet Almstead, and other friends.

Samuel Wise, who had been able to be about after a prolonged siege of rheumatism, is again confined to his home in Spring Mills.

Mrs. Ida Weaver, of Colyer, went to Reading one day last week, where she will be employed at a Home for the Friendless, at 1016 Centre street.

P. C. Frank, Potter township constable and veterinary, is suffering a slight illness. Mr. Frank is 81 years of age and has been active all his life.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Yeager, of Johnstown, are guests at the Potters Mills hotel, where they will remain indefinitely, having disposed of their property in the Flood City.

Supposedly defective electric wiring is attributed as the cause of a fire in the Pastime theatre, Lewistown, early Wednesday morning. The most of the damage was done to the stage.

Wm. F. Keller, on Tuesday, went to Johnstown, returning the same day and bringing with him his sister-in-law, Mrs. Grace Ditzel. James Brooks took his place on the rural mail route.

Wednesday evening of this week the prayer meeting hour in the local Presbyterian church was given over to Mrs. Olmstead, of Philadelphia, who spoke on the subject of "Peace."

Mrs. E. R. Shreckengast and Miss Jean Hosterman, of Millheim, were pleasant callers at the Reporter office on Tuesday. Miss Hosterman is a former linotype operator on the Millheim Journal.

The work done on the town reservoir was all undone through the result of the heavy rains. Surface water on the north and east sides forced its way through the walls from the outside at numerous places.

The following persons visited Mrs. M. H. Meyer on Sunday: Her grandson Harold Musser, and wife, Horace Gutelius, from Mifflinburg; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shantz and son, from Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Samuel Wasson, of State College, R. D., has been seriously ill since last Friday. On Monday she was taken to the hospital at Danville for observation. Her friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

Herbert Garis, who was in the Centre county hospital for a week during which time he was treated for injuries received while working at State College, was discharged a few days ago and is recovering nicely.

Mrs. Mildred Scott Olmstead, executive secretary of the Womens International League for Peace in Pennsylvania, was billed to speak in the Presbyterian church yesterday (Wednesday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

About two hundred Army planes of various types flew over the Valley on Friday of last week on their flight from Ohio to New York. The greater part of the planes flew in formation, which on passing this point was close to perfection.

Black locust trees are being planted on the high banks caused by cuts through hills to build the concrete road between State College and the Stormstown road. The banks resulting from fills are being set with the Virginia creeping vine.

Beckley College, Harrisburg, today (Thursday) will graduate two young men from Centre Hall, both products of the local High school. They are Wilbur McCallan, from the civil engineering course, and Bruce Knarr, from the accountancy course.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Fisher, on Monday, attended the funeral of Mrs. Newton Ulrich, at Selinsgrove, an aunt of Mrs. Thomas Lusk, nee Miss Lola Ulrich, of Philadelphia, formerly of this place. Mrs. Lusk, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, who has many warm friends here, attended the funeral.

The automobiles you want most to avoid are the ones with low numbered licensed tags and those whose drivers are liveried. These pay little attention to the common rules of the road, stop signs, traffic lights or pedestrians. Even a cop with a leather reb or band makes the wester forget that others on the road are human beings.

Mrs. Louis Rossman was stricken with paralysis on Saturday evening at her home in Spring Mills. Her left side was affected as was also to some extent her speech, and has since been practically helpless. Her daughter, Mrs. Elaine Bitner, and family, live in the same house, and, of course, the daughter is doing all she possibly can to comfort her.

Miss Margaret Alexander, R. N., who underwent an appendicitis operation a short time ago in Philadelphia, having been on a case when becoming ill, returned to her home here with her father, A. W. Alexander, on Thursday of last week. Mrs. Alexander, who has been with her son, H. O. Alexander, and family, in Wrenonah, N. J., for a few weeks, is expected home this week.
