

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Daniel Daup, Jr., is driving a Dodge-8 sedan secured in a deal with its brothers, the State College Dodge auto dealers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kerlin and their youngest daughter, Miss Dorothy, were guests over the week end of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hosterman.

Misses Gertrude Bruyn and Eleanor Blake, of Hollidaysburg, are spending a two weeks' vacation as guests at the Methodist parsonage, in Spring Mills.

Miss Tillie P. Keller, of the local post office force, for the past week has been confined to her bed owing to illness.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bloom and Mrs. Daniel Bloom, on Monday, attended the funeral of Mrs. Estie Fetterolf, at Woodland. The deceased is a niece of the former.

James Irvin, of Boalsburg, and John Irvin of State College, were among the Mifflinburg high school alumnus who attended the annual banquet in Mifflinburg recently.

Keep in mind that Saturday is the date for the festival to be held by the class of 1932, G. T. V. School, at Spring Mills. The affair will be held on the athletic field at that school.

The Presbytery of Huntingdon met Monday for a one-day session in Birmingham. These June sessions will be held regularly hereafter, and will be in addition to the April and October sessions.

Miss Sara Haines, of Millheim, who completed the term of teaching in the local High school begun by Cloyd Fisher, was re-elected for the 1931-32 school term at a meeting of the board on Monday night.

D. A. McDowell, of Spring township, was a business visitor in Penna Valley on Monday. He is the lone Democratic candidate for Recorder, and is planning a vigorous campaign before the general election.

The airways division of the United States department of commerce has removed the tower and landing lights from the emergency landing field on the hill east of Clearfield. The field has been entirely abandoned.

Kenneth Haines, of Rebersburg, pitcher for the Scranton team in the N. Y.-Penna. league, for several years, was given his release this week. He will likely be seen in Rebersburg's lineup in the Centre County league.

The livestock in Centre county is estimated to be worth $2,269,980, and in the State, its value is placed at $148,351,000. This is a reduction of 24 per cent in value in 1930. More than half the total value represents dairy cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hagan, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lee and Laura Breon drove to Williamsport last Wednesday and after sight-seeing and visiting friends in Montoursville, Mr. Lee drove home with a new Dodge sedan.

Miss Sara Neff, of Centre Hall, R. D., who taught in the East Penna Valley High school, Millheim, for the past two years, has been elected a teacher in domestic science in a school in the State of Delaware, at a very substantial salary.

Orvis Horner, with Steril Stoner as helper, is casing the Clement Luse double dwelling house with brick. Red brick and white mortar are being used. The brick were delivered here by truck at considerable less cost than the freight rate from Mill Hall.

Roy Gentzel, a lad of ten years, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bloom, west of town, in some manner fell and ruptured himself. He was taken to the Centre County Hospital on Friday, and on Tuesday an operation was performed that promises an ultimate cure.

Ward Miller, son of the late Dr. E. M. Miller, of Millheim, will graduate from the dental department of Temple University, Philadelphia, at the commencement this month. He expects to locate in Sunbury, following a dentist about to retire, having parlors located on the city square.

N. L. Bartges, supervising principal of the borough schools in Avis, received his master of science degree from Pennsylvania State College. His A.B. degree was received from Susquehanna University. The subject of his thesis was "The Relative Effectiveness of Teacher Correction versus Pupil Correction Methods of Marking Spelling Papers."

Mr. and Mrs. William Ashley arrived here from Baltimore, Md., on Saturday evening, and have since been the guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Mitterling, mother of the latter. They came to Baltimore from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where they had been for a period of about three months and where Mr. Ashley was undergoing treatment which proved beneficial.

Harry Wolfe, farmer east of town, while harvesting corn the latter part of last week, "ate dust" without a relish. He was stooping when a rifle ball whizzed past him and striking the ground threw dirt into his face. He made an effort to discover where the shot came from, but was unsuccessful until a few days later, when he learned that a neighbor's boy had been shooting at crows at the edge of a woods.

F. Delaney corralled a Nash coupe in his barn yard on Saturday evening and refused to open the bars until the driver deposited a guarantee sufficient to repair a woven wire fence torn down in making the entry. The request was complied with. The car was driven by A. J. Creeger of Altoona. He came down the Earlstown road on too great a speed to negotiate the turn toward Old Fort. Several cars heretofore were driven through the same barnyard fence by strangers unacquainted with the highway at that place and Mr. Delaney thought it was time for him to begin making collections and he did so.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. P. Turner and daughters, Misses Ellen and May, of Harrisburg, were guests Saturday and Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kerlin. Mr. Turner is a sales manager for the Wayne Feed company.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Puff and family, of Jersey City, N. J., returned to their home Tuesday after having been with Mrs. Puff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fetterolf, on a short visit. Mr. Puff says he has not been regularly employed by the Pennsy since last fall, and that men are being laid off continually.

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Goodhart, on Tuesday morning, drove to Harrisburg where they attended the State undertakers' convention during Tuesday and Wednesday, closing today (Thursday). The convention is being held in the State farm show building, that place having been selected as the only one suited in the city for the large display hearses, and other equipment of funeral directors.

COLLECTING NATIVE
PENNSYLVANIA DEER

Col. H. W. Shoemaker Comments on Effort of Dr. A. F. Clement, of Pittsburgh, to Prepare Collection for the Carnegie Museum.

Col. H. W. Shoemaker, in the Altoona Tribune, writes as follows concerning Pennsylvania deer:

"A news report from Pittsburgh states that Dr. A. F. Clement, of the Carnegie Museum, is preparing a collection of mounted Pennsylvania deer.

"It is doubtful if such a group could be mounted up at the present time. The deer in Pennsylvania today are practically all descendants of Maine, Michigan, Kansas and Florida deer, purchased by the late Dr. J. H. Kalbfus and associates of the State Game Commission when they re-stocked our forests with deer about 25 years ago. It is impossible to think that there is a single pure-bred deer of the old native stock now existing in Pennsylvania. The native deer were all but extinct when Dr. Kalbfus began his restocking operations with deer and elk.

"There were two native types of the Virginia deer in Pennsylvania, the Northern and the Southern deer, known to the old hunters as 'big deer' and 'little deer.' The range of the 'big deer' was extended south of the Juniata river, yet many of the largest racks of horns were secured along the southern limit of the range in the Seven Mountains.

"When Dr. Kalbfus began importing deer, except for scattering specimens there were, only wild native deer left in six localities in this State, five of them in the range of the 'big deer,' one in the range of the 'little deer.' These were Cameron, Elk, and Clearfield counties, as district one; the so-called Black Forest in the Northern Tier of counties, district two; the region south of Renovo and north of Beech Creek, in Clinton county, district three; the North Mountain region in Columbia and Luzerne counties, district four; the Seven Mountains, mostly in Mifflin county, district five; and the Mount Alto region, in Franklin county, district six; the last, as stated before, the sole remaining range of the Southern or 'little deer.' Yet some of these little deer, while not so 'hefty' as the Northern type carried heavy racks of antlers. The biggest Pennsylvania deer, living or dead, this writer ever saw was, when a small child, a mounted deer which stood on the porch of one of the cottages of the old West Branch Camp Meeting, the year before the 1859 flood. This deer was said to have dressed 350 pounds, and, if memory serves aright, the antlers each must have measured 27 inches. It was killed in the extreme northern part of Clinton county in 1855, but the name of the slayer is lost.
