FARM CALENDAR

TIMELY REMINDERS FROM PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

Renew Strawberry Bed— As soon as the picking season is over, work should be started in rejuvenating the strawberry bed. The first step is to remove the straw mulch by raking. Cultivation should follow immediately. An application of nitrogenous fertilizer then will stimulate new growth.

Stake Tall Flowers— To prevent damage by wind the taller flowers should be staked, say Penn State ornamental horticulturists. These stakes should be a inconspicuous as possible.

Plant Late Garden— Next month Chinese or celery cabbage can be planted for fall use. The last planting of corn can be made July 1 to 5. Sow late lettuce and endive. Beets and carrots for winter storage can be sown July 1. Beans for the fall crop also can be planted.

Control Broodiness— Hens may be broken of broodiness by removing them from the flock, placing them in a broody coop, and feeding a balanced ration.

When Paint Falls— Very often old coatings of paint fail to give adequate protection against weathering long before they flake noticeably. This is especially true of flat-grained boards of light weight, fine textured species that hold paint well.

Sow Cover Crops— Sod orchards which were plowed this spring should be reseeded now to a cover crop. Legumes, such as alfalfa, sweet clover, common clovers, soybeans, and vetches are preferable.

Fruit Thinning Pays— Thinning apples and peaches increases size of fruit, improves color, eliminates breakage, and reduces harvesting costs.
