THIRTY DENOMINATIONS BACK KANESATAKE

Camp Kanestatka, on Spruce Creek, now in progress with two hundred and twenty-five High school girls in camp, is an enterprise backed by some thirty of the Protestant denominations in Pennsylvania for the training of lay leadership for the churches and is under the direction of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, of which the Centre County Sabbath School Association is a part.

During the season of 1930, over 1100 young men and women, boys and girls have attended sessions in this great camp. Beginning early in June with first boys and then girls of junior High school age, every two weeks all summer during 1930 saw the camp well filled with a new group; High school girls, young women and young men have gone there for training in Christian living. Again this summer the enrollment for the various camps is large and indicates the interest in Christian Education shown by these young folks.

Most interesting perhaps is the type of work which is done here; each morning is spent in study and recitation and discussion in courses on a public school level—courses in Bible, naturally, but courses also in psychology, camp craft, vocational choice and many others. Each afternoon is spent in guided recreation and interest groups, thus training this fine group to return to a local community fitted to lead the recreational life of that community. Each evening is spent out of doors in competitive games and about the council fire.

Here are 1100 just ordinary boys and girls enthusiastically living each day to the full—living in an atmosphere which is guided by the principles and philosophy of Jesus and surprisingly to those who do not know young people, going out to translate this philosophy into their everyday life in school, college and business.

Business and professional men all over Pennsylvania are investigating both interest and money increasingly in this project for "growing" a leadership for the youth of the Commonwealth, and increasingly our High school, college, professional, and business young people are investing their own money in this training, not only for one summer, but for the entire five-year course.

The Smoothness of an Eight The Economy of a Four

Walter P. Chrysler ANNOUNCES

New PLYMOUTH Floating Power and FREE WHEELING

To produce in 1931 an achievement in motor car design, engineering and pricing so revolutionary that it transcends every previous standard of quality, performance and value in the field of the lowest price is to challenge the world.

That is precisely what the New Plymouth does. It challenges the previous finest in smoothness and performance. It challenges the world's greatest in motor car manufacture. It challenges every known standard of automobile value.

THE PERFECTED FOUR.

Chrysler Motors engineers proved time and time again that a Four is more rugged and longer-lived; that a Four is more economical to operate; that a Four of equal horsepower has as great, or greater, speed—as much, or more, jugging power—as fast, or faster, pick-up than any car of more than four cylinders.

And anyone who counts the number of parts in a Four as contrasted with a Six or an Eight knows that the Four is simpler.

There has been just one thing fundamentally wrong with Fours—with earlier Chrysler-built Fours as well as others. THAT was vibration.

It was characteristic of the old-time Four that its power impulses were distinct—plainly marked by what engineers call "interrupted torque" that sent vibrations through the frame and body to driver and passengers.

Now exclusive Floating Power makes the New Plymouth as smooth as an Eight. Here is power unshackled, yet power as smooth as satin, as soft as velvet. Here is power without vibration—literally floating; power so silken that even experts could not name the number of cylinders under the Plymouth hood, and many guessed the New Plymouth to be an Eight!

These are strong statements. You may take our word for them; but we much prefer that you prove them.

Come In, See and Drive the New Plymouth

PLYMOUTH CHALLENGES WITH FREE WHEELING IN ALL FORWARD SPEEDS.

In the lowest-priced field Plymouth gives you this epochal development in smooth, easy driving and economy. With Plymouth Free Wheeling you can shift gears between all forward speeds—without clutching. Here's a feature that adds zest and ease to driving in heavy traffic. Besides Free Wheeling Plymouth offers a new, easy-shift transmission that makes it possible to shift not only at speeds of 35 or 45 miles an hour but back into second at these speeds, when you need sudden acceleration, without clashing or grinding. Here's a feature that adds safety to driving where grades are stiff and steep.
