Search for Treasure Hidden by Notorious Bandit 150 Years Ago

Athens, Greece.—Treasure amassed by the notorious Ali Pasha of Tepeleni, who terrorized the Balkans 150 years ago, is being sought near Janina, in northern Greece, where the pasha held his court.

workmen hired by Ali and killed by him so that he alone would know the hiding place.

The splendor of Ali's court at Janina has become almost a legend throughout the Balkans. Ambassadors of the great powers came to him and the poet Byron was his guest. He was successively the ally of Napoleon and Lord Nelson. At the peak of his career his glory outshone that of the sultan in Constantinople.

Lifeguard at Sixty

Here is Mrs. Claude Martin, who is sixty years old and is president of the Joplin Y. W. C. A. board of directors. She has been a member of the Red Cross life saving guards for the last eight years and is on duty at various resorts where young women swim during the summer months.

Yet Ali arose from a humble beginning. He was born in 1741 at Tepeleni, a hill village in Albania. His father, who held the hereditary office of bey of Tepeleni, was killed by neighboring chiefs who seized his territory when Ali was fourteen years old.

All was left in the care of his mother Khanko, a woman of extraordinary character. She herself formed a brigand band and inspired the boy with her own fierce temper.

Within a few years he regained possession of Tepeleni and took vengeance on his enemies. Then, in secure his own power, he murdered his brother and imprisoned his mother on a charge of attempting to poison him.

All was left in the care of his mother Khanko, a woman of extraordinary character. She herself formed a brigand band and inspired the boy with her own fierce temper.

In 1787 Ali took part in the war against Russia and was rewarded by being made pasha of Trikala in Thessaly and Derwend-Pasha of Rumelia. His power was augmented when he succeeded in being nominated pasha of Janina.

It was only natural that his power should arouse the jealousy of the Sultan Mahmud II, who had formulated a policy of curbing the strength of the provincial pashas.

The sultan's pretext for an attack on Ali came in 1820 when the "Lion of Janina" violated the sanctity of Istanbul by attempting to procure the murder of an enemy in the very precincts of the sultan's palace. The bulk of the Turkish forces under Khursid Pasha were sent against him.

Although over eighty, he held his own for two years. He was forced to sue for peace in the spring of 1822.

He was granted an interview with Khursid Pasha, was received and dismissed with friendly assurances. As he turned to leave the tent he was stabbed in the back. Then his head was cut off and sent to Constantinople.

Although Ali was known to have amassed much treasure, the existence of a buried hoard was considered a legend until the recent discovery of the document. Now the discovery of the tunnel has stimulated efforts to find the treasure.

Sleeping Sickness

Sleeping sickness, as known in Africa, is caused by the tsetse fly. It feeds on mammals and carries a parasitic organism which infects persons and causes the sickness. Its bite is often fatal to cattle and horses, although animals which recover are immunized. The fly multiplies from larvae, not from eggs.

Checked Chiffons

Checkerboard chiffons are a flimsy and fashionable fabric for warm days. The chiffons are of three colors—lime, emerald and beige, or rose, gray and blue—and are generally made on the bias. The checks are three inches square.

The Layman and Law

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Thrasher is a business man who has had nothing to do with college for twenty-five years, and nothing at all with college administration. He knows the price of steel and how eyebeams are made, and something of the methods of transporting these commodities from one part of the country to another. He could probably design a bridge if he had to, but unless cornered would assign the task to some subordinate and then criticize the design with a semblance of intelligence when it was presented to him.

For sports wear this smart Nile green angora short-sleeved frock with a neat bow applique at the V-neck is just right. With it is worn a shallow-brimmed panama hat, brown and white sports pumps and chamois gloves.

Uses "Crying Chair" to Cure Whining Children

"In our family of four children," writes a mother in the Parents' Magazine, "there are numerous disappointments, frequent bruises and occasional quarrels. Any of these," says she, "is likely to cause crying spells more or less prolonged, and sometimes prolonged according to the amount of sympathy and attention received. To reduce the crying to a minimum we placed a small odd chair in the corner of the sewing room and designate it as the 'crying chair.'"

"Now when anyone has to cry he is sent, or frequently goes of his own accord, to this corner by himself to cry until he is finished. The rest of the family goes quietly about its business and pays no attention to the crying one. Naturally the child soon discovers that he is wasting his time and making himself ridiculous, and the crying spells grow shorter and less frequent. In fact they have almost disappeared at our house."

Handbags

There are some lovely handbags in bright colored leathers, that look specially well with white clothes for summer. White is very popular this year, and bright accessories are good with it. They give it brightness and character, and help make it becoming.

Those with whom we can apparently become well acquainted in a few moments are generally the most difficult to rightly know and to understand.

him. He has managed an office force of draftsmen and has given a few sales talks to the fellows who go out to dispose of the products of his plant; and that is as far as his administrative duties have led him.

He could manage the largest educational institution in the country with ease, however, and without further experience; and he admits it to me modestly, but with assurance. The less he knows about the work of a department, the more certain he is that if he had his hand on the steering wheel he could guide the intellectual machine swiftly and smoothly over the rockiest roads. He can't be made to see that there is a joke and that he could no more manage my job, simple as it seems, than I, never having had either mechanics or mechanical drawing, could execute a bridge design.

It was Socrates who through a long life having associated with all sorts of people discovered that every man was willing to admit that he knew his own business thoroughly whether he was a philosopher or an artist, a teacher or a common laboring man; but he observed further, also, that they were sure they knew about every other man's business as well and felt quite competent to offer criticism on the way it was being conducted. The wise man, Socrates concluded, is the one who knows most about his own business and who trusts the other man to run his, since he really is likely to know little about it.

It is curious how much the inarticulate know about art and the layman about law.

Quits the Amateurs

George Heard, one of Canada's outstanding amateur athletes, has deserted the simon pure ranks and will play as a member of the New York Rangers in the professional hockey league. For the past two years Heard has led the scoring in the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey league and had turned down all professional offers. He's a star baseball pitcher, and made records for himself in cricket, boxing, rugby and other sports. He'll report to the Rangers in New York in October.

Ex-Convict Kills Himself for Love

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The last chapter in an ex-convict's attempt to regain the happiness he once had known was written with the man's suicide in the home of the woman he had loved in vain.

Nathan Corna, forty-five, Pittsburgh, paroled last December from Marquette (Mich.) prison, where he had been sentenced for killing a woman in Detroit, killed himself in the house of Mrs. Dora Ritt, a widow. For six weeks Corna had sought to win the love of Mrs. Ritt, she said.

Corna told her of his prison sentence, Mrs. Ritt said. "If I had loved him, I could have forgotten and forgiven—but without love, it was hopeless," she said.

As Corna finished his story and was about to leave, he slashed his throat, Mrs. Ritt said.

"Corna told me he had gone to Detroit from Pittsburgh when a young man and met a former Pittsburgh girl who was married and had one child," she added. "He said he fell in love with her."

"One day the woman was found dead and Corna was accused of the crime. For two years the case was fought in Michigan courts and he finally was sentenced to life imprisonment. He begged me to believe him innocent."

Two-Purpose Dress Is in High Favor Just Now

The double duty or two-purpose dress is in high favor just now. By this we mean the type of frock that can be worn with equal success and sartorial assurance in town and country. These frocks are not too easy to find, as most frocks are designed to fit and fill a very definite niche in the wardrobe. But this season, more attention has been given to this type of frock and so we now have frocks that we can wear in town and then motor out to the country without having to change.

The log is six feet in diameter, allowing plenty of room for moving around inside this tree on wheels.

Explosion Creates a New Process

Harry A. Clanton, shown above, World war veteran of North Carolina, has discovered a new glass decorating process which has been described as revolutionary. An accidental explosion of chemicals that spattered a container with a marvelous pattern of variegated colors enabled Clanton to work out the process. Three vases treated with the new coloring process were taken to Washington by the war veteran and submitted to Dr. Walter Hough, one of the curators of the Smithsonian institution, who declared he had never before seen anything like the color work on them. The designs are accidental and could not be copied.

Friendship Marred by

Distance in New York

In New York city it is possible to know an infinite variety of good citizens. You may scrape up an acquaintance with showgirls, professors of applied therapeutics, novelists, pugilists, Hindu swamis, tabloid reporters, toe dancers and captains of South American banana boats. You may even become warm friends of a bibliomaniac or a Hoboken bartender.

But what good will they do you? If you live in the Bronx, your best friends invariably live in Flatbush, and if you live on City Island, the boon companions you are just dying to see always reside in Jamaica or Jersey City.

So that if you are projecting an hour's friendly call, you have to travel on the subways two hours; you are maulled by the theater crowd, and manhandled by the downtown warehouse watchmen going uptown to sleep and the uptown swells going downtown to play.

And when you arrive at your friend's house at 10:00 p. m. limp and showworn, you find, of course, that he has quit waiting for you and has gone to a Rumanian fish house three blocks from your home which you left two hours ago.

Friendship in New York becomes too often a terrific chore. It is far easier to be content with the casual folk you rub against where your business or your thirst takes you. As a rule, therefore, the "people to your taste" are not to your taste in any deeper, spiritual sense, but they simply frequent the same resort or restaurant you do and are tolerable only because they can speak your jargon of art or business and do not attempt to assault you with beer mugs.—Ernest L. Meyer in the Forum and Century.

Desperate

The borrowing habit is not confined to the United States by any means. They actually do it in dear old London and are not in the least particular whom they borrow from.

One of the big London daily papers carries a classified advertising section, somewhat similar to the Times "personals" in which English people of high and low degree air their troubles. It was in this column that the following ad recently appeared:

"Will the persons who have borrowed Waverly Novels No 5, and Les Miserables Vol. I from Clivenden library, kindly return same to Viscountess Astor, M. P."

One mentions in passing that the at. P. after Lady Astor's name does not stand for motion pictures nor mounted police, but member of parliament.
