

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Yet a little while to September 15th. Mrs. H. K. Harter, of Altoona, had been a guest of Mrs. L. R. Lingle, in Centre Hall, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sweetwood, of Pottstown, are in Centre Hall on a short vacation, greeting former friends.

Ralph C. Tressler, tenant on the McCool farm at Red Mill, has an abundance of sweet corn, cabbage and tomatoes which he is offering for sale at reasonable prices.

Dr. W. E. Fischer, of Sunbury, former pastor of the Penns Valley Lutheran church, will be in charge of the Lutheran church here on Sunday morning, 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Auman are with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Auman, for a few days, having motored from their home in Steubenville, Ohio, arriving here Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Lingle came up from Kennett Square a few days ago and took home with them their two daughters, Ruth and Jennette, who had been with Grandma Lingle for the past six weeks.

John P. Condo, former sheriff of Centre county, of Aaronsburg, will again become a merchant, having leased the L. D. Orndorf business stand in Woodward. He expects to open his store the middle of next month.

Thomas S. Foss will move his wife and child to Centre Hall in an apartment being prepared in the Lambert house on East Church street. He will, however, continue working in the Springer barber shop in State College as heretofore.

The $50 acres of timber land in Union township, this county, belonging to the Grant Hoover estate, was purchased for $100, subject to a blanket mortgage of $20,000. The tract was purchased for a Williamsport bank that had claims against it.

The old dirty stunt of using a reflector from ball field bleachers is said to have been revived at a recent game in which Centre Hall was one of the contestants. The name of the person accused of the deed has not been furnished us, but he is said to be neither fat nor handsome, nor young—but tall.

Sanford Miller, of Altoona, is spending this week with friends in and about Millheim, and from there attended the Grange fair. Mr. Miller, formerly a printer, gave up that work and is now employed in the Gable Department store as a floor manager. About thirty years ago Mr. Miller was engaged as a job printer in this office, and is pleasantly recalled by many about here.

J. L. Long, of Renovo, is an extra man at the Centre Hall railroad station during the Grange Encampment. The position of assistant at both the Centre Hall and Coburn stations has been abandoned, which will leave Ray Brant, of Coburn, who filled the place for several months without employment, until he finds a place to "bump" some other poor devil even less fortunate than he.

Dr. McCluney Radcliffe and grandson, Roland McKay, of Philadelphia, motored to Centre Hall and for a few hours visited with Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Boozer, cousins, and also called on others. Dr. Radcliffe has long been associated with the Willis Eye and Ear Hospital, Philadelphia, and at the same time conducts a private office. His visits here are not frequent, but appear to be enjoyed.

The Reporter is sorry to note the condition of distress in which Charles Shook, young Gregg township farmer, finds himself at present. A rheumatic condition has grown from bad to worse, affecting his lower limbs until now he is utterly helpless insofar as walking is concerned. Numerous doctors and experts have been consulted, but no relief has been obtained. Mr. Shook suffers severe pain at times.

D. C. Redenbach, who since last spring has been in charge of the Schaeffer store here, has been transferred to Philipsburg where he holds a similar position. Both Mr. and Mrs. Redenbach were well liked personally and when in the store were attentive to business and most courteous. Their leaving town will be generally regretted. The store is now in the hands of Fred Lise, a graduate of the 1931 class of the local High school.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Rowe and son motored from their home in Atlantic City, N. J., arriving here Friday evening, to spend a week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rowe. Mr. Rowe, since going to "America's Playground" more than a score of years ago, has been engaged in the plumbing business, and for some few years past has been in business for himself. While the business slump is acute in Atlantic City, Mr. Rowe manages to be employed the greater part of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Searson are guests of Mr. Searson's brother, George Searson, and family, in Centre Hall. They came up from Florida recently where in 1914 they located in Tampa, going there from Conneville, this State. Mr. Searson is a contract builder and went to Florida early enough to reap from the general rise in real estate and building boom. He and Mrs. Searson have been coming North frequently of late, and like all who live in the Peninsular State, claim it so far superior in all ways to all other sections that trips out are only visits. Mr. Searson takes pleasure in showing a photograph of what a few kernels of Pennsylvania wheat will do when planted in Florida soil. A single grain tillers into many stalks, grows to a great height, and develops a monstrous head of plump berries.

MARRIED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. D. Frank Smith, tomorrow (Friday) will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, which event took place in Milesburg, Rev. J. J. Lohr, an Evangelical minister, performing the ceremony. Mrs. Smith, before her marriage, was Miss Sarah E. Mokle, and lived at Lemont, while Mr. Smith lived at what is now known as Rockview. The couple became housekeeping at Centre Furnace, now known under the name of Millbrook, near State College. The couple moved near Centre Hall in 1914, and a few years later moved to their present home in the borough. Mr. Smith for a number of years has been a State Highway employee.

The children of the couple are William E. Smith, merchant tailor, State College; Anna Mary, wife of Elmer Runkle, Centre Hall; and John E. Smith, a teacher, Wilkesburg. The grandchildren are Harold, Robert and William, children of the eldest son; Elwood, Sarah, Jay, Dean, Kenneth, and Jeanette, children of the daughter, and Wendall and Myra, children of the youngest son.

LIGHTNING STRIKES POTTER RESIDENCE IN TOWN

The Potter residence in town, owned and occupied by Miss Mary Delinda Potter, was struck by lightning Tuesday evening at about 5:30 o'clock. The fire damage to the dwelling was not extensive, but the loss from water is considerable. On the attic the firemen discovered chests and boxes filled with bed clothing, on fire, the fire not being confined to one locality. The flames were extinguished in a brief time after the attic was reached.

At first it was thought the fire was due to a short circuit, but an investigation revealed that the blaze was due directly to a bolt of lightning striking the house.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Jacob S. Derstine was an arrival here from Freeport, Ill., on Monday, and will spend a short time among relatives.

One cannot say so much for the dress of the average young girl on the park this week. Too many of them look too much as though they had been taken unawares and carted off from their homes.

Miss Jean Wagner, of Lewistown, and Donna McKee, of Millintown, are guests this week at the H. L. Ebright home. The latter will likely be located there permanently if present plans are carried through.

P. Byron Musser, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Musser, of Millheim, the former a P. R. R. employe at Sunbury, has been elected as commander of Milton Jarrett Norman Post 201, American Legion, at Sunbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Hosterman and son, Robert, of Coburn, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Krape and son Dean, of Aaronsburg, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Nickel, in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Smith and two children, who have been here for most of the summer, will return to their home in Wilkesburg on Friday. Mr. Smith will resume teaching in the North Braddock Industrial School after Labor Day.

Mrs. Mame Miller and son, Andrew, who have been living in an Iowa city for some years, arrived here a few days ago. Mrs. Miller, who before marriage was Miss Myrna Gregg, is well known to many of the Reporter readers who will be pleased to greet her.

Charles Brown, of Millheim, while working in a ditch at the Home Economics building now under erection at Penn State, was struck over the shoulder by a pole which fell when a cable broke. He was first taken to the Centre County hospital but was discharged a few days later.

Miles I. Potter, judge of the Union-Snyder district, and candidate to succeed himself, is reported improving at the Potter hospital at Middleburg, where he has been ill with an infection in his hand, caused by a minor injury. For several days the condition of the judge was considered serious.

Mrs. Harry Letchwardt, formerly Miss Ruth Moyer, with three of her six children, of Rio de Janeiro, South America, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Y. Moyer, of Cleveland, Ohio, were guests in town last week of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kerlin and Mrs. E. Devine. They came here primarily to attend the Rearick reunion held last week at the Foust Inn, Seven Mountains. Mrs. Letchwardt and children came to the States last November, after having been South for four years, and expects to join her husband, who is in Y. M. C. A. work, in the near future.

Carl Burkholder, aged about fourteen years, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Burkholder, at Earlystown, was thrown from a horse on Sunday morning, and at first it was thought he had been seriously injured. He was rounding up the cows in a pasture field when his steed fell, the youth falling clear but the horse in his struggles struck him. He brought the cattle to the barn and while milking, toppled from a milk stool and was carried to the house by his older brother, Eugene. Two convulsions followed in quick succession, but later there was a favorable response to medical treatment, and at present he has almost fully recovered. When Carl began to explain that the horse had struck him, those about him thought him delirious, since he had fallen previously to relate the incident in the pasture lot.
