Oysters on Saturday, at Mitterling's Cafe, adv.

Mrs. W. B. Fiedler a few days ago, badly sprained one of her ankles.

No marriage licenses were issued Register Rossman since those published in the last issue of the Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Odenkirk and Clyde Smith, on Monday, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Meyer, in Boalsburg. Mr. Meyer, postmaster in that place, has been ill for some time and is not improving at present.

Dr. H. L. Kline, of Youngstown, O., has been spending some time with his mother in State College and came here several times to visit with Mrs. Kline's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Boozer.

T. A. Hosterman and H. L. Ebricht took advantage of Monday being a holiday and drove to above McVeystown to fish for bass in the Juniata river. The former captured one bass of very fair size.

George Martin Shreckengast, son of Harry M. Shreckengast, of Farmers Mills, now a member of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary organization, was in town on Monday. He was in uniform and wore it well.

Mrs. Hubler, widow of W. Cook Hubler, formerly a resident here but now living in Spring Mills, was in town between trains on Monday. She stated her son, Harry Hubler, was conducting a grocery in Lock Haven.

The Centre County Rural Carriers' Association will hold its monthly meeting at Sunset Club house, Seven Mountains, on Saturday evening, J. R. Williams, of Fleming, is president and L. A. Ray, of Bellefonte, is secretary-treasurer.

The many friends of Fred Bender will be glad to learn that he successfully underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Teah private hospital in Lock Haven, and is on the road to recovery, although still a patient at the hospital.

Mrs. Mary Stahl is attending the State Sabbath school convention at Altoona, and Mrs. H. L. Ebricht and Mrs. S. W. Smith are attending the Synodical missionary society in Northumberland. All are representing the Lutheran church here.

Miss Mary Freeman, a Centre county freshman at Penn State, won one of the five McAllister scholarships which are assigned annually to the five counties of the State showing the highest ratio of students at Penn State to the population in the county.

Rev. Reed O. Steely, formerly of Bellefonte, when he was named a receiver in the Centre County Bank case, but now of Milton, was again appointed a receiver by Judge Johnston, this time for the Sunbury Safety Tire Co., a $250,000 concern.

The five voting machines ordered by Secretary Beamish arrived in Philipsburg on Friday and will be placed one in the first ward and in the second and third wards, two each. It is still a matter of interest what the county board of commissioners will do when an order of payment is asked.

Guy W. Jacobs and his youngest daughter, Rose Anne, were arrivals in Centre Hall on Saturday for a few days' visit with Mr. Jacobs' mother. Before returning home Mr. Jacobs made a trip to York to purchase some new machinery for the large ice plant in Steubenville, Ohio, of which he is the manager.

John L. Wetzler, of Milesburg, Democratic candidate for Register of Wills, with a part of the Wetzler band, made a tour through the valley Monday evening. The organization stopped in town and rendered a number of selections. Mr. Wetzler is one of the strong candidates on the Democratic ticket—strong in the sense of personal qualifications, good personality, and willingness to work during the campaign.

The Centre County Automobile Dealers' Association met in the Penn Belle hotel, Bellefonte, last Friday for an evening dinner and business meeting. The president, John Hafer, State College, vice-president, Harold Blue, also president of the Lyncoming Financing company, Williamsport, and R. S. Hagan, secretary-treasurer, Centre Hall, were present, as were also the greater part of the members throughout the county. No business of particular importance to the general public was transacted. The members from Centre Hall are Mr. Hagen, Dodge and Plymouth dealer; W. A. Homan, Chevrolet dealer, and Edward Vogt, the Ford dealer.

Miriam Brooks, aged seven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brooks, was brought to her home here on Saturday from the Centre County hospital where the Monday previous she underwent a mastoid operation. Her condition is very favorable. On Sunday she was taken to Dr. Foster's office for examination, and on the way the car in which she was being conveyed switched in the road and turned around, landing in a ditch. The little girl was sitting on her mother's lap, but in some manner was struck on the side of the head, causing her much pain for the time being. Mrs. Brooks and her aunt, Mrs. Hensyl Paucker, and the man at the wheel, Dan Irwin, were somewhat shaken up.

Harvey Decker Injured. Harvey Decker, aged about forty years, escaped serious injury on Tuesday evening when a wheel of a water tank truck passed over his body about the hip line without fracturing a bone. He was taken to the Centre County hospital immediately after the accident, where an X-ray revealed the condition noted above.

Mr. Decker is one of the George Seanson threshing crew, and while at work at the T. F. Delaney barn at Old Fort, he undertook to guide a truck carrying a water tank down the Old Fort hill. The truck got the better of him, threw him to the ground, one wheel passing over his body.

"SLEEPING" APARTMENTS AT FOUNT INN

A three-story "sleeping" apartment is being erected at Fount Inn, Seven Mountains, by Rufus Rearick, who has already made a number of improvements at the resort during the past summer. The new structure is being built immediately back of the Inn, and is 12 by 28 feet. The stairways will be outside, and will be built so that entrance may be made to each of the nine apartments, three on each floor. The interior will be nicely finished and furnished, with electricity for lighting. The framework of the structure is already completed. H. E. Foust, of Pottery Mills, being the mechanic in charge.

In addition to this rather unusual building, there will be erected a number of cabins. These will be strung along the side and on top of Sand Mountain, on portions of the eleven acres owned by Mr. Rearick. The material for the contemplated cabins is stored in the several pavilions on the ground.

BIRTHS.

A son, who was named Robert John, was born to Robert Joseph and Violet (Venrick) Swartz, in Potter township, October 3rd.

A son was born to Charles Daniel and Blanche Gertrude (Witmer) Weaver, Spring Mills, R. D. 2, on September 30.

A son was born to James S. and Anna (Tressler) Reish, Spring Mills, October 7th. He was named George Clair.

BREON-BOWER.

Clifford Breon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Breon, west of Millheim, and Miss Pauline Bower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bower, were married about three weeks ago in Illinois, according to word received by relatives. Both young people are well qualified to assume the responsibilities of married life and we wish them much happiness in their wedded life.

Baked Ham Dinner and Supper.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church will serve a Baked Ham Dinner and Supper in the social room of the church, on Saturday, Oct. 31.

The patronage of the public will be gratefully received.—Comm. adv.

Freedom from Care.

If you have ever suffered an automobile accident, you know the worry, anxiety and expense it causes. Why go through this anxiety? The Farm Bureau Farm Policy for farmers, or our Rural Policy for folks in town and small cities, frees you from worry. We pay the bills.

BOEN AT SPRUCETOWN, LIVES AT 106 YEARS

Living With Her in New Kensington, Ohio, Are a Son, 85, a Granddaughter, 59, a Great-Grandson, 31, and a Great-Great-Grandson, 6.

Believed to be the oldest, if not the only living mother of a Civil War veteran in the United States, Mrs. Susan Palmer Kennedy, who was born in Centre county when John Quincy Adams became the sixth president of the United States, recently celebrated her 106th birthday at the home of her granddaughter with whom she lives in New Kensington, Ohio.

On her birthday she received letters of congratulation from the President of the United States and from George White, Governor of Ohio. These messages she read in a high pitched voice to the four younger generations of her family.

Mrs. Kennedy was born in a white pine log house at Sprucetown, a settlement composed of four or five farms located just east of the main highway leading to Lewistown and about a mile from Pottery Mills. The steeple of the Sprucetown Methodist church can be seen from the main highway.

She is the oldest daughter of John and Mary Palmer. Her father's land included about eight acres which he farmed diligently since it was his only means of supporting his family of eight children. He kept two cows, four or five hogs and a few sheep. Following near the Palmer homestead was Laurel Run, a small stream which had an abundant supply of fish. This stream is a tributary of Sinking Creek.

In spite of her unusual tenure of life, Mrs. Kennedy remembers much about her life in Centre county. She recalls the Wolfe, McClintock and Stiver families, who were neighbors, and the Potter families who built the town of Pottery Mills and owned all of the town, which included several mills and general stores.

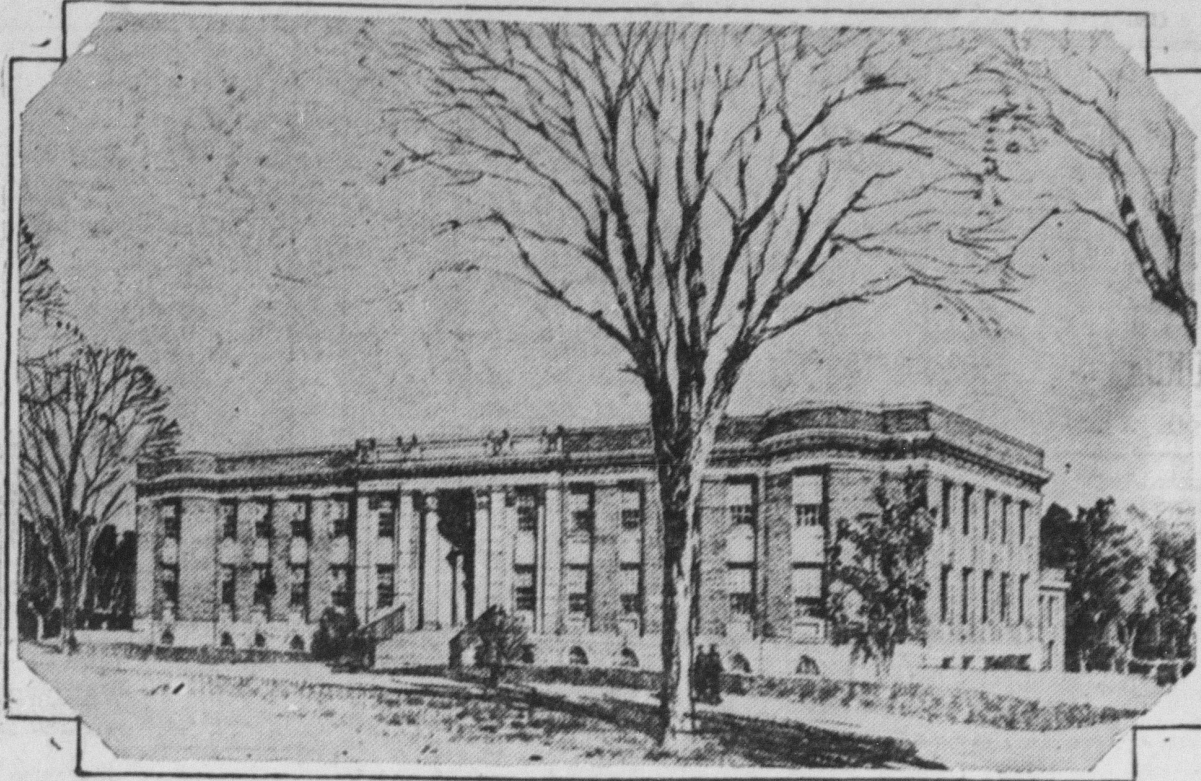

In 1842, when she was a young lady of 17 years, Mrs. Kennedy accompanied her parents in a Conestoga wagon to Junction City in Perry county, Ohio, where they made their home. There she met and married John D. Kennedy who later became Captain of Company K, 62nd Regiment of Ohio Volunteers, serving in that capacity for four years. Ten children were born to this union.

Capt. Kennedy and his oldest son served together in the Civil War. The father returned home after the war but the son died of measles in a Union army camp in Tennessee.

Living in the same house with the wonderful old lady are her son who is 85 years old, her granddaughter, Mrs. J. W. Ricketts, who is 59 years; her great grandson, who is 31, and her 6-year-old great-granddaughter.

Mrs. Kennedy eats well, sleeps well and is always cheerful.

Cornerstone of New Dairy and Creamery Building Laid Monday.

With the laying of the cornerstone of the new $500,000 dairy building at the Pennsylvania State College the other Monday, construction work is now moving rapidly. Completion of the building will provide the dairy activities of the college with adequate housing after years of overcrowding and inconvenient arrangement. Prof. A. A. Borland, head of the dairy husbandry department, said at the cornerstone laying.

Plans for the building call for a Tshaped structure with classrooms and laboratories in the main part and creamery activities provided in the rear wing. Funds for the construction were appropriated by the State Legislature last winter as an emergency measure to help relieve the unemployment situation.

Modern features of the new building provide facilities for instruction and research work in powdered milk, an industry which is growing rapidly. Pennsylvania alone produced 10,000,000 pounds of this product in 1929, Professor Borland reported.

There also will be facilities and special rooms in the new building for instruction and production work in refrigeration, ice cream, market milk, butter, cheese, and condensed milk. In the old building this work is handled in two rooms which are overcrowded and inconvenient. Glass lined hallways on each floor will prevent contamination of the products manufactured.

and yet permit visitors to observe the activities inside. Special class rooms will be constructed so that dairy cattle can be taken directly into the class rooms.

Congratulations from Governor Pinchot, messages from Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the college, and other Penn State leaders, a history of the dairy husbandry department and the college dairy herd, together with copies of college publications and a number of photographs were placed in a metal box and sealed in the cornerstone that they might be preserved as records of Penn State in 1931.

It has been some years since wheat fields at this season of the year presented such a promising appearance for a bumper crop. This condition presents itself in all sections of the valley.
